10.—(1) Any person aggrieved by the decision of the Commissioners with respect to the repayment of any excess duty paid, or by the amount of any duty claimed by the Commissioners, whether on the ground of the value of any property or the rate charged or otherwise, may, on payment of, or giving security as hereinafter mentioned for, the duty claimed by the Commissioners or such portion of it as is then payable by him, appeal to the High Court, within the time, and in the manner and on the conditions directed by rules of court, and the amount of duty shall be determined by the High Court, and if the duty as determined is less than that paid to the Commissioners the excess shall be repaid.

(2) No appeal shall be allowed from any order, direction, determination, or decision of the High Court in any appeal under this section except with the leave of the High Court or Court of Appeal. Further appeal by leave.

(3) The costs of the appeal shall be in the discretion of the court, and the court, where it appears to the court just, may order the appeal. Costs of appeal.

Section 10.

Commissioners to pay on any excess of duty repaid by them interest at the rate of three per cent. per annum for such period as appears to the court just.

Appeal without payment of duty claimed.

(4) Provided that the High Court, if satisfied that it would impose hardship to require the appellant, as a condition of an appeal, to pay the whole or, as the case may be, any part of the duty claimed by the Commissioners, or of such portion of it as is then payable by him, may allow an appeal to be brought on payment of no duty, or of such part only of the duty as to the court seems reasonable, and on security to the satisfaction of the court being given for the duty, or so much of the duty as is not so paid, but in such case the court may order interest at the rate of three per cent. per annum to be paid on the unpaid duty so far as it becomes payable under the decision of the court.

Appeal to county court.

(5) Where the value as alleged by the Commissioners of the property in respect of which the dispute arises does not exceed ten thousand pounds, the appeal under this section may be to the county court for the county or place in which the appellant resides or the property is situate, and this section shall for the purpose of the appeal apply as if such county court were the High Court.

Appeal from county court under 57 & 58 Vi ct. c. 30, s. 10.

Apportionment of duty.

14.—(1) In the case of property which does not pass to the executor as such, an amount equal to the proper rateable part of the estate duty may be recovered by the person, who being authorised or required to pay the estate duty in respect of any property has paid such duty, from the person entitled to any sum charged on such property (whether as capital or as an annuity or otherwise), under a disposition not containing any express provision to the contrary.

(2) Any dispute as to the proportion of estate duty to be borne by any property or person, may be determined upon application by any person interested in manner directed by rules of court, either by the High Court, or, where the amount in dispute is less than fifty pounds, by a county court for the county or place in which the person recovering the same resides, or the property in respect of which the duty is paid is situate.

(3) Any person from whom a rateable part of estate duty can be recovered under this section shall be bound by the accounts and valuations as settled between the person entitled to recover the same and the Commissioners. Section 14.

FINANCE (1909–10) ACT, 1910.

[10 Edw. VII. c. 8.]

As soon as might be after the passing of the said Act, the Commissioners must cause a valuation to be made of all land in the United Kingdom, showing separately the total value and the site value respectively of the land.

Jurisdiction.]—By sect. 33, sub-s. 1 any person aggrieved may appeal against the determination by the Commissioners of the total or site value of any land, and also against the determination of such Commissioners as to other matters, to a referee appointed under the Act. Where the total or site value as alleged by the Commissioners does not exceed 500*l.*, any person aggrieved by the decision of the referee may appeal to the county court for the county or place in which the appellant resides or the property is situate.

Practice.]—The appellant must within one month from the date of the decision of the referee file a petition setting forth specifically the facts and contentions of law upon which he alleges the decision of the referee was erroneous, and giving an address at which documents may be served on him (Order XLII. r. 13, post, p. 2030). Rule 15 contains provisions as to the title of the petition and its service. By Rule 16, the respondent must, within ten days, state to what extent he admits the facts stated in the petition, and giving an address where documents may be served. By Rule 17, the respondent must, within twenty-eight days after service of the petition, serve upon the appellant a further notice stating the facts and the contentions of law upon which he intends to rely, and (if he thinks fit) requiring the appellant to admit those facts; when so required, the appellant must, within ten days, state to what extent he admits such facts; after ten days from the service of respondent's notice, all matters (except to the extent respectively admitted) shall be deemed to be at issue (Rule 18). The parties without leave of the judge cannot rely upon any facts or contentions of law other than those stated in such notice (Rule 20). Other rules provide for discovery and inspection of documents (Rule 21); for admission of certain material as primâ facie evidence (Rule 22); for extension of time and for amendment of petition and notices (Rules 23, 24); and service of documents (Rule 26).

Security for Duty.]—Where the Commissioners are respondents, and claim that duty is due from the appellant, they may apply (in accordance with rules as to interlocutory applications) (see p. 460) and as provided by Rule 18 for security for the duty claimed.

Appeal.]—By sect. 33, sub-s. 4, any party has the right of appeal to the Court of Appeal.

Appeals to referees.

33.—(1) Except as expressly provided in this part of this Act any person aggrieved may appeal within such time and in such manner as may be provided by rules made under this section against the first or any subsequent determination by the Commissioners of the total value or site value of any land; or against the amount of any assessment of duty under this part of this Act; or against a refusal of the Commissioners to make any allowance or to make the allowance claimed, where the Commissioners have the power to make such allowance under this part of this Act; or against any apportionment of the value of land or of the duty or of any assessment or apportionment of the consideration on any transfer or lease made by the Commissioners under this part of this Act; or against the determination of any other matter which the Commissioners are to determine or may determine under this part of this Act:

Provided that:

(a) An appeal shall not lie against a provisional valuation made by the Commissioners of the total or site value of any land except on the part of a person who has made an objection to the provisional valuation in accordance with this Act; and

(b) the original total value and the original site value and the site value as ascertained under any subsequent valuation shall be questioned only by means of an appeal against the determination by the Commissioners of that value where there is an appeal under this Act, and shall not be questioned in any case on an appeal against an assessment of duty.

(2) An appeal under this section shall be referred to such one of the panel of referees appointed under this part of this Act as may be selected in manner provided by rules under this section, and the decision of the referee to whom the matter is so referred shall be given in the form provided by rules under this section and shall, subject to appeal to the court under this section, be final.

(3) The referee shall determine any matter referred to him in consultation with the Commissioners and the appellant, or any persons nominated by the Commissioners and the appellant respectively for this purpose, and may, if he thinks fit, order that any expenses incurred by the appellant be paid by the Commissioners, and that any such expenses incurred by the Commissioners be paid by the appellant.

Any order of the referee as to expenses may be made a rule of the High Court.

Whether the person assessed is the owner of the land in respect of which the assessment is made is a matter of appeal (Allen v. Commrs. of Inland Revenue, [1914] 1 K. B. 327; 83 L. J. K. B. 611; affirmed [1914] 2 K. B. 327; 83 L. J. K. B. 649).

Costs.]—To enable costs to be ascertained by taxation an order of the referee "that costs of appellant . . . be borne by the Commissioners" is good and can be made a rule of Court (Matthews v. Commissioners of Inland Revenue, [1914] 3 K. B. 192; 83 L. J. K. B. 1552).

(4) Any person aggrieved by the decision of the referee may appeal against the decision to the High Court within the time and in the manner and on the conditions directed by rules of court (including conditions enabling the court to require the payment of or the giving of security for any duty claimed); and sub-sections two, three, and four of section ten of the Finance Act, 1894, shall apply with reference to any such appeal:

57 & 58 Vict. c. 30.

Provided that where the total or site value as alleged by the Commissioners of the property in respect of which the dispute arises does not exceed five hundred pounds, the appeal under this section may be to the county court for the county or place in which the appellant resides or the property is situate, and this section shall for the purpose of the appeal apply as if such county court were the High Court, and in every such case any party shall have a right of appeal to the Court of Appeal.

(5) Provision shall be made by rules under this section with respect to the time within which and the manner in which an appeal may be made to a referee under this section, and with respect to the mode in which the referee to whom any reference is to be made is to be selected, and with respect to the form in which any decision of a referee is to be given, and with respect to any other matter for which it appears necessary or expedient to provide in order to carry this section into effect.

COUNTY COURT RULES. ORDER XLII.

[Rules 6 to 21. April 7th, 1913.]

(3) On the day of hearing being fixed, the registrar shall seal a copy of the petition, and shall deliver to the appellant two copies of a notice according to the form in the Appendix, signed by the registrar and under the seal of the court; and the sealed copy of the petition, with one of such notices annexed thereto, shall within seven days after the filing of the petition be served by the appellant upon the respondent. [See Form 341.]

(4) Where the Commissioners of Inland Revenue are respondents, a copy of the petition shall be deemed to have been duly served if served upon the Solicitor of Inland Revenue, Somerset House, London, W.C.

Notice of admissions by respondent.

16. Within ten days after service of a copy of the petition upon the respondent, the respondent shall serve upon the appellant a notice stating whether, and to what extent, he admits the facts stated in the petition, and stating an address at which documents may be served upon him.

Notice to be given by respondent of facts and contentions of law relied on.

17.—(1) Within twenty-eight days after service of a copy of the petition upon the respondent, the respondent shall serve upon the appellant a further notice stating the facts and the contentions of law upon which he intends to rely at the hearing, and (if he so thinks fit) requiring the appellant to admit those facts.

(2) The appellant, if he is so required to admit facts shall, and in any case may, within ten days after service upon him of the notice required to be served by the respondent under this rule, serve upon the respondent a notice stating whether, and to what extent, he admits the facts stated in the notice served by the respondent.

18. Upon the expiration of ten days after the service of the notice required to be served by the respondent under the last preceding rule all matters shall, except to the extent admitted by both parties, be deemed to be at issue.

19. Unless by consent, or otherwise ordered, only oral evidence shall be admitted at the hearing.

Parties limited to grounds stated in petition and notice.

20. The appellant shall not without the leave of the judge be entitled to rely upon any facts or contentions of law other than those stated in the petition, and the respondent shall not without the leave of the judge be entitled to rely upon any facts or contentions of law other than those stated in the notice required to be served by him under these rules.

Discovery and inspection of documents.

21.—(1) It shall be the duty of the appellant and the respondent respectively to exchange lists of all documents in their possession relating to the matter at issue, and to give to each other inspection at all reasonable times of any of those documents which may not be protected by any privilege, and, if so required, to provide copies thereof on the usual terms.

(2) If the Commissioners are dissatisfied with the list so supplied by the appellant or by the respondent, as the case may be, they may apply to the court for an order for discovery of documents in the same manner and to the same extent as a party to an action in the court, but in considering any such application the court shall take into account the willingness or otherwise of the Commissioners to disclose or allow inspection of any documents in their possession.

Admission of certain material as primâ facie evidence.

22. The judge may, at any stage of the proceedings, either upon or without the application of either party, order that any material, whether strictly admissible as evidence or not, which in the opinion of the judge ought, having regard to the question of costs or otherwise, fairly to be admitted as primâ facie evidence of any fact, shall be primâ facie evidence of that fact so as to shift the burden of proving the contrary on to the other party.

Extension of time for appealing and for serving documents.

23. The judge may extend the time for filing or serving a petition of appeal, or for serving any notice, under these rules upon such terms (if any) as the justice of the case may require, and any such extension may be ordered although the application for the same is not made until after the expiration of the time allowed under these rules.

Amendment of petition or notices.

24. The judge may at any stage of the proceedings allow the amendment of the petition, or of any notices under these rules, upon such terms as the judge may think right.

Power to stay proceedings till duty paid or secured.

25.—(1) Where the Commissioners are respondents, and claim that any sum is due from the appellant by way of duty, they may apply for an order that proceedings on the appeal shall be stayed until the appellant has paid, or has given security for, the duty claimed.

(2) Any such application shall be made to the judge in accordance with the rules as to interlocutory applications, subject to the following modifications:—

(i.) the application shall be made on notice in writing, and on affidavit;

(ii.) the Commissioners shall serve notice of the application on the appellant three days at least before the hearing of the application, and shall deliver to the appellant, together with such notice, a copy of any affidavit which they intend to use at the hearing of the application.

(3) The judge shall make such order on any such application as seems to him reasonable in the circumstances of the case, and any order so made may, on an application made in accordance with this rule either by the Commissioners or by the appellant, be subsequently varied or discharged.

Service of documents.

26. Any notice or other document required or authorised to be served upon or sent to the appellant or respondent under these rules shall be sufficiently served or sent if sent by post in a prepaid letter addressed to him at his address for service as stated, in the case of the appellant, in his petition, and in the case of the respondent, in his notice under Rule 16, and unless the contrary is proved, any notice or document sent as aforesaid shall be deemed to have been served at the time at which the letter would be delivered in the ordinary course of post. Rule 26.

27. Where the judge makes an order upon a petition under these rules, the registrar shall as soon thereafter as conveniently may be, draw up, seal, and file such order. Order on petition.

FINANCE ACT, 1912.

(Repealed.)

Jurisdiction.]—Where licensed premises are held under a lease or agreement for a lease made before the passing of the Finance Act, 1910 (April 29th, 1910), which does not tie the lessee to obtain intoxicating liquors from the grantor of the lease or agreement, the lessee shall be entitled, notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary, to recover as a debt from the grantor of such lease so much of the increase of the duty payable in respect of the licence, under the provisions of the 1910 Act, as may be agreed or determined by a county court as proportionate to any increased rent or premium payable in respect of the premises being let as licensed premises (sect. 2).

Practice.]—By Order XLII. r. 29, post, p. 2034, the application was to be made by plaint and summons to the county court of the district within which the licensed premises are situate.

Repealed as from 23rd of December, 1915, by Finance (No. 2) Act, 1915 (5 & 6 Geo. V., c. 89), s. 18, without prejudice to the validity of any payments made in pursuance of that section before the passing of this Act.

As to rights already accrued see Lewis v. Hughes, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1019.

2. Where the licensed premises are held under a lease or agreement for lease made before the passing of the Finance (1909–10) Act, 1910, which does not contain or import any covenant, agreement, or undertaking on the part of the lessee under such lease or agreement for lease to obtain a supply of intoxicating liquor from the grantor of the lease or agreement for lease, the lessee under such lease or agreement for lease shall be entitled, notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary, to recover as a debt due from, or deduct from any sum due to, the grantor of such lease or agreement for lease so much of any increase of the duty payable in respect of the licence under the provisions of the Finance (1909–10) Act, 1910, as may be agreed upon as proportionate to any increased rent or premium (a) payable in respect of the premises being let as licensed premises, and, in default of agreement, the amount proportionate to such increased rent or premium shall be determined in manner directed by rules of court by a county court in England or Ireland, and by a sheriff court in Scotland.

The words "lease," "leased," "agreement for lease," and "lessee" in this section include sub-lease, sub-leased, agreement for sub-lease, and sub-lessee respectively.

(Repealed as from 23rd December, 1915, by sect. 18 of Finance (No. 2) Act, 1915 (5 & 6 Geo. V., c. 89).)

(a).—Money spent in improving premises, or the surrender of an unexpired lease is not a "premium" (King v. Cadogan, (1915) 1 K. B. 821; 84 L. J. K. B. 779); on appeal, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 2069).

In this section "grantor of the lease" means the person who actually puts his signature and seal to the lease as lessor, not the persons who for the time being are in receipt of the rent of the licensed premises (Bodega Co. v. Read, (1914) 2 Ch. 757; (1915) 84 L. J. Ch. 36; Bodega Co. v. Martin, (1916) 85 L. J. Ch. 17).

The words "where the licensed premises are held under a lease or agreement for a lease" apply where the lessee has sub-let to the licence holder and is not in possession. He is entitled to recover from his lessor a contribution of the licence duty (Watney, Combe, Reid & Co. v. Berners (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 1561; 31 T. L. R. (H. L.) 449; reversing Court of Appeal).

As to principle to be acted upon in determining what is proportionate to increased rent or premium payable in respect of the premises being let as licensed premises, see Procter v. Tarry, (1915) 2 K. B. 242; 84 L. J. K. B. 1096.

A county court judge has no jurisdiction to decide whether the conditions exist which would entitle a lessee to the benefit of the section (Tratt v. Good, (1915) 3 K. B. 59; 84 L. J. K. B. 1550).

COUNTY COURT RULES. ORDER XLII. RULE 29.

THE FINANCE ACT, 1912, SECT. 2.

Applications under 2 & 3 Geo. V. c. 8, s. 2.

(1) An application to the court to determine the amount which a lessee under a lease or an agreement for a lease of licensed premises is entitled to recover from, or to deduct from any sum due to, the grantor of such lease or agreement under section 2 of the Finance Act, 1912, shall be made to the court in the district of which the licensed premises are situate.

(2) Any such application shall be made by action commenced by plaint and summons in the ordinary way.

(3) Particulars of demand shall be filed with every such application, stating concisely the relief or order which the plaintiff claims.

(Obsolete see supra).

THE FRIENDLY SOCIETIES ACTS, 1896 AND 1908.

[59 & 60 VICT. C. 25; 8 EDW. VII. C. 32.]

All future copies of the Act of 1896 are directed to be printed with the corrections made by the 1908 Act. The necessary corrections have been made in the Act of 1896.

Jurisdiction is conferred in the following matters by the 1896 Act: (1) default of officers (sect. 55); (2) disputes (sect. 68); (3) amalgamation of registered societies (sect. 70); (4) dissolution of registered societies (sect. 78); (5) enforcing awards of dissolution (sect. 80, sub-s. 5); (6) recovery of moneys from members (sect. 31).

The Court in which to proceed is, as to a member claiming relief from an order of amalgamation, by sect. 70, sub-s. 7, the county court of the district within which the chief place of business of the society is situate, and this practice had better be followed in all cases where the society is sued; where the society sues, the safest course would be to sue in the court within the district of which the defendant dwells (Shea v. Society of St. Patrick, (1867) L. R. 3 C. P. 21; 37 L. J. C. P. 50).

Practice is determined by Order XLI. (see Building Societies, p. 1781), and by sect. 94, which provides for the description of both plaintiffs and defendants, and the service of the summons or other proceedings. The proceedings are to be by plaint and summons.

Trade Unions.]—The provisions of The Friendly Societies Act, 1896, other than sects. 62 to 67, which replace sect. 28 of the 1875 Act, do not extend to any trade union; and the attempted registration of any trade union, either under that Act or The Industrial and Provident Societies Act, to be presently noticed, would be absolutely void (34 & 35 Vict. c. 31, s. 5). No application can be entertained, under the foregoing provisions, by the county court for the settlement of any dispute in any such society, nor can certain of their contracts be enforced in any court (Ib. sect. 4; Rigby v. Connol, (1880) 14 Ch. D. 482; 49 L. J. Ch. 328. (Provisions for the benefit of trade unions are made by 34 & 35 Vict. c. 31, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 22, and 46 & 47 Vict. c. 47)).

Where a society is registered as a trade union, and its main object is in restraint of trade, it would appear that no provisions of its rules for the benefit of members, similar to those of a friendly society, are enforceable in any courts (Old v. Robson, (1890) 59 L. J. M. C. 41; Burke v. Amalgamated Society of Dyers, (1906) 2 K. B. 583; 75 L. J. K. B. 533). Even the nomination provisions of 39 & 40 Vict. c. 22, do not enable the courts to enforce them (Crocker v. Knight, (1892) 1 Q. B. 702; 61 L. J. Q. B. 466). If the general objects of an unregistered society are for the relief of members, the mere fact that some of the rules are in restraint of trade will not make it illegal (Swaine v. Wilson (C. A.), (1889) 24 Q. B. D. 252; 59 L. J. Q. B. 76).

An action will not lie against a trade union, or any of its members or officials on behalf of themselves and all other members of the union, in respect of torts alleged to have been committed by or on behalf of the union (6 Edw. VII. c. 47, s. 4 (Trade Disputes Act, 1906)).

Appeal from County Court not provided for in the Act, but there is an appeal which is by motion (Wilkinson v. Jagger, (1887) 20 Q. B. D. 423; 57 L. J. Q. B. 254). A special case may be stated by the court (sect. 68, sub-s. 7).

(2) A dispute between any such society or branch and person by reason of that enrolment or service shall be decided by a court of summary jurisdiction.

(3) If the rules of a society or branch certified before the twenty-third day of July, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five, and in force at the time of the enrolment or service, provide that a member shall be deprived of any benefit by reason of that enrolment or service, the society or branch may require of the member a contribution exceeding the rate of contribution otherwise payable by him to an amount not exceeding one tenth of that rate during the time the member is serving out of the United Kingdom, or may suspend all claim of the member to any benefits assured by the society or branch, and all claim of the society or branch to any contributions payable by the member, during the time only he is serving out of the United Kingdom, but so that if he returns to the United Kingdom he shall forthwith be replaced on the same footing as before he went abroad on service.

[Sections 44 to 50 relate to property, funds, and investments, and the vesting and devolution thereof. The powers of investment contained in s. 44 are widened by s. 4 of the Act of 1908.]

54. Every officer of a registered society or branch having receipt or charge of money shall, if the rules of the society or branch so require, before taking upon himself the execution of his office, become bound with one sufficient surety at the least in a bond or give the security of a guarantee society, in such sum as the society or branch directs, conditioned for his rendering a just and true account of all sums of money received and paid by him on account of the society or branch at such times as its rules appoint, or as the society or branch or the trustees or committee thereof require him to do, and for the payment by him of all sums due from him to the society or branch.

55.—(1) Every officer of a registered society or branch having receipt or charge of money shall, at such times as by the rules of the society or branch he should render account, or upon demand made, or notice in writing given or left at his last or usual place of residence, give in his account as may be required by the society or branch, or by the trustees or committee thereof, to be examined and allowed or disallowed by them, and shall, on the like demand or notice, pay over all sums of money and deliver all property in his hands or custody to such person as the society or branch, or the committee or the trustees, appoint.

(2) In case of any neglect or refusal to deliver the account, or to pay over the sums of money or to deliver the property in manner aforesaid, the trustees or authorised officers of the society or branch may sue upon the bond or security before mentioned, or may apply to the county court or to a court of summary jurisdiction, and the order of either such court shall be final and conclusive.

PAYMENTS ON DEATH GENERALLY.

Power of member to dispose of sums payable on death by nomination.

56.—(1) A member of a registered society (other than a benevolent society or working-men's club) or branch thereof, not being under the age of sixteen years, may, by writing under his hand delivered at or sent to the registered office of the society or branch, or made in a book kept at that office, nominate a person to whom any sum of money payable by the society or branch, on the death of that member, not exceeding one hundred pounds, shall be paid at his decease.

Life policy is assignable by deed as well as by nomination (In re Griffin, (1902) 1 Ch. 135; 71 L. J. Ch. 112; overruling Caddick v. Highton, (1901) 2 Ch. 476, n.; 68 L. J. Q. B. 281; Re Redman, (1901) 2 Ch. 471; 70 L. J. Ch. 669).

(2) The sum of money payable by the society or branch on the death of a member, shall include sums of money contributed to or deposited in the separate loan account and the sums of money accumulated for the use of the member under the provisions of this Act with interest thereon.

(3) The person so nominated must not be an officer or servant of the society or branch, unless that officer or servant is the husband, wife, father, mother, child, brother, sister, nephew, or niece of the nominator.

(4) A nomination so made may be revoked and varied by any similar document under the hand of the nominator, delivered, sent, or made as aforesaid.

Cannot be revoked otherwise than as prescribed by the sub-section (Bennett v. Slater, (1899) 1 Q. B. 45; 68 L. J. Q. B. 45).

(5) The marriage of a member of a society or branch shall operate as a revocation of any nomination theretofore made by that member under this section.

(6) A nomination or a variation or revocation of a nomination by writing under the hand of a member of a registered branch and delivered at or sent to the registered office of that branch, or made in a book kept at that office, shall be effectual notwithstanding that the money to which the nomination relates or some part thereof is not payable by that branch, but is payable by the society or some other branch.

Sub-s. 6 added by sect. 5 of the Act of 1908.

Proceedings on death of a nominator.

57.—(1) On receiving satisfactory proof of the death of a nominator, the society or branch shall pay to the nominee the amount due to the deceased member, not exceeding the said sum of one hundred pounds. Section 57.

(2) The receipt of a nominee over sixteen years of age for any amount so paid shall be valid.

(3) If the total sum in respect to which a nomination may be made under this Act by a member, after deducting any sums of money payable under the rules of the society or branch, or otherwise, for the purpose of defraying funeral expenses, exceeds at the time of the death of that member eighty pounds, the society or branch shall before making any payment require the production of a duly stamped receipt for the succession or legacy duty payable thereon, or a letter or certificate from the Commissioners of Inland Revenue stating that no such duty is payable.

(4) The Commissioners shall give such receipt, letter, or certificate on the payment of the duty or satisfactory proof of no duty being payable, as the case may be.

58.—(1) If any member of a registered society or branch, entitled from the funds thereof to a sum not exceeding one hundred pounds, dies intestate and without having made any nomination thereof then subsisting, the society or branch may, without letters of administration, distribute the sum among such persons as appear to a majority of the trustees, upon such evidence as they may deem satisfactory, to be entitled by law to receive that sum, subject if that sum, after making such deductions as aforesaid, exceeds eighty pounds, to the obtaining from the Commissioners of Inland Revenue a receipt for the succession or legacy duty payable thereon, or a letter or certificate stating that no such duty is payable. Intestacy.

(2) If any such member is illegitimate, the trustees may pay the sum of money which that member might have nominated to or among the persons who, in the opinion of a majority of them, would have been entitled thereto if that member had been legitimate, or if there are no such persons, the society or branch shall deal with the money as the Treasury may direct.

59. When the principal value of the estate in respect of which estate duty is payable of any person entitled to make a nomination under this Act exceeds one hundred pounds, any sum paid under this Act without probate or letters of administration shall, notwithstanding such nomination or payment, be liable to estate duty as part of the amount on which that duty is charged, and the trustees of the society or branch may before making any such payment require a statutory declaration by the claimant, or by one of the claimants, that the principal value of that estate, including the sum in question, does not after deduction of debts and funeral expenses exceed the value of one hundred pounds. Estate duty to be paid when the whole estate exceeds 100*l*.

60.—(1) A payment made by a registered society or branch, under the foregoing provisions of this Act with respect to payments on death generally to the person who at the time appears to a majority of the trustees to be entitled thereunder, shall be valid and effectual against any demand made upon the trustees or the society or branch by any other person, but the next-of-kin or lawful representative of the deceased member shall have remedy Validity of payments.

Section 60.

for recovery of the money, so paid as aforesaid, against the person who has received that money.

(2) Where the society or branch has paid money to a nominee in ignorance of a marriage subsequent to the nomination, the receipt of the nominee shall be a valid discharge to the society or branch.

Certificates of death.

61.—(1) A registered society or branch shall not pay any sum of money upon the death of a member or other person whose death is or ought to be entered in any register of deaths, except upon the production of a certificate of that death under the hand of the registrar of deaths or other person having care of the register of deaths in which that death is or ought to be entered.

(2) This section shall not apply to deaths at sea, nor to a death by colliery explosion or other accident where the body cannot be found, nor to any death certified by a coroner or procurator fiscal to be the subject of a pending inquest or inquiry.

Payments on Death of Children.

Limitation of amount payable.

62. A society or branch, whether registered or unregistered shall not insure or pay on the death of a child under five years of age any sum of money which, added to any amount payable on the death of that child by any other society or branch, exceeds six pounds, or on the death of a child under ten years of age any sum of money which, added to any amount payable on the death of that child by any other society or branch, exceeds ten pounds.

Person to whom payment may be made.

63. A society or branch, whether registered or unregistered, shall not pay any sum on the death of a child under ten years of age except to the parent of the child, or to the personal representative of the parent, and upon production by the parent or his personal representative of a certificate of death issued by the registrar of deaths, or other person having the care of the register of deaths, containing the particulars mentioned in this Act.

Particulars of certificates.

64.—(1) Where application is made for a certificate of the death of a child for the purpose of obtaining a sum of money from a society or branch, the name of the society or branch, and the sum sought to be obtained therefrom shall be stated to the registrar of deaths.

(2) The registrar of deaths shall write on or at the foot of the certificate the words "to be produced to the society or branch (naming the same) said to be liable for payment of the sum of l. (stating the same)."

(3) All certificates of the same death shall be numbered in consecutive order.

Cases in which certificates may be given.

65.—(1) A registrar of deaths shall not give any one or more certificates of death for the payment in the whole of any sum of money exceeding six pounds on the death of a child under five years, or for the payment in the whole of a sum exceeding ten pounds on the death of a child under ten years.

(2) A registrar of deaths shall not grant any such certificate unless the cause of death has been previously entered in the register of deaths on the certificate of a coroner, or of a registered medical practitioner who attended the deceased child during its last illness, or except upon the production of a certificate of the probable cause of death under the hand of a registered medical practitioner, or of other satisfactory evidence thereof. Section 65.

66. A society or branch, whether registered or unregistered, to which is produced a certificate of the death of a child which does not purport to be the first shall, before paying any money thereon, inquire whether any and what sums of money have been paid on the same death by any other society or branch. Inquiries by societies.

67. Nothing in this Act respecting payments on the death of children shall apply to insurances on the lives of children of any age, where the person insuring has an interest in the life of the person insured. Saving as to insurable interests, etc.

Disputes.

68.—(1) Every dispute between— Decision of disputes.

(a) a member or person claiming through a member or under the rules of a registered society or branch, and the society or branch or an officer thereof; or

(b) any person aggrieved who has (a) ceased to be a member of a registered society or branch, or any person claiming through such person aggrieved, and the society or branch, or an officer thereof; or

Note.—(a) The words "for not more than six months" were repealed by sect. 6 of the Act of 1908.

(c) any registered branch of any society or branch, and the society or branch of which it is a branch; or

(d) an officer of any such registered branch and the society or branch of which that registered branch is a branch (a); or

Note.—(a) But notwithstanding this sub-section, an action can be maintained by the trustees of the society, against the trustees, secretary and treasurer of a registered branch for breach of trust in applying the trust funds in an unauthorised way (Winter v. Wilkinson, (1915) 1 Ch. 317; 84 L. J. Ch. 237).

(e) any two or more registered branches of any society or branch, or any officers thereof respectively, shall be decided in manner directed by the rules of the society or branch, and the decision so given shall be binding and conclusive on all parties without appeal, and shall not be removable into any court of law or restrainable by injunction; and application for the enforcement thereof may be made to the county court.

(2) The parties to a dispute in a registered society or branch may, by consent (unless the rules of the society or branch expressly forbid it), refer the dispute to the chief registrar, or in Scotland or Ireland to the assistant registrar.

(3) The chief or other registrar to whom a dispute is referred shall, with the consent of the Treasury, either by himself or by any other registrar, hear and determine the dispute, and shall have power to order the expenses of determining the dispute to be paid either out of the funds of the society or branch, or by such parties to the dispute as he may think fit, and his determination and order shall have the same effect, and be enforceable in like manner as a decision made in the manner directed by the rules of the society or branch.

(4) The chief or other registrar to whom a dispute is referred may administer oaths, and may require the attendance of all parties concerned, and of witnesses, and the production of all books and documents relating to the matter in question.

(5) Where the rules of a registered society or branch direct that disputes shall be referred to justices, the dispute shall be determined by a court of summary jurisdiction, or, if the parties thereto consent, by the county court.

(6) Where the rules contain no direction as to disputes, or where no decision is made on a dispute within forty days after application to the society or branch for a reference under its rules, the member or person aggrieved may apply either to the county court, or to a court of summary jurisdiction, and the court to which application is so made, may hear and determine the matter in dispute ; but in the case of a society with branches, the said forty days shall not begin to run until application has been made in succession to all the bodies entitled to determine the dispute under the rules of the society or branch, so, however, that no rules shall require a greater delay than three months between each successive determination.

When the right to make such an application to the county court to recover a benefit under the rules has once become vested, the society cannot, by an amendment of its rules, take away that vested right (Ritson v. Dobson, (1911) 104 L. T. 808).

In the case of a society with branches, the forty days do not begin to run until application has been made in succession to all the bodies entitled to determine the dispute under the rules of the society or branch, so, however, that no rules shall require a greater delay than three months between each successive determination (for form of order, see Form 167) (Jessop v. The Huddersfield Industrial Society, (1899) 80 L. T. 598).

See, as to jurisdiction of county court where the rules of the society were uncertain, and the decision contrary to natural justice (Wayman v. Perseverance Lodge of Cambridgeshire Order of United Brethren Friendly Society, (1917) 1 K. B. 677; 86 L. J. K. B. 243).

52 & 53 Vict. c. 49.

(7) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Arbitration Act, 1889, or in any other Act, the court and the chief or other registrar or any arbitrator or umpire to whom a dispute is referred under the rules of a registered society or branch, shall not be compelled to state a special case on any question of law arising in the case, but the court, or chief or other registrar, may, at the request of either party, state a case for the opinion in England or Ireland of the Supreme Court, and in Scotland of either division of the Inner House of the Court of Session, on any question of law, and may also grant to either party such discovery as to documents and otherwise, or such inspection of documents, and in Scotland, may grant warrant for the recovery of documents and examination of havers, as might be granted by any court of law or equity, and the discovery shall be made on behalf of the society or branch by such officer thereof as the court or registrar may determine.

(8) In this section the expression "dispute" includes any dispute arising on the question whether a member or person aggrieved is entitled to be or to continue to be a member or to be reinstated as a member, but, save as aforesaid, in the case of a person who has ceased to be a member, does not include any dispute other than a dispute on a question between him and the society or branch or an officer thereof which arose whilst he was a member, or arises out of his previous relation as a member to that society or branch. Section 68.

Sub-s. 8 was added by sect. 6 of the Act of 1908.

The decision of an arbitration committee is not binding if given without jurisdiction, as where a member was summoned before a committee for a breach of rules and was in his absence expelled upon a different charge (one of fraud and disgraceful conduct); in such a case the jurisdiction of the courts is not ousted (Andrews v. Mitchell, (1905) A. C. 78; 74 L. J. K. B. 333).

Under sect. 22 of the 1875 Act, and sect. 10, sub-s. 1 of the 1895 Act, repealed but practically re-enacted in sect. 68, sub-s. 1, of the 1896 Act, it was held that the provisions of those sections did not extend to disputes as to the title of a person to be a member of the society, and that as to such disputes the jurisdiction of the courts was not ousted (Palliser v. Dale (C. A.), (1897) 1 Q. B. 257; 66 L. J. Q. B. 236); this case since the passing of the 1908 Act is no longer law. Questions about sick pay and expenses are disputes (Catt v. Wood, (1910) A. C. 404; 79 L. J. K. B. 782).

Change of Name, Amalgamation, and Conversion of Societies.

Power to change name

69.—(1) A registered society may, by special resolution, with the approval in writing of the chief registrar, or in the case of societies registered and doing business exclusively in Scotland or Ireland, the assistant registrar for Scotland or Ireland respectively, change its name, and shall not change its name in any other manner.

(2) Any such change of name shall not affect any right or obligation of the society, or of any member thereof, and any pending legal proceedings may be continued by or against the trustees of the society, or any other officer who may sue or be sued on behalf of the society, notwithstanding its new name.

Amalgamation and transfer of engagements.

70.—(1) Any two or more registered societies may, by special resolution of both or all such societies, become amalgamated together as one society, with or without any dissolution or division of the funds of those societies or either of them.

(2) A registered society may, by special resolution, transfer its engagements to any other registered society which may undertake to fulfil the engagements of that society.

(3) A special resolution by a registered friendly society for an amalgamation or transfer of engagements under this Act shall not be valid without—

(a) the assent thereto of five-sixths in value of the members, given either at the meetings at which the resolution is, according to the provisions of this Act, passed and confirmed, or at one of them, or, if the members were not present thereat, in writing; and

Section 70.

(b) the written consent of every person receiving or entitled to any relief, annuity, or other benefit from the funds of the society, unless the claim of that person is first duly satisfied, or adequate provision is made for satisfying that claim.

(4) Provided that on application of the trustees or committee of a registered friendly society desiring to amalgamate or transfer its engagements, and upon notice of that application being published in the Gazette, the chief registrar, after hearing the trustees or committee and any other persons whom he considers entitled to be heard upon the application, may, with the consent of the Treasury, order that any of the assents, consents, and conditions required by this Act, or by any regulations made under this Act, be dispensed with, and may confirm the amalgamation or transfer.

(5) A registered society, consisting wholly of members under twenty-one years of age, and a registered society or branch or branches of a society having members above twenty-one years of age, may, by resolution registered in the manner required for the registration of an amendment of rules, become amalgamated together as one society or branch, or provide for distributing among several branches the members of a society consisting wholly of members under twenty-one years of age, and the other provisions of this section shall not apply to that amalgamation.

(6) The value of members shall be ascertained by giving one vote to every member, and an additional vote for every five years that he has been a member, but to no one member more than five votes in the whole.

(7) If any member of a friendly society which has amalgamated or transferred its engagements, or if any person claiming any relief, annuity, or other benefit, from the funds thereof, is dissatisfied with the provision made for satisfying his claim, that member or person may apply to the county court of the district within which the chief or any other place of business of the society is situate for relief or other order, and that court shall have the same powers in the matter as in regard to the settlement of disputes under this Act.

Conversion of society into company.

71.—(1) A registered society may, by special resolution, determine to convert itself into a company under the Companies Acts, 1862 to 1890, or to amalgamate with or transfer its engagements to any such company.

(2) If a special resolution for converting a society into a company contains the particulars required by the Companies Acts, 1862 to 1890, to be contained in the memorandum of association of a company, and a copy thereof has been registered at the central office, a copy of that resolution under the seal or stamp of the central office shall have the same effect as a memorandum of association duly signed and attested under the said Acts.

(3) If a society is registered as, or amalgamates with, or transfers all its engagements to, a company, the registry of the society under this Act shall thereupon become void, and shall be cancelled by the chief registrar or by the assistant registrar for Scotland or Ireland under his direction; but the registration of a society as a company shall not affect any right or claim subsisting against that society, or any penalty incurred by that society; and for

(4) If the registrar finds that the rules, with or without such amendment as aforesaid, comply with the provisions of this Act and of the Treasury regulations, he shall cancel the registry of the first-mentioned society, and register it as a branch of that other society, and also, if so specified in the resolution before mentioned, of any branch of that other society, without further request or notice, and shall register such amendment of rules without further application or evidence, and until such registry as aforesaid the resolution shall not take effect.

(5) An advertisement of any cancelling of registry under this section shall not be requisite.

(6) The rules of a society which becomes a branch under this section shall, so far as they are not contrary to any express provision of this Act or of the Treasury regulations, and subject to any such amendment thereof as aforesaid, continue in force as the rules of the branch until amended.

HOP (PREVENTION OF FRAUDS) ACT, 1866.

Sect. 13.—Penalties imposed by this Act may be recovered in manner provided by the fifteenth section of the Merchandise Marks Act, 1862, i.e., in the county court.

Note.—This Act is repealed by the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887 (50 & 51 Vict. c. 28, s. 23), but any unrepealed enactment referring to any enactment so repealed shall be construed to apply to the corresponding provision of this Act.

Note.—There are no provisions of this Act corresponding with sect. 15 of the Act of 1862. As this later Act makes offences against its provisions triable by a Court of summary jurisdiction, it is possible that penalties incurred under the Hop (Prevention of Frauds) Act, 1866, are not now recoverable in the County Court, but the question is a difficult one.

THE HOSIERY MANUFACTURE (WAGES) ACT, 1874.

[37 & 38 Vict. c. 48.]

Jurisdiction and Practice.]—The county court of the district within which the offence is committed has jurisdiction (sects. 3, 4). The fines are to be recovered by plaint and summons according to the ordinary practice of the court (see Order L. rr. 35, 36, p. 631).

Appeal will be under sect. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (see p. 123).

Whereas a custom has prevailed among the employers of artificers in the hosiery manufacture of letting out frames and machinery to the artificers employed by them, and it is desirable to prohibit such letting of frames and machinery, and the stoppage of wages for frame rents and charges in the hosiery manufacture:

Be it enacted . . . as follows:

1. In all contracts for wages the full and entire amount of all wages the earnings of labour in the hosiery manufacture shall be actually and positively made payable in net, in the current coin of the realm, and not otherwise, without any deduction or stoppage of any description whatever, save and except for bad and disputed workmanship. Wages to be paid without any stoppages whatever.

Section 2.

Contracts to stop wages and for frame rents illegal.

2. All contracts to stop wages, and all contracts for frame rents and charges, between employer and artificers, shall be and are hereby declared to be illegal, null, and void.

Penalty for bargaining to deduct and for deducting from wages.

3. If any employer shall bargain to deduct or shall deduct, directly or indirectly, from the wages of any artificer in his employ any part of such wages for frame rent and standing or other charges, or shall refuse or neglect to pay the same or any part thereof in the current coin of the realm, he shall forfeit a sum of five pounds for every offence, to be recovered by the said artificer or any other person suing for the same in the county court in the district where the offence is committed, with full costs of suit.

A deduction of a fine from a workman's wages, in accordance with the rules of a factory, for absenting himself from work, is not within this section (Willis v. Thorp, (1875) L. R. 10 Q. B. 383; 44 L. J. Q. B. 137).

Penalty for using frame otherwise than for the purpose for which same lent.

4. If any frame or machine which shall have been entrusted to any artificer or other person by his employer for the purpose of being used in the hosiery manufacture for such employer, or in any process incident to such manufacture, shall, whilst the same shall be so entrusted, be worked, used, or employed without the consent in writing of such employer or other person so entrusting such frame or machine, in the manufacture of any goods or articles whatever for any other person than the person by whom such frame or machine shall have been so entrusted, then and in every such case the artificer or other person to whom the same shall have been so entrusted shall forfeit and pay the sum of ten shillings for every day on any part of which any such frame or machine shall have been so worked, used, or employed, to be recoverable by and for the benefit of the person who shall have so entrusted the same, in the county court for the district where the offence shall have been committed, with full costs of suit.

No action to be allowed in respect of any such bargaining.

5. No action, suit, or set-off between employer and artificer shall be allowed for any deduction or stoppage of wages, nor for any contract hereby declared illegal.

Not to prevent the recovery by employer of any debt due to him from artificer.

6. Nothing in this Act contained shall extend to prevent the recovery in the ordinary course of law, by suit brought or commenced for the purpose, of any debt due from the artificer to the employer.

Terms.

7. Within the meaning and for the purposes of this Act, all workmen, labourers, and other persons in any manner engaged in the performance of any employment or operation, of what nature soever, in or about the hosiery manufacture, shall be and be deemed "artificers"; and within the meaning and for the purposes aforesaid, all masters, foremen, managers, clerks, contractors, sub-contractors, middlemen, and other persons engaged in the hiring, employment, or superintendence of the labour of any such artificers shall be and be deemed to be "employers"; and, within the meaning and for the purposes of this Act, any money or other thing had or contracted to be paid, delivered, or given as a recompense, reward, or remuneration for any labour done or to be done, whether within a certain time or to a certain amount, or for a time or for an amount uncertain, shall be deemed and taken to be the wages of such labour; and, within the meaning and for the purposes aforesaid, any agreement, understanding, device, contrivance, collusion, or arrangement whatsoever on the subject of wages, whether written or oral, whether direct or indirect, to which the employer and artificers are parties or are assenting, or by which they are mutually bound to each other, or whereby either of them shall have endeavoured to impose an obligation on the other of them, shall be and be deemed a "contract." Section 7.

HOUSING OF THE WORKING CLASSES ACTS, 1890 AND 1903.

THE HOUSING AND TOWN PLANNING, ETC., ACT, 1909.

[53 & 54 Vict. c. 70; 3 Edw. VII. c. 39; 9 Edw. VII. c. 44.]

Note.—As to so much of the 53 & 54 Vict. c. 70 as amended and extended the Settled Land Acts, see post, Settled Land Acts, p. 2244.

Jurisdiction.]—The only section in the above-mentioned Acts giving any special jurisdiction to the county courts is sect. 10 of the 1903 Act (3 Edw. VII. c. 70), which enables, where default has been made in obeying a closing order, the owner or the local authority to obtain possession of any dwelling-house, whatever the value or the rent of the dwelling-house might be, under sects. 138—145 of the County Courts Act, 1888. This jurisdiction is exclusive and unlimited.

As to the manner in which the Local Government Board are entitled to conduct an appeal to them from an order to close premises, see Local Government Board v. Arlidge, (1915) A. C. 120; 84 L. J. K. B. (H. L.) 72. As to power of Local Government Board to quash or alter the order of the local authority, although the local authority had no option but to make the demolition order, see Lancaster v. Burnley Corporation, (1915) 1 K. B. 259; 84 L. J. K. B. 181. As to date at which value has to be ascertained, see London County Council v. Wilson's Executors, (1916) 1 K. B. 837.

Practice.]—The owner or local authority may recover possession as if they were landlord of the premises. Sect. 10 of the 1903 Act seems to make the closing order equivalent to a notice to quit and a determination of any tenancy, it will therefore be expedient to be in a position to prove the making of and the default in obeying the closing order. Notice of a closing order, if owner cannot be found, is sufficiently served by leaving a sealed copy of the order addressed to the owner at the premises in manner directed by sect. 49 (2) of the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890 (Arlidge v. Hampstead Borough Council, (1916) 85 L. J. Ch. 91. As to recovery of premises, see sects. 138—145 of County Courts Act, Part I., p. 162 et seq.

3 Edw. VII. c. 39.

10. Where default is made as respects any dwelling-house in obeying a closing order, possession of the house may be obtained (without prejudice to the enforcement of any penalty under that provision), whatever may be the value or rent of the house, by or on behalf of the owner or local authority, either under sections one hundred and thirty-eight to one hundred and forty-five of the County Courts Act, 1888, or under the small Tenements Recovery Act, 1838, as in the cases therein provided Recovery of possession from occupying tenants in pursuance of closing orders. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43.

Section 10.

for, and in either case may be obtained as if the owner or local authority were the landlord.

1 & 2 Vict. c. 74.

Any expenses incurred by a local authority under this section may be recovered from the owner of the dwelling-house as a civil debt in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts.

NOTE.—As mentioned above no special jurisdiction is given by other sections in these Acts to the county court, but as the sections set out below are quoted in many cases coming into county courts it has been thought expedient to set them out.

The effect of the Acts is that where a house or part of a house is let for a term of less than three years at the rent mentioned a condition is implied that at the commencement of the holding it is in all respects fit for human habitation and shall be so kept by the landlord during the holding; the landlord or the local authority or any person authorised by them, having the right to view the premises at reasonable times of the day on giving twenty-four hours' notice. Any agreement made to the contrary after the passing of the 1903 Act being void.

For sect. 74 amending Settled Land Act, 1882, see p. 2252.

53 & 54 VICT. c. 70.

Condition to be implied on letting houses for the working classes.

75. In any contract made after the 14th August, 1885, for letting for habitation by persons of the working classes a house or part of a house, there shall be implied a condition that the house is at the commencement of the holding in all respects reasonably fit for human habitation. In this section the expression "letting for habitation by persons of the working classes" means the letting for habitation of a house or part of a house at a rent not exceeding in England the sum named as the limit for the composition of rates by section three of the Poor Rate Assessment and Collection Act, 1869, and in Scotland or Ireland four pounds.

32 & 33 Vict. c. 41.

3 EDW. VII. c. 39.

Condition in contracts for letting houses for the working classes.

12. Section seventy-five of the principal Act (which relates to the condition to be implied on letting houses for the working classes) shall, as respects any contract made after the passing of this Act, take effect notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary, and any such agreement made after the passing of this Act shall be void.

9 EDW. VII. c. 44.

14. In any contract made after the passing of this Act for letting for habitation a house or part of a house at a rent not exceeding—

(a) in the case of a house situate in the administrative county of London, forty pounds;

(b) in the case of a house situate in a borough or urban district with a population according to the last census for the time being of 50,000 or upwards, twenty-six pounds;

(c) in the case of a house situate elsewhere, sixteen pounds;

there shall be implied a condition that the house is at the commencement of the holding in all respects reasonably fit for human habitation, but the condition aforesaid shall not be implied where a house or part of a house is let for a term of not less than three years upon the terms that it be put by the lessee into a condition reasonably fit for occupation and the lease is not determinable at the option of either party before the expiration of that term.

Section 15.

15.—(1) The last foregoing section shall as respects contracts to which that section applies, take effect as if the condition implied by that section included an undertaking that the house shall during the holding be kept by the landlord in all respects fit for human habitation.

(2) The landlord or the local authority or any person authorised by him or them in writing, may at reasonable times of the day on giving twenty-four hours' notice in writing to the tenant or occupier enter any house, premises or building to which this section applies for the purpose of viewing the state and condition thereof.

In Ryall v. Kidwell & Son, (1913) 3 K. B. 123; 82 L. J. K. B. 877; C. A. [1914] 3 K. B. 135; 83 L. J. K. B. 1140, the court held that a stranger to the contract of tenancy has no remedy for a breach of the undertaking mentioned in the above sections (see Cavalier v. Pope, (1905) 2 K. B. 757; 74 L. J. K. B. 857; (1906) A. C. 428; 75 L. J. K. B. 609), hence the infant daughter of tenant cannot recover damages for injuries caused by landlord's default (Dobson v. Horsley, (1915) 1 K. B. 634; 84 L. J. K. B. 399, distinguishing Miller v. Hancock, (1893) 2 Q. B. 177. See also Groves v. Western Mansions, Ltd., (1916) 33 T. L. R. 76).

On taking furnished lodgings no warranty is implied that the proposed tenant is a fit and proper person to occupy them (Humphrey v. Miller and Others, (1917) 2 K. B. 122).

INCLOSURE, EXCHANGE, ETC., EXPENSES ACT, 1868.

Jurisdiction is given to the county court under sects. 3 and 4. By sect. 3 the Commissioners may by an order under their hands and seal, declare by whom and what costs shall be paid to them, and have power by application to any county court, to recover the same from the person liable, together with all costs. By sect. 4, the Commissioners may by an order under their hands and seal require persons in possession of documents relating to an inclosure, to deliver the same to them, and in default, to summons such person before the judge of the county court for the county in which the lands or any part thereof authorised to be inclosed shall be situate. Note that the court having jurisdiction under sect. 3 is any court, whilst under sect. 4 it is limited to the judge of the court within the district of which the inclosure is situated.

Practice is governed by Order L. rr. 1, 2, 3, post, p. 2066, and should be commenced by plaint and summons; by sect. 3 the order of the Commissioners is made conclusive evidence of the debt, and by sect. 4 the judge upon production of the order, shall enforce such order at the expense of the person in default by attachment (see Rule 3).

Costs of taxation, how to be recovered.

3. In all cases in which any dispute as to the expenses incidental to an enfranchisement, or as to the compensation to be paid to the steward, shall be referred to the Commissioners for their certificate, the costs incurred by them in ascertaining the same shall be paid to the Commissioners, either by the person making such reference or applying for such certificate, or by the person whose costs are so taxed, as the Commissioners, by order under their hands and seal, may direct, and such order shall state the amount of such costs; and the Commissioners shall have power, by application to any county court, to recover the same from the person liable under such order, together with all costs of such application, and such order shall be conclusive evidence of such debt.

Power to Commissioners to enforce production of documents belonging to inclosure.

4. In any case in which an inclosure has been authorised by Parliament, and a valuer appointed, it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, at any time they shall see occasion, by an order under their hands and seal, to require such valuer, or any other person who shall have charge of or be in possession of any schedule, valuation, plan, report, award, or other document relating to such inclosure, to deliver the same to them at their office; and in default of such delivery within the time named in such order it shall be lawful for the Commissioners to summons such valuer or other person before the judge of the county court for the county in which the lands or any part thereof authorised to be inclosed shall be situate; and the judge of such court shall, upon production of the order of the Commissioners, give such direction to enforce such order, at the expense of the person neglecting or refusing to obey the same, as he is now by law enabled to give to compel the production of papers and documents before such court.

Particulars of demand shall be filed with every such application, stating concisely the relief or order which the plaintiff claims.

Costs in actions under 31 & 32 Vict. c. 89, s. 4.

2. The costs in any action under the said s. 4 shall be taxed on such scale as the judge shall direct, and in default of such direction shall be taxed under column B.

Non-compliance with order for delivery under 31 & 32 Vict. c. 89, s. 4.

3. If the defendant in any action under s. 4 fails to comply with an order for delivery made in such action, he shall be liable to attachment.

THE INDUSTRIAL AND PROVIDENT SOCIETIES ACT, 1893; AND AMENDMENT ACT, 1913.

[56 & 57 Vict. c. 39; 3 & 4 Geo. V. c. 31.]

Jurisdiction under this Act relates to: (1) recovery of money payable to societies by members (sect. 23); (2) defaults of officers (sect. 48); (3) decision of disputes (sect. 49); (4) enforcement of awards on disputes (sect. 49); (5) to setting aside deeds of dissolution of societies (sect. 61).

Practice.]—The Act does not specify the court where the proceedings should be commenced, except under sect. 23; in other cases proceed therefore in the court within the district of which the head office of the society was situate, or the defendant dwells. The practice is identical with that under the Building Societies Acts, 1874 and 1894 (see pp. 1781–1785), and is governed by Order XLI., p. 1781.

In what Name sued.]—Registration renders the society a body corporate by the name mentioned in the acknowledgment of registry, and it should be sued in that name (sect. 21).

Debentures.]—Debentures issued by a society duly registered charging the society's personal chattels by way of security for money are not exempted by sect. 17 of the Bills of Sale Act (1878) Amendment Act, 1882, from the statutory requirements in respect of bills of sale (Great Northern Rail. Co. v. Coal Co-operative Society, (1896) 1 Ch. 187; 65 L. J. Ch. 214).

56 & 57 Vict. c. 39.

Section 1.

Short title of Act.

1. This Act may be cited as The Industrial and Provident Societies Act, 1893.

Extent of Act.

2. This Act shall come into operation on the first day of January next after the passing thereof, and shall extend to Great Britain and Ireland and the Channel Islands.

Existing societies.

3. Every incorporated society now existing which has been registered or certified under any Act relating to industrial and provident societies, shall be deemed to be a society registered under this Act, and its rules shall, so far as the same are not contrary to any express provision of this Act, continue in force until altered or rescinded.

Societies which may be registered.

4. A society which may be registered under this Act (herein called an industrial and provident society) is a society for carrying on any industries, businesses, or trades specified in or authorised by its rules, whether wholesale or retail, and including dealings of any description with land. Provided that—

(a) No member other than a registered society shall have or claim any interest in the shares of the society exceeding two hundred pounds, and

(b) In regard to the business of banking, the society shall be subject to the provisions hereinafter contained.

* * * * *

The acknowledgment of registry.

6. The registrar, on being satisfied that a society has complied with the provisions as to registry in force under this Act, shall issue to such society an acknowledgment of registry.

* * * * *

Effect of acknowledgment of registry.

8. The acknowledgment of registry shall be conclusive evidence that the society therein mentioned is duly registered, unless it be proved that the registry of the society has been suspended or cancelled.

* * * * *

Registered office.

11. Every registered society shall have a registered office to which all communications and notices shall be addressed, and shall send to the registrar notice of the situation of such office, and of every change therein.

* * * * *

Incorporation of society with limited liability.

21. The registration of a society shall render it a body corporate by the name described in the acknowledgment of registry by which it may sue and be sued, with perpetual succession and a common seal, and with limited liability; and shall vest in the society all property for the time being vested in any person in trust for the society; and all legal proceedings pending by or against the trustees of any such society may be prosecuted by or against the society in its registered name without abatement.

Rules to bind the members.

22. The rules of a registered society shall bind the society and all members thereof and all persons claiming through them respectively to the same extent as if each member had subscribed his name and affixed his seal thereto, and there were contained in such rules a covenant on the part of such member, his heirs, executors, administrators, and assigns, to conform thereto, subject to the provisions of this Act: Provided that a society registered at the time when this Act comes into operation, or the members thereof, may respectively exercise any power given by this Act, and not made to depend on the provisions of its rules, notwithstanding any provision contained in any rule thereof registered before this Act was passed.

Remedy for debts from members.

23.—(1) All moneys payable by a member to a registered society shall be a debt due from such member to the society and shall be recoverable as such either in the county court of the district in which the registered office of the society is situate, or in that of the district in which such member resides, at the option of the society.

This jurisdiction is exerciseable, although the defendant has ceased to be a member of the society before the action is brought (Gwendolen Land Society v. Wicks, (1904) 2 K. B. 622; 73 L. J. K. B. 815).

(2) A registered society shall have a lien on the shares of any member for any debt due to it by him, and may set off any sum credited to the member thereon in or towards the payment of such debt.

The exercise of this lien in good faith is not a withdrawal of capital nor an undue preference of a shareholder (In re Gwawr-y-Gweithyr, etc., Society, (1901) 2 K. B. 477; 70 L. J. K. B. 614).

25.—(1) A member of a registered society not being under the age of sixteen years, may, by a writing under his hand, delivered at or sent to the registered office of the society during the lifetime of such member, or made in any book kept thereat, nominate any person or persons other than an officer or servant of the society (unless such officer or servant is the husband, wife, father, mother, child, brother, sister, nephew, or niece of the nominator) to or among whom his property in the society, whether in shares, loans, or deposits, or so much thereof as is specified in such nomination if the nomination does not comprise the whole, shall be transferred at his decease, provided the amount credited to him in the books of the society does not then exceed one hundred pounds sterling.

"Then" means at date of nomination, not at death of member (Griffiths v. Eccles Provident Society, (1912) A. C. 483; 81 L. J. K. B. 614).

(2) A nomination so made may be revoked or varied by any similar document under the hand of the nominator, delivered, sent, or made as aforesaid, but shall not be revocable or variable by the will of the nominator or any codicil thereto.

A nomination under this section, though invalid as purporting to dispose of more than 100*l.*, may be a good testamentary document and entitled to probate, if the terms of the Wills Act have been complied with (In the Goods of Baxter, (1903) P. 12; 72 L. J. P. 2).

N.B.—By 3 & 4 Geo. V. c. 31, s. 5 (see p. 2073), sect. 25 is repealed except as respects nominations made before 1st January, 1914, but re-enacted with some alterations. See post, p. 2073.

Section 27.

Provision for intestacy.

INEBRIATES ACTS, 1879, 1888 AND 1898.

[42 & 43 Vict. c. 19 ; 51 & 52 Vict. c. 19 ; 61 & 62 Vict. c. 60.]

By the Act of 1879 the local authority were permitted to license "retreats" for the reception, control, and curative treatment of habitual drunkards. Persons were admitted to such retreats on their own application. The application was to be accompanied by a statutory declaration of two persons to the effect that the applicant was an habitual drunkard as defined by the Act, and the signature of the applicant attested (see 1898 Act, sect. 16) by one justice.

The 1898 Act allows habitual drunkards convicted on indictment to be detained in a State inebriate reformatory or a certified inebriate reformatory, the managers of which are willing to receive him, and also allows habitual drunkards, four times convicted of drunkenness, to be detained in any certified inebriate reformatory, the managers of which are willing to receive them.

The 1888 Act only amends the 1879 Act in matters having no relation to county courts.

Jurisdiction.]—The 1879 Act, s. 18, allows County Court judges for the districts in which retreats are situate to authorise persons to visit and report on patients detained under that Act, and on their report to order, should they see fit, the detained person's discharge.

Under the 1898 Act, s. 12, a judge of county courts, if satisfied that any person detained in a State or certified inebriate reformatory has property more than sufficient to maintain his family, may make an order for the payment of the expenses incurred in relation to his detention, and the order may be enforced as a judgment of the county court; sect. 27 of the same Act defines what expenses means.

Practice is provided by Order L. rr. 12, 13, post, p. 2076.

42 & 43 VICT. C. 19.

Persons may be admitted to retreats on their own application.

10. Any habitual drunkard desirous of being admitted into a retreat may make application in writing to the licensee of a retreat for admission into such retreat, and such application shall be in the Form No. 3 in the second schedule hereto, and shall state the time during which such applicant undertakes to remain in such retreat. Such application shall be accompanied by the statutory declaration of two persons to the effect that the applicant is an habitual drunkard within the meaning of this Act.

The signature of the applicant to such application shall be attested by two justices of the peace, and such justices shall not attest the signature unless they have satisfied themselves that the applicant is an habitual drunkard within the meaning of this Act, and have explained to him the effect of his application for admission into a retreat and his reception therein, and such justices shall state in writing, and as a part of such attestation, that the applicant understood the effect of his application for admission and his reception into the retreat.

Such applicant, after his admission and reception into such retreat, unless discharged or authorised by licence as herein-after provided, shall not be entitled to leave such retreat till the expiration of the term mentioned in his application, and such applicant may be detained therein till the expiration of such term; provided that such term shall not exceed the period of twelve calendar months.

Judge of High Court of Justice, etc., may make orders to inspect.

18. A judge of the High Court of Justice, on an application ex parte at chambers, or a county court judge, within whose district the retreat is situated, may at any time, by order under his hand, authorise and direct any person or persons to visit and examine a person detained in a retreat under this Act, and to inquire into and report on any matters which such judge may think fit in relation to the person so detained. The judge, on receiving such report, may, if he shall think fit, order the discharge of any person so detained from any such retreat.

51 & 52 VICT. C. 19.

Attestation of application for admission to a retreat.

4. So much of section three and of section ten of the Habitual Drunkards Act, 1879, as provides that the signature of an habitual drunkard applying to be admitted to a retreat shall be attested by two justices of the peace having jurisdiction under the Summary Jurisdiction Act, in the place where the matter requiring the cognizance of a justice arises, is hereby repealed, and such attestation may be that of any two justices of the peace.

Construction of Act.

5. The Habitual Drunkards Act, 1879, and this Act shall be read and construed together as one Act, and may be cited together as the Inebriates Acts, 1879 and 1888.

Section 12. 61 & 62 VICT. C. 60.

12.—(1) If it is made to appear to a judge of county courts that any person detained in a State or certified inebriate reformatory has any real or personal property more than sufficient to maintain his family, if any, the judge may make an order for the payment of the expenses incurred in relation to the detention of that person, and the order may be enforced against any property of that person in the same way as a judgment of the county court.

(2) The order may be made on application—

JUDICIAL TRUSTEES ACT, 1896.

[59 & 60 VICT. c. 35.]

Jurisdiction.]—By this Act and the rules made under it (see Rule 31, post, p. 2088), power is given to certain county courts, viz., metropolitan courts and courts having bankruptcy jurisdiction (for list of such courts, see p. 1996) to appoint a judicial trustee where the trust property does not exceed 500*l.* in value (see sect. 2, and Rule 31).

A person interested in an estate is not entitled as of right to the appointment of a judicial trustee, the appointment is a matter entirely within the discretion of the court (In re Ratcliffe, (1898) 2 Ch. 352; 67 L. J. Ch. 562).

Who may be appointed.]—Any fit and proper person nominated in the application may be appointed; in the absence of any such nomination, or if the court is not satisfied as to the fitness of the nominated person, an official of the court may, but need not be appointed (Douglas v. Bolam, (1900) 2 Ch. 749; 70 L. J. Ch. 1).

Practice.]—The proceedings in the county court must be by petition, which by Rule 31 in the county court is substituted for an originating summons in the High Court, but it is expedient in the petition, or otherwise, to give the particulars required by Rule 4, to be given in the said summons.

Power of court on application to appoint judicial trustee.

1.—(1) Where application is made to the court by or on behalf of the person creating or intending to create a trust, or by or on behalf of a trustee or beneficiary, the court may, in its discretion, appoint a person (in this Act called a judicial trustee) to be a trustee of that trust, either jointly with any other person or as sole trustee, and, if sufficient cause is shown, in place of all or any existing trustees.

Section 1.

(2) The administration of the property of a deceased person, whether a testator or intestate, shall be a trust, and the executor or administrator a trustee, within the meaning of this Act.

(3) Any fit and proper person nominated for the purpose in the application may be appointed a judicial trustee, and, in the absence of such nomination, or if the court is not satisfied of the fitness of a person so nominated, an official of the court may be appointed, and in any case a judicial trustee shall be subject to the control and supervision of the court as an officer thereof.

(4) The court may, either on request or without request, give to a judicial trustee any general or special directions in regard to the trust or the administration thereof.

(5) There may be paid to a judicial trustee out of the trust property such remuneration, not exceeding the prescribed limits, as the court may assign in each case, subject to any rules under this Act respecting the application of such remuneration where the judicial trustee is an official of the court, and the remuneration so assigned to any judicial trustee shall, save as the court may for special reasons otherwise order, cover all his work and personal outlay.

(6) Once in every year the accounts of every trust of which a judicial trustee has been appointed shall be audited, and a report thereon made to the court by the prescribed persons, and, in any case where the court shall so direct, an inquiry into the administration by a judicial trustee of any trust, or into any dealing or transaction of a judicial trustee, shall be made in the prescribed manner.

Court to exercise jurisdiction.

2. The jurisdiction of the court under this Act may be exercised by the High Court, and as respects trusts within its jurisdiction by a palatine court, and (subject to the prescribed definition of the jurisdiction) by any county court judge to whom such jurisdiction may be assigned under this Act.

Jurisdiction of court in cases of breach of trust.

3.—(1) If it appears to the court that a trustee, whether appointed under this Act or not, is or may be personally liable for any breach of trust, whether the transaction alleged to be a breach of trust occurred before or after the passing of this Act, but has acted honestly and reasonably, and ought fairly to be excused for the breach of trust and for omitting to obtain the directions of the court in the matter in which he committed such breach, then the court may relieve the trustee either wholly or partly from personal liability for the same.

(2) This section shall come into operation at the passing of this Act.

To claim relief under this section a trustee must act both honestly and reasonably (In re Grindey (C. A.), (1898) 2 Ch. 593; 67 L. J. Ch. 624; Perrins v. Bellamy (C. A.), (1899) 1 Ch. 797; 68 L. J. Ch. 397; In re Mackay, (1911) 1 Ch. 300; 80 L. J. Ch. 237; Palmer v. Emerson, (1911) 2 Ch. 758; 80 L. J. Ch. 418). Provided the trustee acts reasonably and honestly, relief is not confined to executive or administrative blunders but extends to payments to a person not entitled (In re Allsop, (1914) 1 Ch. 1; 83 L. J. Ch. 42). The Act applies to actions for an account as well as to breaches of trust (In re Kay, (1897) 2 Ch. 518; 66 L. J. Ch. 759).

A claim for relief under this section need not be pleaded (In re Pawson' Settlements Trusts, (1917) 86 L. J. Ch. 380).

(8) Where an official of the court is judicial trustee, the court may direct that, instead of a separate account of the receipts and payments on behalf of the trust being kept at some bank approved by the court, all receipts on behalf of the trust may be dealt with, and all payments on behalf of the trust may be made, in such manner, and subject to such regulations as to the accounts to be kept of the receipts and payments and the procedure to be followed in dealing therewith, as the Treasury direct.

Judicial trustee not to keep money in his hands.

11. A judicial trustee must pay all money coming into his hands on account of his trust without delay to the trust account at the bank, and if he keeps any such money in his hands for a longer time than the court considers necessary, shall be liable to pay interest upon it at such rate not exceeding five per centum as the court may fix for the time during which the money remains in his hands.

Deductions allowed.

16. A judicial trustee shall, unless the court otherwise directs, be allowed on the audit of his accounts deductions made on account of his remuneration and allowances under these rules and also on account of the fees paid by him under these rules, but shall not be allowed any deduction on account of the expenses of professional assistance, or his own work or personal outlay, unless the deduction has been authorised by the court in pursuance of the Act or the court is satisfied that the deduction is justified by the strict necessity of the case.

(5) Where a trustee is remunerated, any allowance under this rule may be paid in addition to his remuneration.

(6) Any remuneration or allowance payable to a judicial trustee shall be paid or allowed to him at such times and in such manner as the court directs.

19.—(1) If the court is satisfied that a judicial trustee has failed to comply with the Act, or with these rules, or with any direction of the court or officer of the court made in accordance with the Act or these rules, or has otherwise misconducted himself in relation to the trust, the court may order that the whole or any part of the remuneration of the trustee be forfeited.

(2) This rule shall not affect any liability of the judicial trustee for breach of trust or to be removed or suspended.

Jurisdiction.]—The county court under this Act and the Licensing Rules, 1910, made by virtue of sect. 47, can be called upon to exercise jurisdiction in two ways: (1) the compensation authority may refer to the county court any question arising on the division of the amount to be paid as compensation, which such authority considers can be more conveniently determined by the county court (sect. 20, sub-s. 3); (2) where the compensation authority makes default for one month in paying 50*l.* or more, due in respect of any loan raised under the Act, the persons entitled or any of them may apply to the county court for the appointment of a receiver.

Practice.]—A reference by the compensation authority is governed by Order L. rr. 37—57 (post, p. 2095). By Rule 38, the court in the district of which the premises are situated shall be the court having jurisdiction; the form of the reference is settled by Rule 39; of the petition and affidavit, by Rule 41; who are to be respondents, by Rule 42; the fixing of the day for hearing, by Rules 44, 45; notice to parties and service, by Rules 46—50; by Rule 53 the procedure shall be the same as on any other petition; by Rule 56 the costs are regulated. By Rule 52 of Order L. the county court, though it can make no order inconsistent with the order of the compensating authority, if it appears to the county court that any person who has not made a claim before the compensating authority is interested, may send the order of reference back to the compensating authority with a report to that effect, in order that the said authority may take such action as it may think fit.

Practice as to the appointment of a Receiver.]—Under Licensing Rule 71 the county court having jurisdiction is the court of the district in which the office of the treasurer is situated. By Order L. r. 58 (post) an application for the appointment of a receiver shall be by petition, and the procedure shall be the same as on any other petition as to any matter amounting to 50*l.* or over (see O. XXXVIII.).

Compensation in respect of Non-renewal of old On-Licences.

Payment of compensation.

20.—(1) Where the compensation authority refuse the renewal of an old on-licence, a sum equal to the difference between the value of the licensed premises (calculated as if the licence were subject to the same conditions of renewal as were applicable immediately before the passing of the Licensing Act, 1904, and including in that value the amount of any depreciation of trade fixtures arising by reason of the refusal to renew the licence), and the value which those premises would bear if they were not licensed premises, shall be paid as compensation to the persons interested in the licensed premises.

4 Edw. VII. c. 23.

(2) The amount to be so paid shall, if an amount is agreed upon by the persons appearing to the compensation authority to be interested in the licensed premises and is approved by that authority, be that amount, and, in default of such agreement and approval, shall be determined by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue in the same manner and subject to the like appeal, under section ten of the Finance Act, 1894, to the High Court, as on the valuation of an estate for the purpose of estate duty, and in any event the amount shall be divided amongst the persons interested in the licensed premises (including the holder of the licence) in such shares as may be determined by the compensation authority:

57 & 58 Vict. c. 30.

Provided that, in the case of the holder of the licence, regard shall be had not only to his legal interest in the premises or trade fixtures, but also to his conduct and to the length of time during which he has been the holder of the licence; and the holder of a licence, if a tenant, shall (notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary) in no case receive a less amount than he would be entitled to as tenant from year to year of the licensed premises.

(3) If on the division of the amount to be paid as compensation any question arises which the compensation authority consider can be more conveniently determined by the county court, they may refer that question to the county court in accordance with rules of court to be made for the purpose. Section 20.

If there is delay on the part of the persons interested in the compensation (or it is presumed on the part of the court) the justices must grant a further provisional renewal of the licence though one has already been granted (Rex v. Newington Licensing Justices, [1914] 2 K. B. 710; 83 L. J. K. B. 1367).

(4) Any costs incurred by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue on an appeal from their decision to the High Court under this section shall, unless the High Court order those costs to be paid by some party to the appeal other than the Commissioners, be paid out of the amount to be paid as compensation.

Under s. 2 of the 1904 Act it was held that the valuation of the respective interests was a question of fact for the judge and that his finding could not be questioned. Query whether there was any appeal from him (Liverpool Corporation v. Peter Walker & Son, [C. A.] [1908] 2 K. B. 33; 77 L. J. K. B. 700).

21.—(1) The compensation authority shall, in each year, unless they certify to the Secretary of State that it is unnecessary to do so in any year, for the purpose of their powers and duties under this Act as compensation authority, impose in respect of all old on-licences renewed in respect of premises within their area, charges at rates not exceeding, and graduated in the same proportion as, the rates shown in the scale of maximum charges set out in the first part of the third schedule to this Act. Compensation fund.

(2) Charges payable under this section in respect of any licence shall be levied and paid together with, and as part of the duties on, the corresponding excise licence, but a separate account shall be kept by the Commissioners of Customs and Excise of the amount produced by those charges in the area of any compensation authority, and that amount shall in each year be paid over to that authority in accordance with rules made by the Treasury for the purpose.

(3) Such deductions from rent as are set out in the second part of the third schedule to this Act may, notwithstanding any agreement to the contrary, be made by any holder of a licence who pays a charge under this section, and also by any person from whose rent a deduction is made in respect of the payment of such a charge.

(4) Any sums paid to a compensation authority in respect of the charges under this section, or received by the compensation authority from any other source for the payment of compensation under this Act, shall be paid by them to a separate account under their management, and the moneys standing to the credit of that account shall constitute the compensation fund.

(5) Any expenses incurred by the compensation authority in the payment of compensation under this Act, or otherwise in the exercise of their powers or the performance of their duties as compensation authority, and such expenses of the licensing justices incurred with respect to the matter of the reference to the compensation authority of the question of the renewal of old on-licences, or the grant of new on-licences, as the compensation authority may allow, shall be paid out of the compensation fund, and the compensation authority, in the exercise of their powers, shall have regard to the funds available for the purpose.

(6) The compensation authority may, with the consent of a Secretary of State, borrow in accordance with rules made under this Act, on the security of the compensation fund, for the purpose of paying any compensation payable under this Act.

Rules.

47. A Secretary of State may make rules for carrying into effect the provisions of this Act as to the renewal of old on-licences, the payment of compensation, and as to the attachment of conditions to new justices' on-licences, and may by those rules amongst other things—

* * * * *

(b) provide for the enforcement of any security given for money borrowed by the compensation authority, and for the time, not exceeding fifteen years, within which money borrowed is to be replaced; and

(c) regulate the management and application of the compensation fund and the audit of the accounts of the compensation authority;

LICENSING RULES, 1910.

71.—(1) Where a compensation authority makes default for a period of one month in paying an amount of not less than fifty pounds (whether in one sum or separate sums) for the time being due in respect of any loan raised under the Act, the persons entitled to the said amount, or any of those persons, may, without prejudice to any other remedy, apply to the county court of the district in which the office of the treasurer of the compensation authority is situated for the appointment of a receiver; and any receiver so appointed (subject to any direction which may be given by the court) shall, as occasion requires, pay out of the compensation fund any sum the payment of which is so in default, together with all sums due while he is receiver on or in respect of any such loan, and all costs, charges, and expenses incurred in or about the appointment of such receiver, and the execution of his duties under this rule, including a proper remuneration for his trouble, and for that purpose may raise such sums as are necessary by means of charges under section 21 of the Act.

(2) The receiver shall have the same power (to be exercised subject to and in accordance with the provisions of these rules).

(3) All sums paid into the sinking fund shall, as soon as may be, be invested by the compensation authority in securities in which trustees are, for the time being, by law authorised to invest, and any investments made in pursuance of this provision may from time to time be varied or transposed; and all dividends and other annual sums received in respect of any investments shall, as soon as may be after they are received, be paid into the sinking fund and invested by the compensation authority in like manner.

Penalties for breach of byelaws may also be recovered in the county court, s. 24.

Practice.]—Proceedings in case of disputes under this Act are commenced by plaint and summons. The practice is the same as explained for disputes in building societies (Order XLI.; see p. 1781).

Provisions for the dissolution of institutions and adjustment of their affairs.

29. Any number not less than three-fifths of the members of any institution may determine that it shall be dissolved, and thereupon it shall be dissolved forthwith, or at the time then agreed upon, and all necessary steps shall be taken for the disposal and settlement of the property of the institution, its claims and liabilities, according to the rules of the said institution applicable thereto, if any, and if not, then as the governing body shall find expedient; provided, that in the event of any dispute arising

LOCAL LOANS ACT, 1875.

[38 & 39 Vict. c. 83.]

Jurisdiction is given under sect. 12, where the local authority has for twenty-one days made default in paying an amount of not less than 500*l.* (whether in one or separate sums), in respect of any security issued under the Act. The persons entitled to the amount or any of such persons may, as an additional remedy, apply to the county court to appoint a receiver, and the court may appoint and may make such orders and give such directions as to the powers and duties of the receiver as may be thought fit.

Further, under sect. 25, if the name of any person is without sufficient cause entered in or omitted from the register of securities issued under the Act (sect. 23), where the value of such securities does not exceed 50*l.*, proceedings for rectification of the register may be taken in the county court.

Practice.]—The application under either section shall be by petition presented to the court of the district in which the local authority exercises its authority; the procedure is governed by Order L. rr. 6—8, post, p. 2101.

12. Where a local authority makes default for a period of twenty-one days in paying an amount of not less than five hundred pounds (whether in one sum or separate sums) for the time being due on or in respect of any security issued under this Act, the persons entitled to the said amount, or any of such persons, may, instead of or in addition to bringing an action or actions, apply to the county court for the appointment of a receiver, and any receiver so appointed (subject to any direction which may be given by the court) shall from time to time raise as hereinafter mentioned, by or out of the local rate or property charged, sufficient money to pay the amount the payment of which is so in default, and all sums due while he is receiver on or in respect of any such Remedy by appointment of receiver for non-payment of money.

Section 12.

security, together with all costs, charges, and expenses incurred in or about the appointment of such receiver and the execution of his duties under this section, including a proper remuneration for his trouble, and shall render to the defaulting authority the balance, if any, remaining in his hands after making the said payments.

Where the amount so due or authorised to be raised is charged on the local rate, the receiver may raise the money he is authorised to raise under this section by means of the local rate, and for that purpose shall have the same power as the defaulting authority of levying the local rate, and the receiver shall have such access to and use of the documents of the defaulting authority relative to the local rate as he may require.

Where the amount so due or authorised to be raised is charged on any property, other than the local rate, the receiver may raise the sum which he is authorised to raise under this section by receipt of the rents and profits of the property, and if the security involves a power of sale, as in this Act mentioned, by sale of the property in such manner and subject to such conditions of sale and otherwise as the court may direct.

A county court may appoint a receiver under this section with respect to any local rate levied, or any property situate wholly or partly within the jurisdiction of such court, and may remove such receiver and appoint another in his stead, and so from time to time; and may make such orders and give such directions as to the powers and duties of the receiver, and otherwise as to the disposal of the moneys received by him, as may be thought fit for carrying this section into effect.

As to Register of Nominal Securities.

Register of nominal securities.

23. A local authority issuing nominal debentures, nominal debenture stock, or nominal annuity certificates under this Act, shall cause a register of such securities to be kept in one or more book or books, and there shall be entered in such register—

(1) The names and addresses and the descriptions of the owners for the time being of every such security, with a statement of the securities held by each person registered, and

(2) The date at which the name of any person was entered in the register in respect of any such security.

The register under this section shall be evidence of any matters by this Act directed or authorised to be inserted therein.

Inspection of register.

24. Any person may inspect the register at any reasonable time upon payment of such fee not exceeding one shilling as may be fixed by the local authority, and shall be entitled to obtain from the registrar, copies or extracts certified by him to be true copies or extracts of such register, upon payment of such fee not exceeding two shillings and sixpence, and two pence for every folio of seventy-two words, as the local authority may from time to time fix, and any copy or extract so certified shall be admissible in evidence.

Section 25. Rectification of register.

25. If the name of any person is without sufficient cause entered in or omitted from the register, or if default is made or unnecessary delay takes place in making any entry in such register, the person aggrieved or the local authority may apply to the court for an order that the register may be rectified.

The court may either refuse the application with or without costs to be paid by the applicant, or may, if satisfied of the justice of the case, whether there has or has not been any default on the part of the registrar, make an order for the rectification of the register, and make such order as to the payment of the costs of the application or of damages to the person aggrieved as to the court may seem just.

The court may, in any proceeding under this section, decide any question relating to the title of any party to such proceeding to have his name entered in or omitted from the register, and generally any question which it may be necessary or expedient to decide for the rectification of the register.

The court for the purposes of this section means any of Her Majesty's superior courts of law or equity, or any court to which the jurisdiction of such courts may be transferred, and where the value of any security or securities to which the application relates does not exceed fifty pounds shall include a county court, and the jurisdiction by this Act given to a superior court may be exercised in a summary manner by any judge or judges of such court sitting in chambers or otherwise.

8. The court to which petitions shall be presented under the two preceding rules of this Order shall be the court of the district in which the local authority exercises its authority.

LOAN SOCIETIES ACT, 1840.

[3 & 4 Vict. c. 110.]

Jurisdiction.]—By sect. 17 loans may be recovered in the county court to the extent of its jurisdiction, notwithstanding that sect. 16 provides for recovery by summons before a justice of the peace, also that the treasurer or clerk may be plaintiff.

Recovery of loans in courts of request.

17. And be it declared and enacted, that notwithstanding the provisions hereinbefore contained, the treasurer or clerk of such society for the time being may proceed for the recovery of the sum due on such note against the party or parties liable to pay the same, in any county court, or court of conscience or request, having jurisdiction to the amount so due, according to the course and practice of such courts; and in such case the Act or Acts, and all provisions therein relating to such court and the powers thereof, shall be applicable to the recovery of the sum so due on such note.

HIGHWAYS AND LOCOMOTIVES AMENDMENT ACT, 1878.

[41 & 42 VICT. c. 77; 61 & 62 VICT. c. 29.]

Jurisdiction.]—By the Highways and Locomotives Amendment Act 1878, s. 23, the authority liable for the repair of any highway might recover in a summary manner extraordinary expenses, shown by the certificate of their surveyor to have been incurred in repairing any highway by reason of damage caused by excessive weight passing along the same, or extraordinary traffic thereon from the person by whose orders the same had been conducted. Under that Act the county court had no jurisdiction, but by sect. 12, sub-s. 1 (a), of the Locomotives Act, 1898, expenses were made to be no longer recoverable in a summary manner, but when not exceeding 250*l.* might be sued for in the county court; if exceeding that amount, in the High Court. By sect. 12, sub-s. 1 (c), of the last mentioned Act, the words "by or in consequence of whose order" were substituted for "by whose order," an amendment no doubt made with the object of imposing liability on the originator of any work requiring the carriage of heavy materials, and avoiding the effect given to the words "by whose orders" in Kent County Council v. Gerard (Lord), (1897) A. C. 633; 66 L. J. Q. B. 677. "In consequence of whose order" has been held to mean "as a necessary consequence of whose order" (Egham Rural District Council v. Gordon, (1902) 2 K. B. 120; 71 L.J. K. B. 523).

The expenses of extraordinary traffic not exceeding 250*l.* caused by light locomotives within sect. 1 of the Locomotives on Highways Act, 1896, as extended by the Heavy Motor Car Order, 1904 (see 1898 Act, sect. 17, sub-s. 2), can be recovered in the county court (Rex v. Judge James, (1908) 1 K. B. 958; 77 L. J. K. B. 402).

Practice.]—Proceedings must be commenced within twelve months of the damage done, or, when the damage is in consequence of any particular building contract or work extending over a long period, must be commenced not later than six months after the completion of the contract or work; as to what is "work extending over a long period," and when the six months' limit begins to run, see Bromley Rural District Council v. Croydon Corporation (C. A.), (1908) 1 K. B. 353; 77 L. J. K. B. 335, and Lancaster Rural District Council v. Fisher, (1907) 2 K. B. 516; 76 L. J. K. B. 1070. The proceeding will be by plaint and summons in the ordinary way.

Appeal as in an ordinary case under sect. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888 (see Part I. p. 123).

Costs.]—Allowances of special items, and of fees to counsel may be made (Order LIII. r. 8 (2), ante, p. 637).

41 & 42 Vict. c. 77.

Extraordinary Traffic.

Power of road authority to recover expenses of extra-ordinary traffic.

23. Where by a certificate of their surveyor it appears to the authority which is liable or has undertaken to repair any highway, whether a main road or not, that, having regard to the average expense of repairing highways in the neighbourhood, extraordinary expenses have been incurred by such authority in repairing such highway by reason of the damage caused by excessive weight passing along the same, or extraordinary traffic thereon, such authority may recover in a summary manner from any person by whose order such weight or traffic has been conducted the amount of such expenses as may be proved to the satisfaction of the court having cognizance of the case to have been incurred by such authority by reason of the damage arising from such weight or traffic as aforesaid.

Provided that any person against whom expenses are or may be recoverable under this section may enter into an agreement with such authority as is mentioned in this section for the payment to them of a composition in respect of such weight or traffic, and thereupon the persons so paying the same shall not be subject to any proceedings under this section.

Extraordinary traffic. What is? If the road was adapted to the traffic and the traffic was such as might be expected on the road in the ordinary course, such traffic was in its character not extraordinary (Ledbury Rural District Council v. Somerset, (1914) W. N. 16th May, 1914, p. 222), and traffic caused by a recognized local industry could not be called extraordinary (Wallington v. Hoskins, (1880) 6 Q. B. D. 206; 50 L. J. M. C. 19); though the same traffic might be extraordinary if the road was not adapted to or generally used for such traffic (Geirionydd Rural District Council v. Green, (1909) 2 K. B. 845; 78 L. J. K. B. 1039).

On the other hand the fact that a class of traffic has grown up to meet the demands of a district, such as motor omnibuses, will not prevent such traffic being "extraordinary traffic" if in view of other circumstances the traffic is in fact extraordinary (Abingdon Rural District Council v. City of Oxford Electric Tramways, Ltd., (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 286; C. A. (1917) 2 K. B. 318.

Whether traffic is "extraordinary traffic" or not is a question of fact. Traffic due to a normal increase of traffic in consequence of the development of the district is not "extraordinary traffic." Continued user of a road for traffic, which at the time of its first user is extraordinary traffic, may in time convert such traffic into ordinary traffic. No rule can be laid down as to what such length of time must be. Ordinary traffic on a particular road if diverted, though by the action of the local authority, to another road may be "extraordinary traffic" upon such other road (Barnsley British Co-operative Society v. Worsborough Urban Council, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. (H. L.) 103).

The local authority must prove that the expenses of repair were extraordinary, and to do so regard must be had to the average expense of repairing similar highways in that neighbourhood (Billericay Rural District Council v. Poplar Guardians (C. A.), (1911) 2 K. B. 801; 80 L. J. K. B. 124; Colchester Corporation v. Gepp (C. A.), (1912) 1 K. B. 477; 81 L. J. K. B. 356).

Section 12. 61 & 62 Vict. c. 29.

Amendments as to proceedings for extraordinary traffic damage.

12.—(1) Section twenty-three of the Highways and Locomotives (Amendment) Act, 1878 (which relates to the recovery of expenses of extraordinary traffic), shall be amended as follows:—

(a) Expenses under that section shall cease to be recoverable in a summary manner, but may be recovered if not exceeding two hundred and fifty pounds in the county court, and if exceeding that sum in the High Court.

(b) Proceedings for the recovery of any expenses incurred after the passing of this Act shall be commenced within twelve months of the time at which the damage has been done, or where the damage is the consequence of any particular building contract, or work extending over a long period, shall be commenced not later than six months after the completion of the contract or work.

(c) There shall be substituted for the words "by whose order" the words "by or in consequence of whose order."

(2) Nothing in this section shall affect the prosecution and determination of any proceedings which have been commenced before this Act shall come into operation.

Interpretation and saving.

17.—(1) In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires,—

The expression "locomotive" means a locomotive propelled by steam or other than animal power;

The expression "waggon" includes any truck, cart, carriage, or other vehicle;

59 & 60 Vict. c. 36.

(2) Nothing in this Act shall affect light locomotives within the meaning of the Locomotives on Highways Act, 1896.

Proceedings under the above section are in the nature of an action for personal tort, so cannot be taken against an executor (Story v. Sheard, (1892) 2 Q. B. 515; 65 L. J. M. C. 178); as to when the six months' limit begins to run, see Bromley Rural District Council v. Croydon Corporation (C. A.), (1908) 1 K. B. 353; 77 L. J. K. B. 335, and Lancaster Rural District Council v. Fisher, (1907) 2 K. B. 516; 76 L. J. K. B. 1070. "Completion of the work" means completion so far as the constructional work is concerned, and if that consists of several parts so closely connected that each would be useless without the others, the six months' period runs from the completion of the whole work (Carlisle Rural District Council v. Carlisle Corporation, (1909) 1 K. B. 471; 78 L. J. K. B. 307; see also Reigate Rural District Council v. Sutton District Water Co., 78 L. J. K. B. 315).

Sect. 17, sub-s. 2, does not relieve a light locomotive which causes extraordinary expenses from liability (Rex v. Judge James, (1908) 1 K. B. 958; 77 L. J. K. B. 402).

THE LONDON BUILDING ACTS, 1894 AND 1905.

[57 & 58 Vict. c. ccxiii.; 5 Edw. VII. c. ccix.—Private Acts.]

Jurisdiction is given to the county court by sect. 91 to hear appeals against an award made by surveyor or surveyors as to differences between building owners and adjoining owners within the limits of the administrative county of London; by sect. 94 to settle any difference as to security between a building owner and an adjoining owner; by sect. 168 to settle the time and manner of executing any work, or of doing any other thing, and to put the parties upon terms as to the execution of the work. By sect. 196, where any consent has to be given to, any notice served on, or any thing done by or to any owner, and there is no owner, or the owner cannot be found, the judge of the county court may give such consent and do or cause such thing to be done on such terms as he may think fit, or may dispense with the service of any notice. By sect. 200, sub-s. 11 (d) (e), the failure to comply with any order of the county court made in pursuance of the Act, or the refusal to admit at a reasonable time any builder to any building or in any way to prevent a builder from complying with any order of the county court, causes a person so offending to be liable upon summary conviction to penalties. By sect. 20 of the Act of 1905 (supra) the owner of any building who has paid or incurred the expenses of executing any work in respect of such building which the owner of such building is required to execute under the provisions of this Act or has paid any other expenses which by any such provision as aforesaid are required to be borne or paid by the owner may, if he thinks fit, apply to the county court of the district in which such building is situate and such court may thereupon issue a summons requiring the several persons entitled to any estate or interest in the building to appear before the court and the court may make such order concerning such expenses or their apportionment among all the several persons entitled to any estate or interest in the building as appears to the court to be just and equitable in the circumstances of the case, regard being had to the terms of any lease, or contract affecting such building.

Removal to High Court.]—By sect. 91, sub-s. 5, if the appellant satisfies the judge that the matter involves a liability to pay a sum, exclusive of costs, exceeding 50*l.*, and gives security, proceedings in the county court are to be stayed, and the appellant may bring an action against the other party in the High Court, the costs incurred in the county court are to be deemed to be costs incurred in such action.

Practice is settled by Order L. rr. 30—32 (post, p. 2108). Rule 30 settles the practice of appeals from an award under sect. 91; Rule 31, the practice where security is demanded under sect. 94; and Rule 32, the practice on an application made under sect. 196. Poundage is estimated on the amount in dispute; if no amount is in dispute, or is unascertained, as on a claim for 20*l.*

Appeal from County Court.]—In any matter in which jurisdiction is given to a county court by the Act, any person has, by sect. 168, the same right of appeal as he would have under the County Courts Act, 1888, s. 120.

Settlement of difference between building and adjoining owners.

91.—(1) In all cases not specially provided for by this Act where a difference arises between a building owner and adjoining owner in respect of any matter arising with reference to any work to which any notice given under this part of this Act relates unless both parties concur in the appointment of one surveyor they shall each appoint a surveyor and the two surveyors so appointed shall select a third surveyor and such one surveyor or three surveyors or any two of them shall settle any matter from time to time during the continuance of any work to which the notice relates in dispute between such building and adjoining owner with power by his or their award to determine the right to do and the time and manner of doing any work and generally any other matter arising out of or incidental to such difference but any time so appointed for doing any work shall not unless otherwise agreed commence until after the expiration of the period by this part of this Act prescribed for the notice in the particular case.

(2) Any award given by such one surveyor or by such three surveyors or by any two of them shall be conclusive and shall not be questioned in any court with this exception that either of the parties to the difference may appeal therefrom to the county court within fourteen days from the date of the delivery of the award and the county court may subject as hereinafter in this section mentioned rescind the award or modify it in such a manner as it thinks just.

(3) If either party to the difference make default in appointing a surveyor for ten days after notice has been served on him by the other party to make such appointment the party giving the notice may make the appointment in the place of the party so making default.

(4) The costs incurred in making or obtaining the award shall be paid by such party as the surveyor or surveyors determine.

(5) If the appellant from any such award on appearing before the county court declares his unwillingness to have the matter decided by that court and proves to the satisfaction of the judge of that court that in the event of the matter being decided against him he will be liable to pay a sum exclusive of costs exceeding fifty pounds and gives security to be approved by the judge duly to prosecute his appeal and to abide the event thereof all proceedings in the county court shall thereupon be stayed and the appellant may bring an action in the High Court against the other party to the difference.

(6) The plaintiff in such action shall deliver to the defendants an issue whereby the matters in difference between them may be tried and the form of such issue in case of dispute or in case of the non-appearance of the defendant shall be settled by the High Court and such action shall be prosecuted and issue tried in the same manner and subject to the same incidents in and subject to which actions are prosecuted and issues tried in other cases within the jurisdiction of the High Court or as near thereto as circumstances admit.

(7) If the parties to any such action agree as to the facts a special case may be stated for the opinion of the High Court and any case so stated may be brought before the court in like manner and subject to the same incidents in and subject to which other special cases are brought before such court or as near thereto as circumstances admit and any costs that may have been incurred in the county court by the parties to such action as is mentioned in this section shall be deemed to be costs incurred in such action and be payable accordingly.

(8) Where both parties to the difference have concurred in the appointment of one surveyor for the settlement of such difference then if such surveyor refuse or for seven days neglect to act or die or become incapable to act before he has made his award the matters in dispute shall be determined in the same manner as if such single surveyor had not been appointed.

(9) Where each party to the difference has appointed a surveyor for the settlement of the difference and a third surveyor has been selected then if such third surveyor refuse or for seven days neglect to act or before such difference is settled die or become incapable to act the two surveyors shall forthwith select another third surveyor in his place and every third surveyor so selected as last aforesaid shall have the same powers and authorities as were vested in his predecessor.

(10) Where each party to the difference has appointed a surveyor for the settlement of the difference then if the two surveyors so appointed refuse or for seven days after request of either party neglect to select a third surveyor or another third surveyor in the event of the refusal or neglect to act death or incapacity of the third surveyor for the time being a Secretary of State may on the application of either party select some fit person to act as third surveyor and every surveyor so selected shall have the same powers and authorities as if he had been selected by the two surveyors appointed by the parties.

(11) Where each party to the difference has appointed a surveyor for the settlement of the difference then if before such difference is settled either surveyor so appointed die or become incapable to act the party by whom such surveyor was appointed may appoint in writing some other surveyor to act in his place and if for the space of seven days after notice served on him by the other party for that purpose he fail to do so the other surveyor may proceed ex parte and the decision of such other surveyor shall be as effectual as if he had been a single surveyor in whose appointment both parties had concurred and every surveyor so to be substituted as aforesaid shall have the same powers and authorities as were vested in the former surveyor at the time of his death or disability as aforesaid.

(12) Where each party to the difference has appointed a surveyor for the settlement of the difference then if either of the surveyors refuse or for seven days neglect to act the other surveyor may proceed ex parte and the decision of such other surveyor shall be as effectual as if he had been a single surveyor in whose appointment both parties had concurred.

Security to be given by building owner and adjoining owner.

94. An adjoining owner may if he think fit by notice in writing require the building owner (before commencing any work which he may be authorised by this part of this Act to execute) to give such security as may be agreed upon or in case of difference may be settled by the judge of the county court for the payment of all such expenses costs and compensation in respect of the work as may be payable by the building owner.

The building owner may if he think fit at any time after service on him of a party wall or party structure requisition by the adjoining owner and before beginning a work to which the requisition relates but not afterwards serve a counter requisition on the adjoining owner requiring him to give such security for payment of the expenses costs and compensation for which he is or will be liable as may be agreed upon or in case of difference may be settled as aforesaid.

If the adjoining owner do not within one month after service of that counter requisition give security accordingly he shall at the end of that month be deemed to have ceased to be entitled to compliance with his party wall or party structure requisition and the building owner may proceed as if no party wall or party structure requisition had been served on him by the adjoining owner.

Section 168.

Powers of and appeal from county court.

168. Where jurisdiction is by this Act given to a county court that court may settle the time and manner of executing any work or of doing any other thing and may put the parties to the case upon such terms as respects the execution of the work as the court thinks fit:

Provided that any person shall have the same right of appeal from any decision of a county court in any matter in which jurisdiction is given to such court by this Act as he would have under the County Courts Act, 1888, from any decision of such court in any matter.

* * * * *

Appeals under 57 & 58 Vict. c. ccxiii. s. 91.

196. Where any consent is required to be given any notice to be served or any other thing to be done by on or to any owner in pursuance of this Act if there is no owner or if any such owner cannot be found the judge of the county court may give such consent or do or cause to be done such thing on such terms and conditions as he may think fit and may dispense with the service of any notice which would otherwise be required to be served.

LUNACY ACT, 1890.

[53 & 54 Vict. c. 5.]

As amended by Lunacy Act, 1891 (54 & 55 Vict. c. 65).

MENTAL DEFICIENCY ACT, 1913.

[3 & 4 Geo. V. c. 28.]

Jurisdiction.]—By sect. 132 of the Act of 1890, where a reception order has been made in the case of a lunatic, the value of whose real and personal estate is under 200*l.*, and no relative or friend is willing to undertake the management of such property, any judge of county courts having jurisdiction in the place from which the lunatic is sent, upon application of a clerk to the guardians or relieving officer, may authorise such persons to take possession of and realise the property of the lunatic, and exercise the powers of a legal personal representative as if the lunatic were dead. Also, by sect. 300, upon application by the guardians of a union, a county court judge may make an order to be enforced against any property of the lunatic for payment of expenses incurred in relation to a lunatic.

Since the passing of this statute, patients, not being paupers or lunatics so found by inquisition, can be received only under an order made by a "judicial authority"; by sect. 9, a county court judge may exercise the powers of a "judicial authority," but is not required to exercise such powers so as to interfere with or delay the exercise of his ordinary jurisdiction. In such case he must sign and send the certificate as provided.

The judge of county courts by sect. 19 of the Mental Deficiency Act, 1913, is made a judicial authority under that Act. In sects. 9—5 of that Act and th eRegulations (post, pp. 2118, 2128 the requirements as to making orders by the judicial authority are enacted. The judicial authority is entitled to be assisted by the same officers as if he was acting in the exercise of his ordinary jurisdiction.

Practice.]—An application under sects. 132 and 300 of the Act of 1890 shall be made by petition and same procedure followed, and costs allowed as on a petition under Order XXXVIII. (see Order L. r. 17, p. 2118). The practice when the judge is acting as a judicial authority is provided by sects. 4—7 of the Act of 1890, and is initiated by a petition accompanied by particulars and two medical certificates on separate sheets of paper. The petition shall be considered in private, and, except by leave of the judicial authority, no one except the petitioner, the alleged lunatic, one person appointed by the lunatic, and the persons signing the medical certificates shall be present. In petitions under the Act of 1913 follow the enactments of sects. 5—9 and Order XXXVIII. and Order L. r. 17. See also Regulations dated 2nd April, 1914, post, p. 2122.

Privilege.]—On such an application, the judicial authority is acting judicially, and statements made during the proceedings are not actionable (Hodson v. Pare, (1899) 1 Q. B. 455; 68 L. J. Q. B. 309).

53 & 54 Vict. c. 5.

Private patients not found lunatic

4.—(1) Subject to the exceptions in this Act mentioned, a person, not being a pauper or a lunatic so found by inquisition, shall not be received and detained as a lunatic in an institution for lunatics, or by inquisition to be received only under order of judicial authority.

as a single patient, unless under a reception order made by the judicial authority hereinafter mentioned. A relative of the person applying for an order under this section or of the lunatic, or of the husband or wife of the lunatic, shall not be capable of making such order.

(2) The order shall be obtained upon a private application by petition accompanied by a statement of particulars and by two medical certificates on separate sheets of paper.

Forms 1, 2, 8.

Petition for reception order.

Form 1.

5.—(1) The petition shall be presented, if possible, by the husband or wife or by a relative of the alleged lunatic. If not so presented it shall contain a statement of the reasons why the petition is not so presented and of the connexion of the petitioner with the alleged lunatic, and the circumstances under which he presents the petition.

(2) No person shall present a petition unless he is at least twenty-one years of age and has within fourteen days before the presentation of the petition personally seen the alleged lunatic.

(3) The petitioner shall in the petition undertake that he will personally, or by someone specially appointed by him, visit the patient once at least in every six months; and the undertaking shall be recited in the order.

Form 2.

(4) The petition shall be signed by the petitioner and the statement of particulars by the person making the statement.

Procedure upon petition for a reception order.

Form 3.

6.—(1) Upon the presentation of the petition the judicial authority shall consider the allegations in the petition and statement of particulars and the evidence of lunacy appearing by the medical certificates, and whether it is necessary for him personally to see and examine the alleged lunatic; and, if he is satisfied that an order may properly be made forthwith, he may make the same accordingly; or, if not so satisfied, he shall appoint as early a time as practicable, not being more than seven days after the presentation of the petition, for the consideration thereof; and he may make such further or other inquiries of or concerning the alleged lunatic as he may think fit. Notice of the time and place appointed for the consideration of the petition (unless personally given to the petitioner) shall be sent to the petitioner by post in a prepaid registered letter addressed to him at his address as given in the petition.

(2) The judicial authority, if not satisfied with the evidence of lunacy appearing by the medical certificates, may, if he thinks it necessary so to do, visit the alleged lunatic at the place where he may happen to be.

(3) The petition shall be considered in private, and no one except the petitioner, the alleged lunatic (unless the judicial authority shall in his discretion otherwise order), any one person appointed by the alleged lunatic for that purpose, and the persons signing the medical certificates accompanying the petition, shall, without the leave of the judicial authority, be present at the consideration thereof.

(4) At the time appointed for consideration of the petition the judicial authority may make an order thereon or dismiss the same, or, if he thinks fit, may adjourn the same for any period not exceeding fourteen days for further evidence or information, and he may give notice to such persons as he thinks fit of the adjourned consideration, and summon any persons to attend before him. Section 6.

(5) Every judicial authority and all persons admitted to be present at the consideration of any petition for a reception order, or otherwise having official cognisance of the fact that a petition has been presented, except the alleged lunatic and the person appointed by the alleged lunatic as aforesaid, shall be bound to keep secret all matters and documents which may come to his or their knowledge by reason thereof, except when required to divulge the same by lawful authority.

Dismissal of petition.

7.—(1) If the petition is dismissed, the judicial authority shall deliver to the petitioner a statement in writing under his hand of his reasons for dismissing the same, and shall send a copy of such statement to the Commissioners and shall also, where the alleged lunatic is detained under an urgency order, send notice by post or otherwise to the person in whose charge the alleged lunatic is, that the petition has been dismissed.

(2) Any judicial authority making or refusing a reception order, shall, if so required by the Commissioners, give to them all such information as they may require as to the circumstances under which the order was made or refused.

(3) The Commissioners may communicate such information as they think proper, on the dismissal of the petition or the release of the alleged lunatic, to him or to any person who may satisfy them that he is a proper person to receive the information.

(4) If after a petition has been dismissed another petition is presented as to the same alleged lunatic, the person presenting such other petition, so far as he has any knowledge or information with regard to the previous petition and its dismissal, shall state the facts relating thereto in his petition, and shall obtain from the Commissioners at his own expense, and present with his petition, a copy of the statement sent to them of the reasons for dismissing the previous petition, and, if he wilfully omits to comply with this sub-section, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.

Right of lunatic to be examined by judicial authority.

8.—(1) When a lunatic has been received as a private patient under an order of a judicial authority, without a statement in the order that the patient has been personally seen by such judicial authority, the patient shall have the right to be taken before or visited by a judicial authority, other than the judicial authority who made the order, unless the medical officer of the institution, or, in the case of a single patient, his medical attendant, within twenty-four hours after reception, in a certificate signed and sent to the Commissioners, states that the exercise of such right would be prejudicial to the patient. Form 5.

(2) Where no such certificate has been signed and sent, the manager of the institution in which the patient is, or the person having charge of him as a single patient, shall, within twenty-four hours after reception, give to the patient a notice in writing of his right under this section, and shall ascertain whether he desires to exercise the right, and if he, within seven days after his reception, expresses his desire to exercise the right, such manager or person shall procure him to sign a notice of such desire, and shall forthwith transmit it by post in a prepaid registered letter to the Form 6. Form 7.

Section 8.

judicial authority who is to exercise the jurisdiction under this section, or to the justices' clerk of the petty sessional division or borough where the lunatic is, to be by him transmitted to such judicial authority, and the judicial authority shall thereupon arrange, as soon as conveniently may be, either to visit the patient or to have the patient brought before him by the manager or person as the judicial authority may think fit.

(3) The judicial authority shall be entitled, if he desires so to do, to see the medical certificates and any other documents, upon the consideration of which the reception order was made, and shall after personally seeing the patient send to the Commissioners a report, and the Commissioners shall take such steps as may be necessary to give effect to the report.

(4) For the purposes of this section the jurisdiction shall be exercised by any judicial authority having authority to act in the place where the person received is, and not being the judicial authority who made the reception order; and arrangements shall for that purpose from time to time be made amongst themselves by the persons having such authority as aforesaid.

Judicial authority defined.

9.—(1) The powers of the judicial authority under this Act shall be exercised by a justice of the peace specially appointed as hereinafter provided, or a judge of county courts, or magistrate.

Residue of sub-s. rep., 54 & 55 Vict. c. 65, s. 29.

(2) Every judicial authority shall, in the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred by this Act, have the same jurisdiction and power as regards the summoning and examination of witnesses, the administration of oaths, and otherwise, as if he were acting in the exercise of his ordinary jurisdiction, and shall be assisted, if he so requires, by the same officers as if he were so acting, and their assistance under this Act shall be considered in fixing their remuneration.

A judicial authority may, if he considers it expedient, transfer the petition to any judicial authority willing to receive it (54 & 55 Vict. c. 65, s. 24).

(3) A judge of county courts and magistrate shall not be required to exercise any powers under this Act so as to interfere with or delay the exercise of his ordinary jurisdiction.

Urgency order.

11.—(1) In cases of urgency where it is expedient, either for the welfare of a person (not a pauper) alleged to be a lunatic, or for the public safety, that the alleged lunatic should be forthwith placed under care and treatment, he may be received and detained in an institution for lunatics, or as a single patient upon an urgency order, made (if possible) by the husband or wife or by a relative of the alleged lunatic, accompanied by one medical certificate.

Forms 8, 9.

(5) . . . . An urgency order, if made before a petition has been presented, shall be referred to in the petition, and if made after the petition has been presented, a copy thereof shall forthwith be sent by the petitioner to the judicial authority to whom the petition has been presented.

Section 28.

28.—(1) Every medical certificate under this Act shall be made and signed by a medical practitioner.

Medical certificates.

(2) Every medical certificate upon which a reception order is founded shall state the facts upon which the certifying medical practitioner has formed his opinion that the alleged lunatic is a lunatic, distinguishing facts observed by himself from facts communicated by others; and a reception order shall not be made upon a certificate founded only upon facts communicated by others.

Time and manner of medical examination of lunatic.

29.—(1) A reception order shall not be made unless the medical practitioner who signs the medical certificate, or where two certificates are required, each medical practitioner who signs a certificate, has personally examined the alleged lunatic in the case of an order upon petition not more than seven clear days before the date of the presentation of the petition, and in all other cases not more than seven clear days before the date of the order.

(2) Where two medical certificates are required, a reception order shall not be made unless each medical practitioner signing a certificate has examined the alleged lunatic separately from the other.

Persons disqualified for signing certificates.

30. A medical certificate accompanying a petition for a reception order or accompanying an urgency order shall not be signed by the petitioner or person signing the urgency order, or by the husband or wife, father or father-in-law, mother or mother-in-law, son or son-in-law, daughter or daughter-in-law, brother or brother-in-law, sister or sister-in-law, partner or assistant of such petitioner or person.

Usual medical attendant to sign medical certificate in case of private patient, if possible.

31. One of the medical certificates accompanying a petition for a reception order shall, whenever practicable, be under the hand of the usual medical attendant, if any, of the alleged lunatic. If for any reason it is not practicable to obtain a certificate from such usual medical attendant, the reason shall be stated in writing by the petitioner to the judicial authority to whom the petition is presented, and such statement shall be deemed to be part of the petition.

Patients not to be received under certificates by interested persons.

32.—(2) Neither of the persons signing the medical certificates in support of a petition for a reception order shall be the father or father-in-law, mother or mother-in-law, son or son-in-law, daughter or daughter-in-law, brother or brother-in-law, sister or sister-in-law, or the partner or assistant, of the other of them.

Amendment of orders and certificates.

34.—(1) If an order or certificate for the reception of a lunatic is, after such reception, found to be in any respect incorrect or defective, such order or certificate may, within fourteen days next after such reception, be amended by the person who signed the same. (2) The judge, by whom such order is made, may by the same or any subsequent orders give such directions as he thinks fit as to the application of the property of the lunatic for his benefit or in reimbursement of such sums as may have been or may be expended by the guardians of the union for his care or relief, or of the costs or expenses incurred in relation to the lunatic by such guardians, or by the person acting under any such order as aforesaid, or the judge may, if he thinks fit, order that the whole or any part of the proceeds of the lunatic's property be paid into the county court to the credit of an account intituled in the matter of such lunatic, and any sum so paid into court may either be invested in the manner provided by the county court rules in force for the time being, or be paid out of court from time to time to such person as the judge directs, to be held and applied for the benefit of such lunatic, or in or towards such reimbursement as aforesaid, in such manner as the judge directs.

COUNTY COURT RULES.—ORDER L., RULE 17.

An application to the judge under sect. 132 or sect. 300 of the Lunacy Act, 1890, shall be made by petition; and the same procedure shall be followed and the same costs allowed as on a petition under Order XXXVIII.

MENTAL DEFICIENCY ACT, 1913.

[3 & 4 Geo. V. c. 28.]

Requirements as to the Making of Orders.

(See Regulations of 2nd April, 1914, post, p. 2122.)

Presentation of petitions.

5.—(1) An order of a judicial authority under this Act shall be obtainable upon a private application by petition made by any relative or friend of the alleged defective, or by any officer of the local authority under this Act authorised in that behalf (a).

(2) Every petition shall be accompanied by two medical certificates, one of which shall be signed by a medical practitioner approved for the purpose by the local authority or the Board, or a certificate that a medical examination was impracticable, and by a statutory declaration made by the petitioner and by at least one other person (who may be one of the persons who gave a medical certificate) stating—

(a) that the person to whom the petition relates is a defective within the meaning of this Act, and the class of defectives to which he is alleged to belong; and

(b) that that person is subject to be dealt with under this Act, and the circumstances which render him so subject; and

(c) whether or not a petition under this Act, or a petition for a reception order under the Lunacy Acts, 1890 to 1911, has previously been presented concerning that person, and, if such a petition has been presented, the date thereof and the result of the proceedings thereon; and (d) if the petition is accompanied by a certificate that a medical examination was impracticable, the circumstances which rendered it impracticable.

(3) If a petition is not presented by a relative or by an officer of the local authority, it shall contain a statement of the reasons why the petition is not presented by a relative, and of the connection of the petitioner with the person to whom the petition relates and the circumstances under which he presents the petition.

(4) Where the Board are satisfied that a petition under this section ought to be presented concerning any person, and that the local authority have refused or neglected to cause a petition to be presented, they may direct an inspector or other officer to present a petition, and this section shall apply accordingly.

Procedure on hearing petitions.

6.—(1) Upon the presentation of the petition and such documents as aforesaid, the judicial authority shall either visit the person to whom the petition relates or summon him to appear before him.

(2) Proceedings before the judicial authority may, in any case if the judicial authority thinks fit, and shall, if so desired by the person to whom the petition relates, be conducted in private, and in that case no one except the petitioner, the person to whom the petition relates, his parents or guardian and any two persons appointed for the purpose by the person to whom the petition relates, or by his parents or guardian, and the persons signing the medical certificates and the statutory declaration accompanying the petition shall, without leave of the judicial authority, be allowed to be present.

(3) If the judicial authority is satisfied that the person to whom the petition relates is a defective and is also satisfied that he is subject to be dealt with under this Act, the judicial authority may, if he thinks it desirable to do so in the interests of such person, make an order either ordering him to be sent to an institution the managers of which are willing to receive him, or appointing a suitable person to be his guardian, and the order shall state the class of defectives to which he belongs, and the circumstances which render him subject to be dealt with under this Act:

Provided that—

(a) where the petition is not presented by the parent or guardian, the order shall not be made without the consent in writing of the parent or guardian, unless it is proved to the satisfaction of the judicial authority that such consent is unreasonably withheld, or that the parent or guardian cannot be found, but consent shall not be deemed to be unreasonably withheld if withheld with the bonâ fide intention of benefiting the defective; and

(b) nothing in this section shall prevent an order being made, notwithstanding that the person to whom the petition relates does not appear to the judicial authority to belong to the class of defectives to which he is in the petition alleged to belong, if the judicial authority is satisfied that he is a defective.

(4) If the judicial authority is not satisfied that the person to whom the petition relates is a defective, and subject to be dealt with under this Act, or that it is desirable in the interests of such person that an order should be made, the judicial authority may, if he thinks fit, adjourn the case for a period not exceeding fourteen days for further evidence or information, and may order that the person to whom the petition relates shall submit himself to medical examination, or may dismiss the petition:

Provided that, unless the petition is dismissed, the judicial authority shall order a medical examination in any case where the petition was accompanied by a certificate that a medical examination was impracticable.

Variation of orders.

7.—(1) Where an order has been made that a defective be placed under guardianship the judicial authority which made the order, or any other judicial authority, or, where the original order was not made by a judicial authority, any judicial authority may, on application being made for the purpose by the guardian or by the Board or by the local authority, and on being satisfied that the case is or has become one unsuitable for guardianship, order that the defective be sent to an institution.

(2) A person appointed to be guardian of a defective may, on the application of the local authority or of the Board or of any other person who appears to be interested, be removed from his office by any such judicial authority as aforesaid, and, where a person appointed to be guardian of a defective dies, or resigns his office, or is removed from his office, such judicial authority as aforesaid may, on the like application, appoint a suitable person to act in his stead.

(3) An order under this section shall not be made without giving to the local authority and, where practicable, to the relative or other person who presented the original petition and to the parent or guardian of the defective, an opportunity of being heard.

Procedure in cases of persons guilty of offences, etc. 8 Edw. VII. c. 57.

8.—(1) On the conviction by a court of competent jurisdiction of any person of any criminal offence punishable in the case of an adult with penal servitude or imprisonment, or on a child brought before a court under section fifty-eight of the Children Act, 1908, being found liable to be sent to an industrial school, the court, if satisfied on medical evidence that he is a defective within the meaning of this Act, may either—

(a) postpone passing sentence or making an order for committal to an industrial school, and direct that a petition be presented to a judicial authority under this Act with a view to obtaining an order that he be sent to an institution or placed under guardianship; or

(b) in lieu of passing sentence or making an order for committal to an industrial school, itself make any order which if a petition had been duly presented under this Act the judicial authority might have made, which order shall have the like effect as if it had been made by a judicial authority on a petition under this Act:

Section 8.

Provided that, if the court is a court of summary jurisdiction and the case is one which the court has power to deal with summarily, the court, if it finds that the charge is proved, may give such directions or make such order as aforesaid without proceeding to a conviction, and such a person shall for the purposes of this Act be deemed to be a person found guilty of an offence.

(2) The court may act either on the evidence given during the trial or other proceedings, or may call for further medical or other evidence.

(3) Where the court so directs a petition to be presented against a person, it may order him to be detained in an institution for defectives or in a place of safety for such time as is required for the presentation of the petition and the adjudication thereof.

(4) Where it appears to any court of summary jurisdiction by which a person charged with an offence is remanded or committed for trial that such person is a defective, the court may order that pending the further hearing or trial he shall be detained in an institution for defectives, or be placed under the guardianship of any person on that person entering into a recognisance for his appearance.

(5) Where it appears to the police authority that any person charged with an offence is a defective, they shall communicate with the local authority, and it shall be the duty of the police authority to bring before the court such evidence as to his mental condition as may be available:

Provided that, where it is intended to bring such evidence before the court, the police authority shall give notice of the intention to the person charged, and to his parent or guardian, if known.

Procedure in case of defectives undergoing imprisonment, etc.

9. Where the Secretary of State is satisfied from the certificate of two duly qualified medical practitioners that any person who is undergoing imprisonment (except imprisonment under civil process) or penal servitude, or is undergoing detention in a place of detention by order of a court, or in a reformatory or industrial school or in an inebriate reformatory, or who is detained in a criminal lunatic asylum, is a defective, the Secretary of State may order that he be transferred therefrom and sent to an institution for defectives, the managers of which are willing to receive him, or that he be placed under guardianship, and any order so made shall have the like effect as if it had been made by a judicial authority on petition under this Act.

Judicial authorities.

19.—(1) Any judge of county courts, police or stipendiary magistrate, or specially appointed justice who is a judicial authority for the purposes of the Lunacy Acts, 1890 to 1911, shall be a judicial authority for the purposes of this Act, and the number of justices specially appointed to be judicial authorities under those Acts shall be such as may be considered necessary to exercise the powers conferred by this Act as well as by those Acts on a judicial authority (a).

NOTE.—(a) Justices sitting as a judicial authority under this Act have no power to state a case, as their functions are ooly administrative (Newman v. Foster, (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 360. By analogy with this case a county court judge exercising such jurisdiction is only acting in an administrative capacity).

Section 19. (2) Every judicial authority shall, in the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred by this Act, have the same jurisdiction and power as regards the summoning and examination of witnesses, the administration of oaths, costs, and otherwise, as if he were acting in the exercise of his ordinary jurisdiction, and shall be assisted, if he so requires, by the same officers as if he were so acting, and their assistance under this Act shall be considered in fixing their remuneration

27. 40. At any time before an order has been executed, the judicial authority who made it, or, if he is not available, any other judicial authority, may, on being satisfied that it is necessary or expedient so to do, revoke the order, or may vary the same by substituting another institution or certified house for the institution or certified house, or another guardian for the guardian named in the order; and an order so varied shall take effect as if the substituted institution, certified house, or guardian had been originally named therein.

If the order or document is not amended or supplemented in accordance with the direction so given within fourteen days or such longer period as may be allowed for the purpose, the Board or any two Commissioners may, if they think fit, make an order for the patient's discharge.

(2) Every order and document amended or supplemented under this section shall take effect as if the amendment or supplementary matter had been contained therein when it was signed.

[45 & 46 Vict. c. 75.]

Jurisdiction.]—Besides such jurisdiction as the county court has under its ordinary legal and equitable jurisdiction, the judge of the county court of the district in which either party resides, irrespective of the value of the property in dispute, has, under sect. 17, upon application by summons in a summary way, power to make such order with respect to the title to or possession of property as to which there is any question between husband and wife as he shall think fit, subject in all proceedings in a county court in which, by reason of the value of the property in dispute, such court would not have had jurisdiction if this Act or the Married Women's Property Act, 1870, had not passed to being removed at the option of the defendant as of right into the High Court by certiorari or otherwise as may be prescribed.

The said judge has also under sect. 10, upon an application under sect. 17, power to order a fraudulent investment made by the wife with money of the husband, and the dividends thereof, to be transferred and paid to the husband.

By sect. 11, a policy of assurance effected by a man on his own life, but expressed to be for the benefit of his wife and/or his children, and by wife on her own life for the benefit of her husband and/or her children, shall create a trust in favour of the objects therein named. If at the time of the death of the insured, or at any time afterwards, there is no trustee, or it is expedient to appoint a new trustee, such appointment may be made by a county court having jurisdiction under the Trustee Acts, that is in any case where the amount does not exceed 500*l.*

Practice.]—This is determined by Order XLVI. (post, p. 2135). As to sect. 17, by Rule 2 of the said Order, particulars of the question to be submitted to the court must be filed, and thereupon a summons (Form 433) shall be issued, paying the same fee as upon the entry of a plaint; all subsequent proceedings as in an ordinary case; as to sect. 11, Rule 1 of the said Order determines the procedure.

Costs.]—The judge shall direct upon what scale they are to be taxed.

Appeal.]—Any order made by the judge under sect. 17 is subject to an appeal as in an equitable suit.

Fraudulent investments with money of husband.

10. If any investment in any such deposit or annuity as aforesaid, or in any of the public stocks or funds, or in any other stocks or funds transferable as aforesaid, or in any share, stock, debenture, or debenture stock of any corporation, company, or public body, municipal, commercial, or otherwise, or in any share, debenture, benefit, right, or claim whatsoever in, to, or upon the funds of any industrial, provident, friendly, benefit, building, or loan society, shall have been made by a married woman by means of moneys of her husband, without his consent, the court may, upon an application under section seventeen of this Act, order such investment, and the dividends thereof, or any part thereof, to be transferred and paid respectively to the husband; and nothing in this Act contained shall give validity as against creditors of the husband, to any gift, by a husband to his wife, of any property, which, after such gift, shall continue to be in the order and disposition or reputed ownership of the husband, or to any deposit or other investment of moneys of the husband made by or in the name of his wife in fraud of his creditors; but any moneys so deposited or invested may be followed as if this Act had not passed.

Section 10.

Moneys payable under policy of assurance not to form part of estate of the insured.

11. A married woman may by virtue of the power of making contracts hereinbefore contained effect a policy upon her own life or the life of her husband for her separate use; and the same and all benefit thereof shall enure accordingly.

A policy of assurance effected by any man on his own life, and expressed to be for the benefit of his wife, or of his children, or of his wife and children, or any of them, or by any woman on her own life, and expressed to be for the benefit of her husband, or of her children, or of her husband and children, or any of them, shall create a trust in favour of the objects therein named, and the moneys payable under any such policy shall not, so long as any object of the trust remains unperformed, form part of the estate of the insured, or be subject to his or her debts: Provided, that if it shall be proved that the policy was effected and the premiums paid with intent to defraud the creditors of the insured, they shall be entitled to receive, out of the moneys payable under the policy, a sum equal to the premiums so paid. The insured may by the policy, or by any memorandum under his or her hand, appoint a trustee or trustees of the moneys payable under the policy, and from time to time appoint a new trustee or new trustees thereof, and may make provision for the appointment of a new trustee or new trustees thereof, and for the investment of the moneys payable under any such policy. In default of any such appointment of a trustee, such policy, immediately on its being effected, shall vest in the insured and his or her legal personal representatives, in trust for the purposes aforesaid. If, at the time of the death of the insured, or at any time afterwards, there shall be no trustee, or it shall be expedient to appoint a new trustee or new trustees, a trustee or trustees or a new trustee or new trustees may be appointed by any court having jurisdiction under the provisions of the Trustee Act, 1850, or the Acts amending and extending the same. The receipt of a trustee or trustees duly appointed, or, in default of any such appointment, or in default of notice to the insurance office, the receipt of the legal personal representative of the insured shall be a discharge to the office for the sum secured by the policy or for the value thereof in whole or in part.

13 & 14 Vict. c. 60.

Questions between husband and wife as to property to be decided in a summary way.

17. In any question between husband and wife as to the title to or possession of property, either party, or any such bank, corporation, company, public body, or society as aforesaid in whose books any stocks, funds, or shares of either party are standing, may apply by summons or otherwise in a summary way to any judge of the High Court of Justice in England or in Ireland, according as such property is in England or Ireland, or (at the option of the applicant irrespectively of the value of the property in dispute) in England to the judge of the county court of the district, or in Ireland to the chairman of the civil bill court of the division in which either party resides, and the judge of the High Court of Justice or of the county court, or the chairman of the civil bill court (as the case may be) may make such order with respect to the property in dispute, and as to the costs of and consequent on the application as he thinks fit, or may direct such application to stand over from time to time, and any inquiry touching the matters in question to be made in such manner as he shall think fit (a): Provided always, that any order of a judge of the High Court of Justice to be made under the provisions of this section shall be subject to appeal in the same way as an order made by the same judge in a suit pending or on an equitable plaint in the said court would be; and any order of a county or civil bill court under the provisions of this section shall be subject to appeal in the same way as any other order made by the same court would be, and all proceedings in a county court or civil bill court under this section in which, by reason of the value of the property in dispute, such court would not have had jurisdiction if this Act or the Married Women's Property Act, 1870, had not passed, may, at the option of the defendant or respondent to such proceedings, be removed as of right into the High Court of Justice in England or Ireland (as the case may be), by writ of certiorari or otherwise as may be prescribed by any rule of such High Court; but any order made or act done in the course of such proceedings prior to such removal shall be valid, unless order shall be made to the contrary by such High Court: Provided also, that the judge of the High Court of Justice or of the county court, or the chairman of the civil bill court, if either party so require, may hear any such application in his private room: Provided also, that any such bank, corporation, company, public body, or society as aforesaid, shall, in the matter of any such application for the purposes of costs or otherwise, be treated as a stakeholder only.

Section 17.

NOTE.—(a) A judge of the High Court cannot refer the whole subject matter of an originating summons under this section to an official referee for trial, and quære whether the Court has jurisdiction to refer a question of account arising in the dispute under sect. 14 of the Arbitration Act, 1889 (In re Married Women's Property Act, 1882, *between W. NOTE.—A married woman cannot sue her husband in tort (Hulton v. Hulton, (1916) 2 K. B. 642; (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 51. On appeal (1917) 1 K. B. 813; 86 L. J. K. MATRIMONIAL CAUSES ACT, 1857.

By sect. 21, a wife deserted by her husband may apply to a police magistrate or justices in petty sessions for an order protecting her earnings and property acquired since such desertion from her husband and his creditors; if such order is made by a magistrate, it should within ten days be entered with the registrar of the county court within whose jurisdiction the wife is resident. These provisions as to time are, however, directory, not imperative (In the Goods of Betty Farraday, (1861) 31 L. J. P. & M. 7).

The registrar is entitled to a fee of 5*s*. for sealing and entering the order and transmitting a sealed copy to the registrar of county courts judgments.

It is not considered necessary to set out the section.

The order must state the time at which the desertion commenced (21 & 22 Vict. c. 108, s. 9).

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS (CORRUPT AND ILLEGAL PRACTICES) ACT, 1884.

[47 & 48 VICT. C. 70.]

Under this Act claims against any person for expenses incurred by or on behalf of a candidate at a municipal election must be sent in within fourteen days after the day of election, and must be paid within twenty-one days after such day (sect. 21, sub-s. 1).

Jurisdiction.]—The county court for the district in which the election was held, or the High Court, or an election court, may, on application either of the candidate or a creditor, allow any claim to be sent in, and any expense to be paid after the times above named (sect. 21, sub-s. 6).

It is rather singular that provision is made by subsequent sub-sections as to the terms on which the application may be granted by the High Court or an election court, but none as to county courts (sect. 21, sub-ss. 7, 8, 9). Doubtless, however, the provision may be taken as a guide in the county court.

1. This Act may be cited as the Municipal Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Practices) Act, 1884. Short title.

21.—(1) Every claim against any person in respect of any expenses incurred by or on behalf of a candidate at an election of a councillor on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of such election shall be sent in within fourteen days after the day of election, and if not so sent in shall be barred and not paid, and all expenses incurred as aforesaid shall be paid within twenty-one days after the day of election, and not otherwise, and any person who makes a payment in contravention of this section, except where such payment is allowed as provided by this section, shall be guilty of an illegal practice, but if such payment was made without the sanction or connivance of the candidate, the election of such candidate shall not be void, nor shall he be subject to any incapacity under this Act by reason only of such payment having been made in contravention of this section. Sending in claims and making payments for election expenses.

(2) Every agent of a candidate at an election of a councillor shall, within twenty-three days after the day of election, make a return to the candidate in writing of all expenses incurred by such agent on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of such election, and if he fails so to do shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding fifty pounds.

(3) Within twenty-eight days after the day of election of a councillor every candidate at such election shall send to the town clerk a return of all expenses incurred by such candidate or his agents on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of such election, vouched (except in the case of sums under twenty shillings) by bills stating the particulars and receipts, and accompanied by a declaration by the candidate made before a justice in the form set forth in the fourth schedule to the Act, or to the like effect.

(4) After the expiration of the time for making such return and declaration the candidate, if elected, shall not, until he has made the return and declaration (in this Act referred to as the return and declaration respecting election expenses), or until the date of the allowance of such authorised excuse, as is mentioned in this Act, sit or vote in the council, and if he does so shall forfeit fifty pounds for every day on which he so sits or votes to any person who sues for the same.

(5) If the candidate without such authorised excuse as is mentioned in this Act fails to make the said return and declaration he shall be guilty of an illegal practice, and if he knowingly makes the said declaration falsely he shall be guilty of an offence . . . and such offence shall also be deemed to be a corrupt practice within the meaning of this Act. [Words repealed 1 & 2 Geo. V. c. 6.]

(6) The county court for the district in which the election was held, or the High Court, or an election court, may, on application either of the candidate or a creditor, allow any claim to be sent in and any expense to be paid after the time limited by this section, and a return of any sum so paid shall forthwith after payment be sent to the town clerk.

(7) If the candidate applies to the High Court or an election court, and shows that the failure to make the said return and declaration, or either of them, or any error or false statement therein, has arisen by reason of his illness or absence, or of the absence, death, illness, or misconduct of any agent, clerk, or officer, or by reason of inadvertence, or of any reasonable cause of a like nature, and not by reason of any want of good faith on the part of the applicant, the court may, after such notice of the application and on production of such evidence of the grounds stated in the application, and of the good faith of the applicant, and otherwise as to the court seems fit, make such order for allowing the authorised excuse for the failure to make such return and declaration, or for an error or false statement in such return or declaration, as to the court seems just.

(8) The order may make the allowance conditional upon compliance with such terms as to the court seems calculated for carrying into effect the objects of this Act, and the order shall relieve the applicant from any liability or consequences under this Act in respect of the matters excused by the order.

(9) The date of the order, or if conditions and terms are to be complied with, the date at which the applicant fully complies with them, is referred to in this Act as the date of the allowance of the excuse.

(10) The return and declaration sent in pursuance of this Act to the town clerk shall be kept at his office, and shall at all reasonable times during the twelve months next after they are received by him be open to inspection by any person on payment of the fee of one shilling, and the town clerk shall, on demand, furnish copies thereof or of any part thereof at the price of twopence for every seventy-two words.

Section 11 of the Act of 1911 contains provisions in the case of contributors entitled to compensation or damages under the Employers' Liability Act, 1880, or the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906.

Appeal from the county court under sect. 66 is on questions of law alone, and is to such judge as may be selected by the Lord Chancellor. His decision is final, s. 66, proviso (1). There is no appeal from the registrar's decision.

ORDER XLIIA.

NATIONAL INSURANCE ACT, 1911.

COUNTY COURT RULES DATED 11TH APRIL, 1916, AS TO APPEALS UNDER THE NATIONAL INSURANCE ACTS (1911, SECTION 66, AND 1913, SECTION 27).

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

These Rules replace Order XLIIA, Rules 1 to 5, as to appeals against decisions of the Insurance Commissioners on questions submitted to them under the National Insurance Act, 1911, section 66, and the National Insurance Act, 1913, section 27.

The rules now annulled were based on the County Court Rules, Order XLII. (which follow the Rules of the Supreme Court) as to the procedure on appeals from the decisions of referees under section 33 of the Finance (1909–1910) Act, 1910, Rules.

But the cases of appeals under the Finance Act and appeals under the Insurance Acts do not seem to be analogous: the Commissioners of Inland Revenue are parties interested in the decisions of referees under the Finance Acts, and are necessary parties to appeals, either as appellants or respondents; but the Insurance Commissioners, in deciding questions submitted to them under the Insurance Acts, are acting in a quasi judicial character, and are, as a rule, deciding between contending parties. In such cases the parties to the disputes before them should be made parties to appeals, and the Commissioners ought not to be made parties and called upon to uphold their own decisions, at the risk of being ordered to pay costs if they are unsuccessful.

The new rules are framed in accordance with this view.

Rule 6 provides for the parties to the proceedings before the Commissioners being made parties to the appeal.

Rule 9 provides that notice of the appeal shall be served on the Commissioners, and that they may, if they think fit, appear on the hearing, and take such part therein as the judge may think fit.

Rule 10 provides for cases, which sometimes (but, it is stated, seldom) occur, in which there is no party to the proceedings before the Commissioners other than the appellant: and it provides that in such cases the Commissioners shall be made respondents.

Rule 11 provides for the addition of other parties as respondents, following R.S.C. Order LVIII., Rule 2, and the County Court Licensing Rules, 1910, Order LI., Rule 51.

Rule 12 provides for the furnishing by the Commissioners of a copy of their decision, and a statement of the facts on which it was based, for use on the appeal.

Rule 13 provides that the statement shall be primâ facie evidence, but that the parties may give further evidence, if so advised.

Rule 14 follows the County Court Rule, Order XLII., Rule 22 (which is taken from the Rules of the Supreme Court), as to evidence on appeals under the Finance Act.

Rule 20 provides that the costs of an appeal shall be in the discretion of the Court.

Rule 23 contains a saving for the rights of the Crown, following Order XLIIA, Rule 24, as to appeals under the Finance Act, 1910. This leaves open, so far as the rules are concerned, the question whether the Commissioners are entitled to the privilege of the Crown as regards costs.

Review of taxation. 38 & 39 Vict. c. 84.

1. The judge or officer by whom any account or claim is taxed or examined under the Parliamentary Elections (Returning Officers) Act, 1875 (herein called the "principal Act"), shall deliver to the returning officer, and to the other party to the taxation or examination, a certificate showing the items and amounts allowed or disallowed, with a copy of any order or judgment made thereon.

Either party may, within seven days of the delivery to him of such certificate, give notice in writing to the said judge or officer of intention to appeal, specifying in the notice the items and amounts in respect of which he intends to appeal.

Section 1.

The said judge or officer shall thereupon forthwith transmit to the prescribed taxing officer of the superior court the said account or claim, with any vouchers relating thereto, the certificate and the notice of appeal, and such taxing officer shall forthwith proceed to review the taxation or examination in the usual manner, or in such manner as may be prescribed, and shall, if required, receive evidence in relation to the matters in dispute, and may confirm or vary the certificate, and direct by whom all or any part of the costs of review are to be paid, and shall return the certificate as confirmed or varied to the said judge or officer with any such direction, and effect shall be given to a certificate as so confirmed or varied, and to any such direction, as if the same had been a judgment of the court as defined in the principal Act.

Any taxation or review of taxation under this Act shall be subject to appeal to the superior court in like manner as any ordinary taxation of costs is now subject.

In this Act "superior court" means in England the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice in England, and in Ireland the Common Pleas Division of the High Court of Justice in Ireland. "Prescribed" means prescribed by rules of the superior court in England or Ireland, as the case may be.

PARTITION ACTS, 1868, 1876.

[31 & 32 VICT. c. 40; 39 & 40 VICT. c. 17.]

Jurisdiction.]—Under these Acts county courts have the same powers as the High Court in actions for partition, where the property to which the action relates does not exceed 500*l.* (sect. 12 of the 1868 Act).

Besides freeholds, which have always been partitionable, the court may order partition of leaseholds (Rowe v. Gray, (1877) 5 Ch. D. 263; 46 L. J. Ch. 279), copyholds, and customary freeholds (Jope v. Morshead, (1843) 6 Beav. 213; 12 L. J. Ch. 190), manors (Hanbury v. Hussey, (1851) 14 Beav. 152; 20 L. J. Ch. 557), advowsons (Johnstone v. Baber, (1856) 6 D. M. & G. 439; 25 L. J Ch. 899), tithes (Baxter v. Knollys, (1750) 1 Ves. sen. 494), and rent-charges (Rivis v. Watson, (1839) 5 M. & W. 255; 9 L. J. Ex. 67).

Who entitled to.

Every coparcener, and every joint tenant or tenant in common in possession (Brook v. Hertford, (1729) 2 P. Wms. 518)—but not in reversion or remainder (Evans v. Bagshaw, (1870) L. R. 5 Ch. 340; 39 L. J. Ch. 145)—whether in tail (Brook v. Hertford, supra), for life (Gaskell v. Gaskell, (1836) 6 Sim. 643), for years (Baring v. Nash, (1813) 1 V. & B. 555), or for an estate determinable on marriage (Hobson v. Sherwood, (1841) 4 Beav. 184), has a right to bring an action for a partition.

The existence of a joint tenancy or tenancy in common is essential to the jurisdiction of the court for the purposes of an order of partition; and the court has no jurisdiction to order partition where there are subsisting trusts for management vested in trustees (Dodd v. Cattell, (1914) 2 Ch. 1; 83 L. J. Ch. 721).

Sale instead of partition.

Prior to these Acts the court could not, without consent of all parties interested, order a sale (Turner v. Morgan, (1803) 8 Ves. 143). The Acts remedy this inconvenience, and empower the court to order a sale instead of a partition (sects. 3, 4, 5 of 1868 Act).

Under sect. 3 of the 1868 Act, the sale may be ordered at the request of one of several parties interested, notwithstanding the dissent or disability of the majority, if the court is satisfied that it will be more beneficial for the parties. The onus of satisfying the court lies on the party requesting the sale (Drinkwater v. Ratcliffe, (1875) L. R. 20 Eq. 528; 44 L. J. Ch. 605; Pitt v. Jones, (1880) 5 App. Cas. 651; 49 L. J. Ch. 795).

Under sect. 4 of the 1868 Act parties interested, individually or collectively, to the extent of one moiety, may request a sale, and the court, unless it sees good reason to the contrary, must then direct a sale. The burthen is thus thrown upon those resisting a sale to show that a partition will be more beneficial (Rowe v. Gray, (1877) 5 Ch. D. 263; 46 L. J. Ch. 279; Porter v. Lopes, (1877) 7 Ch. D. 358). The request for a sale may be signed at any time after entry of a plaint for partition, the signatures of the parties being attested by the registrar or one of his clerks. If all the parties interested sign, the order for sale may be made at the next court, although it may be held before the return day of the summons (Order IX. r. 10, post).

The above provisions are independent of, and are not controlled by, sect. 5 of the 1868 Act (see Pitt v. Jones, supra), which enables the court to direct a sale unless the other parties entitled agree to purchase the share of one who requests a sale. This section appears to give a different power from that given by the other sections; but a person requesting a sale under it cannot be compelled to sell his share at a valuation (Williams v. Games, (1875) L. R. 10 Ch. 204; 44 L. J. Ch. 245). Nor can the owner of less than a moiety obtain a sale, unless he can show good reason for a sale, even though the owners of the major part do not offer to purchase his share (Richardson v. Feary, (1888) 39 Ch. D. 45; 57 L. J. Ch. 1049).

When partition ordered.

If the court orders a partition and not a sale, and the parties do not agree as to how it is to be made, the practice in the High Court is to effect it by reference to chambers. In county courts, it is believed that the partition may be effected by reference to the registrar for inquiry and report, and by the judge on such report making such order as appears just (see Seton on Decrees, 7th Ed., 1783, for forms of orders in chambers in High Court).

Where commenced.

Practice.]—The action must be commenced in the court within the district of which the land to be divided is situate; but when both plaintiff and defendant dwell or carry on business in one or more of the Metropolitan districts, the action must, although authorised by special Act, apparently be commenced as prescribed by the 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 84.

Parties.

Generally speaking, all persons interested must either be parties or must be served with notice of any order or judgment made by the court, and no sale can be ordered unless all such persons are before the court, or their absence is satisfactorily accounted for; but in certain cases, however, service of notice may be dispensed with (see sects. 3, 4 of 1876 Act). The action may be brought by a person of unsound mind, not so found, by a next friend (Porter v. Porter (C. A.), (1888) 37 Ch. D. 420).

Particulars.

When a sale is claimed by the particulars, it is no longer necessary to claim a partition also (see sect. 7 of the 1876 Act).

Request for sale.

When a request for sale, pursuant to the Partition Act, 1868, s. 4, is made by all the parties interested, they may attend, and the request may be signed at the county court offices, at any time after entry of the plaint, and the signatures must then be attested by the registrar or one of his clerks. When all the parties interested have signed, they may then and there accept service; and the order for sale may be made at the next court, although it be held before the return-day (see Order IX. r. 10, Form 325).

Conduct of proceedings.

On an order for sale being made the court must appoint one solicitor to have the conduct of the proceedings, and no other solicitor will be entitled to any costs incurred afterwards (see Order IX. r. 11). This part of the rule appears to be general, and not to be limited to cases in which all parties interested sign a request for a sale.

Defence.

As to notice of defence, see Part I., p. 446.

For forms of particulars and orders, see Seton on Decrees, 7th Ed. p. 1783. See Order 9, rr. 10—11, and Forms 324—330, post, pp. 2175—2178.

Costs.

Costs are in the discretion of the court, but as a general rule the costs of all parties have been ordered to be paid out of the estate (Belcher v. Williams, (1890) 45 Ch. D. 510). This case was not followed in Catton v. Banks, (1893) 2 Ch. 221; 62 L. J. Ch. 600, where only one set of costs in respect of each share was allowed out of the fund in court.

31 & 32 Vict. c. 40.

Power to court to order sale instead of division.

3. In a suit for partition, where, if this Act had not been passed, a decree for partition might have been made, then if it appears to the court that, by reason of the nature of the property to which the suit relates, or of the number of the parties interested or presumptively interested therein, or of the absence or disability of some of those parties, or of any other circumstance, a sale of the property and a distribution of the proceeds would be more beneficial for the parties interested than a division of the property between or among them, the court may, if it thinks fit, on the request of any of the parties interested, and notwithstanding the dissent or disability of any others of them, direct a sale of the property accordingly, and may give all necessary or proper consequential directions.

Sale on application of certain proportion of parties interested.

4. In a suit for partition, where, if this Act had not been passed, a decree for partition might have been made, then if the party or parties interested, individually or collectively, to the extent of one moiety or upwards in the property to which the suit relates, request the court to direct a sale of the property and a distribution of the proceeds instead of a division of the property between or among the parties interested, the court shall, unless it sees good reason to the contrary, direct a sale of the property accordingly, and give all necessary or proper consequential directions.

As to purchase of share of party desiring sale.

5. In a suit for partition, where, if this Act had not been passed, a decree for partition might have been made, then if any party interested in the property to which the suit relates requests the court to direct a sale of the property and a distribution of the proceeds instead of a division of the property between or among the parties interested, the court may, if it thinks fit, unless the other parties interested in the property, or some of them, undertake to purchase the share of the party requesting a sale, direct a sale of the property, and give all necessary or proper consequential directions, and in case of such undertaking being given the court may order a valuation of the share of the party requesting a sale in such manner as the court thinks fit, and may give all necessary or proper consequential directions.

Authority for parties interested to bid.

6. On any sale under this Act, the court may, if it thinks fit, allow any of the parties interested in the property to bid at the sale, on such terms as to non-payment of deposit, or as to setting off or accounting for the purchase-money or any part thereof instead of paying the same, or as to any other matters, as to the court seem reasonable.

[Section 7 repealed 56 & 57 Vict. c. 53, s. 51.]

Application of proceeds of sale.

8. Sections twenty-three to twenty-five (both inclusive) of the Act of the session of the nineteenth and twentieth years of Her Majesty's reign (chapter one hundred and twenty), "to facilitate leases and sales of settled estates," shall extend and apply to money to be received on any sale effected under the authority of this Act. (19 & 20 Vict. c. 120, ss. 23, 24, 25.)

Section 8.

Notwithstanding sect. 8, order for sale converts share of person absolutely entitled and sui juris at date of order into personalty (Herbert v. Herbert, (1912) 2 Ch. 268; 81 L. J. Ch. 733).

9. Any person who, if this Act had not been passed, might have maintained a suit for partition may maintain such suit against any one or more of the parties interested without serving the other or others (if any) of those parties; and it shall not be competent to any defendant in the suit to object for want of parties; and at the hearing of the cause the court may direct such inquiries as to the nature of the property, and the persons interested therein, and other matters, as it thinks necessary or proper with a view to an order for partition or sale being made on further consideration; but all persons who, if this Act had not been passed, would have been necessary parties to the suit, shall be served with notice of the decree or order on the hearing, and after such notice shall be bound by the proceedings as if they had been originally parties to the suit, and shall be deemed parties to the suit; and all such persons may have liberty to attend the proceedings; and any such person may, within a time limited by general orders, apply to the court to add to the decree or order.

[Sections 10 and 11 repealed 56 & 57 Vict. c. 14.]

12. In England the county courts shall have and exercise the like power and authority as the Court of Chancery in suits for partition (including the power and authority conferred by this Act) in any case where the property to which the suit relates does not exceed in value the sum of five hundred pounds, and the same shall be had and exercised in like manner and subject to the like provisions as the power and authority conferred by section one of the County Courts Act, 1865.

Jurisdiction of county courts in partition. (28 & 29 Vict. c. 99, s. 1.)

39 & 40 Vict. c. 17.

1. This Act may be cited as the Partition Act, 1876, and shall be read as one with the Partition Act, 1868.

Short title.

2. This Act shall apply . . . . and the term "action" includes a suit, and the term "judgment" includes decree or order.

Application of Act.

3. Where in an action for partition it appears to the court that notice of the judgment on the hearing of the cause cannot be served on all the persons on whom that notice is by the Partition Act, 1868, required to be served, or cannot be so served without expense disproportionate to the value of the property to which the action relates, the court may, if it thinks fit, on the request of any of the parties interested in the property, and notwithstanding the dissent or disability of any others of them, by order, dispense with that service on any person or class of persons specified in the order, and, instead thereof, may direct advertisements to be published at such times and in such manner as the court shall think fit, calling upon all persons claiming to be interested in such property who have not been so served to come in and establish their respective claims in respect thereof before the judge in chambers within a time to be thereby limited. After the expiration of the time so limited all persons who shall not have so come in and established such claims, whether they are within or without the jurisdiction of the court (including persons under any disability), shall be bound by the proceedings in the action as if on the day of the date of the order dispensing with service they had been served with notice of the judgment, service whereof is dispensed with ; and thereupon the powers of the court under the Trustee Act, 1850, shall extend to their interests in the property to which the action relates as if they had been parties to the action ; and the court may thereupon, if it shall think fit, direct a sale of the property and give all necessary or proper consequential directions.

Power to dispense with service of notice of decree or order in special cases.

Section 3.

Proceedings where service is dispensed with.

4. Where an order is made under this Act dispensing with service of notice on any person or class of persons, and property is sold by order of the court, the following provisions shall have effect :

(1) The proceeds of sale shall be paid into court to abide the further order of the court :

(2) The court shall, by order, fix a time, at the expiration of which the proceeds will be distributed, and may from time to time, by further order, extend that time :

(3) The court shall direct such notices to be given by advertisements or otherwise as it thinks best adapted for notifying to any persons on whom service is dispensed with, who may not have previously come in and established their claims, the fact of the sale, the time of the intended distribution, and the time within which a claim to participate in the proceeds must be made :

(4) If at the expiration of the time so fixed or extended the interests of all the persons interested have been ascertained, the court shall distribute the proceeds in accordance with the rights of those persons :

(5) If at the expiration of the time so fixed or extended the interests of all the persons interested have not been ascertained, and it appears to the court that they cannot be ascertained or cannot be ascertained without expense disproportionate to the value of the property or of the unascertained interests, the court shall distribute the proceeds in such manner as appears to the court to be most in accordance with the rights of the persons whose claims to participate in the proceeds have been established, whether all those persons are or are not before the court, and with such reservations (if any) as to the court may seem fit in favour of any other persons (whether ascertained or not) who may appear from the evidence before the court to have any primâ facie rights which ought to be so provided for, although such rights may not have been fully established, but to the exclusion of all other persons, and thereupon all such other persons shall by virtue of this Act be excluded from participation in those proceeds on the distribution thereof, but notwithstanding the distribution any excluded person may recover from any participating person any portion received by him of the share of the excluded person.

Section 5.

Provision for case of successive sales in same action.

5. Where in an action for partition two or more sales are made, if any person who has by virtue of this Act been excluded from participation in the proceeds of any of those sales establishes his claim to participate in the proceeds of a subsequent sale, the shares of the other persons interested in the proceeds of the subsequent sale shall abate to the extent (if any) to which they were increased by the non-participation of the excluded person in the proceeds of the previous sale, and shall to that extent be applied in or towards payment to that person of the share to which he would have been entitled in the proceeds of the previous sale if his claim thereto had been established in due time.

Request by married woman, infant, or person under disability.

6. In an action for partition a request for sale may be made or an undertaking to purchase given on the part of a married woman, infant, person of unsound mind, or person under any other disability, by the next friend, guardian, committee in lunacy (if so authorised by order in lunacy), or other person authorised to act on behalf of the person under such disability, but the court shall not be bound to comply with any such request or undertaking on the part of an infant unless it appear that the sale or purchase will be for his benefit.

Action for partition to include action for sale and distribution of the proceeds.

7. For the purposes of the Partition Act, 1868, and of this Act, an action for partition shall include an action for sale and distribution of the proceeds, and in an action for partition it shall be sufficient to claim a sale and distribution of the proceeds, and it shall not be necessary to claim a partition.

Provided that His Majesty may by Order in Council amend this provision by adding thereto or removing therefrom any poisonous substance, and, upon any such Order being made, this provision shall have effect as if the added poisonous substances were included therein and the removed poisonous substances were excluded therefrom.

(2) Before granting any licence under this section the local authority shall take into consideration whether in the neighbourhood where the applicant for the licence carries on or intends to carry on business the reasonable requirements of the public with respect to the purchase of such poisonous substances as aforesaid are satisfied.

(3) His Majesty may, by Order in Council, make regulations as to—

(a) the granting of licences under this section; and

(b) the duration, renewal, revocation, suspension, extent, and production of such licences; and

(c) the keeping, inspection, and copying of registers of licences; and

same time in a similar capacity for any other body corporate, firm, or partnership; and Section 3.

A body corporate, and in Scotland a firm or partnership, may use the description of chemist and druggist, or of chemist or of druggist, or of dispensing chemist or druggist, if the foregoing requirements as to the carrying on of the business are observed, and if the superintendent is a member of the board of directors or other governing body of the body corporate, or of the firm or partnership, as the case may be.

Subject as aforesaid, section twelve of the Pharmacy Act, 1852, and sections one and fifteen of the Pharmacy Act, 1868, shall apply to a body corporate, and in Scotland to a firm or partnership, in like manner as they apply to an individual. 15 & 16 Vict. c. 56.

5.—(1) It shall not be lawful to sell any substance to which this section applies by retail, unless the box, bottle, vessel, wrapper, or cover in which the substance is contained is distinctly labelled with the name of the substance and the word "poisonous," and with the name and address of the seller of the substance, and unless such other regulations as may be prescribed under this section by Order in Council are complied with; and, if any person sells any such substance otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of this section or of any Order in Council made thereunder, he shall, on conviction under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts, be liable for each offence to a fine not exceeding five pounds. Jurisdiction.]—Expenses of private street works in whole or any portion thereof (see sects. 10 and 12) incurred pursuant to the Act, together with interest at 4 per centum per annum from the date of the final apportionment (sect. 12) till payment may be recovered as a simple contract debt by action in any court of competent jurisdiction, i.e., in the county court up to 100*l.*

During this month, by sect. 7, objections to the proposals on any of the grounds set out in the said section may be lodged. Section 6. —— Private street works.

6.—(1) Where any street or part of a street is not sewered, levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, channelled, made good, and lighted to the satisfaction of the urban authority, the urban authority may from time to time resolve with respect to such street or part of a street to do any one or more of the following works (in this Act called private street works); that is to say, to sewer, level, pave, metal, flag, channel, or make good, or to provide proper means for lighting such street or part of a street; and the expenses incurred by the urban authority in executing private street works shall be apportioned (subject as in this Act mentioned) on the premises fronting, adjoining, or abutting on such street or part of a street. Any such resolution may include several streets or parts of streets, or may be limited to any part or parts of a street.

(2) The surveyor shall prepare, as respects each street or part of a street,—

(a) A specification of the private street works referred to in the resolution, with plans and sections (if applicable);

(b) An estimate of the probable expenses of the works;

(c) A provisional apportionment of the estimated expenses among the premises liable to be charged therewith under this Act.

Such specification, plans, sections, estimate, and provisional apportionment shall comprise the particulars prescribed in Part I. of the schedule to this Act, and shall be submitted to the urban authority, who may by resolution approve the same respectively with or without modification or addition as they think fit.

(3) The resolution approving the specifications, plans, and sections (if any), estimates, and provisional apportionments, shall be published in the manner prescribed in Part II. of the schedule to this Act, and copies thereof shall be served on the owners of the premises shown as liable to be charged in the provisional apportionment within seven days after the date of the first publication. During one month from the date of the first publication the approved specifications, plans, and sections (if any), estimates, and provisional apportionments (or copies thereof certified by the surveyor), shall be kept deposited at the urban authority offices, and shall be open to inspection at all reasonable times.

See remarks on this and sects. 7 and 8 in note "Practice," ante, p. 2187.

Objections to proposed works.

7. During the said month any owner of any premises shown in a provisional apportionment as liable to be charged with any part of the expenses of executing the works may, by written notice served on the urban authority, object to the proposals of the urban authority on any of the following grounds; (that is to say,)

(a) That an alleged street or part of a street is not or does not form part of a street within the meaning of this Act;

(b) That a street or part of a street is (in whole or in part) a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large;

(c) That there has been some material informality, defect, or error in or in respect of the resolution, notice, plans, sections, or estimate;

(d) That the proposed works are insufficient or unreasonable, or that the estimated expenses are excessive;

(e) That any premises ought to be excluded from or inserted in the provisional apportionment;

(f) That the provisional apportionment is incorrect in respect of some matter of fact to be specified in the objection or (where the provisional apportionment is made with regard to other considerations than frontage as herein-after provided) in respect of the degree of benefit to be derived by any persons, or the amount or value of any work already done by the owner or occupier of any premises.

For the purposes of this Act joint tenants or tenants in common may object through one of their number authorised in writing under the hands of the majority of such joint tenants or tenants in common.

See Porthcawl Urban Council v. Brogden, (1917) 86 L. J. Ch. 393.

Hearing and determination of objections.

8.—(1) The urban authority at any time after the expiration of the said month may apply to a court of summary jurisdiction to appoint a time for determining the matter of all objections made as in this Act mentioned, and shall publish a notice of the time and place appointed, and copies of such notice shall be served upon the objectors; and at the time and place so appointed any such court may proceed to hear and determine the matter of all such objections in the same manner as nearly as may be, and with the same powers and subject to the same provisions with respect to stating a case, as if the urban authority were proceeding summarily against the objectors to enforce payment of a sum of money summarily recoverable. The court may quash in whole or in part or may amend the resolution, plans, sections, estimates, and provisional apportionments, or any of them, on the application either of any objector or of the urban authority. The court may also, if it thinks fit, adjourn the hearing and direct any further notices to be given.

(2) No objection which could be made under this Act shall be otherwise made or allowed in any court proceeding or manner whatsoever.

(3) The costs of any proceedings before a court of summary jurisdiction in relation to objections under this Act shall be in the discretion of the court, and the court shall have power, if it thinks fit, to direct that the whole or any part of such costs ordered to be paid by an objector or objectors shall be paid in the first instance by the urban authority, and charged as part of the expenses of the works on the premises of the objector or objectors in such proportions as may appear just.

See remarks on sects. 6 and 7 above.

Apportionment of expenses.

10. In a provisional apportionment of expenses of private street works the apportionment of expenses against the premises fronting, adjoining or abutting on the street or part of a street in respect of which the expenses are to be incurred shall, unless the urban authority otherwise resolve, be apportioned according to the frontage of the respective premises; but the urban authority may if they think just, resolve that in settling the apportionment regard shall be had to the following considerations (that is to say),

(a) The greater or less degree of benefit to be derived by any premises from such works;

Section 10.

(b) The amount and value of any work already done by the owners or occupiers of any such premises.

They may also, if they think just, include any premises which do not front, adjoin or abut on the street or part of a street but access to which is obtained from the street through a court, passage or otherwise and which in their opinion will be benefited by the works, and may fix the sum or proportion to be charged against any such premises accordingly.

Amendment of plan, etc.

11. The urban authority may from time to time amend the specifications, plans and sections (if any), estimates and provisional apportionments for any private street works, but if the total amount of the estimate in respect of any street or part of a street is increased, such estimate and the provisional apportionment shall be published in the manner prescribed in Part II. of the schedule to this Act, and shall be open to inspection at the urban authority offices at all reasonable times, and copies thereof shall be served on the owners of the premises affected thereby; and objections may be made to the increase and on apportionment and if made shall be dealt with and determined in like manner as objections to the original estimate and apportionment.

Final apportionment and recovery of expenses.

12.—(1) When any private street works have been completed and the expenses thereof ascertained the surveyor shall make a final apportionment by dividing the expenses in the same proportions in which the estimated expenses were divided in the original or amended provisional apportionment (as the case may be) and such final apportionment shall be conclusive for all purposes; and notice of such final apportionment shall be served upon the owners of the premises affected thereby; and the sums apportioned thereby shall be recoverable in manner provided by this Act, or in the same manner as private improvement expenses are recoverable under the Public Health Act, 1875, including the power to declare any such expenses to be payable by instalments.

38 & 39 Vict. c. 55.

(2) Within one month after such notice the owner of any premises charged with any expenses under such apportionment may, by a written notice to the urban authority, object to such final apportionment on the following grounds, or any of them :—

(a) That the actual expenses have without sufficient reason exceeded the estimated expenses by more than fifteen per cent.

(b) That the final apportionment has not been made in accordance with this section.

(c) That there has been an unreasonable departure from the specification, plans, and sections.

(3) Objections under this section shall be determined in the same manner as objections to the provisional apportionment.

Charge on premises.

13.—(1) Any premises included in the final apportionment, and all estates and interests from time to time therein, shall stand and remain charged (to the like extent and effect as under section two hundred and fifty-seven of the Public Health Act, 1875) with the sum finally apportioned on them, or if objection has been made against the final apportionment with the sum determined to be due as from the date of the final apportionment, with interest at the rate of four pounds per centum per annum, and the urban authority shall, for the recovery of such sum and interest, have all the same powers and remedies under the Conveyancing and Law of Property Act, 1881, and otherwise as if they were mortgagees having powers of sale and lease and of appointing a receiver. Section 13.

(2) The urban authority shall keep a register of charges under this Act and of the payments made in satisfaction thereof, and the register shall be open to inspection to all persons at all reasonable times on payment of not exceeding one shilling in respect of each name or property searched for, and the urban authority shall furnish copies of any part of such register to any person applying for the same on payment of such reasonable sum as may be fixed by the urban authority.

14. The urban authority, if they think fit, may from time to time (in addition and without prejudice to any other remedy) recover summarily in a court of summary jurisdiction, or as a simple contract debt by action in any court of competent jurisdiction, from the owner for the time being of any premises in respect of which any sum is due for expenses of private street works the whole or any portion of such sum, together with interest at a rate not exceeding four pounds per centum per annum, from the date of the final apportionment till payment thereof. Recovery of expenses summarily or by action.

The High Court held in Mayor of Blackburn v. Sanderson, (1902) 1 K. B. 794; 71 L. J. (K. B.) 590, that the six months' limitation only applies to summary proceedings, and not to an action brought in a court of competent jurisdiction; and hence does not apply to an action brought under the provisions of this section. Followed in Metropolitan Water Board v. Bunn, C. A., [1913] 3 K. B. 181; 82 L. J. K. B. 1024.

25. Neither sections one hundred and fifty, one hundred and fifty-one, and one hundred and fifty-two of the Public Health Act, 1875, nor section forty-one of the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1890, shall apply to any district or part of a district in which this Act is in force. Certain sections of Public Health Acts not to apply

THE SCHEDULE.

Publication of Notice.

Any resolution, notice, or other document required by this Act to be published in the manner prescribed by this schedule shall be published once in each of two successive weeks in some local newspaper circulating within the district, and shall be publicly posted in or near the street to which it relates once at least in each of three successive weeks

THE PROBATE ACTS, 1857 AND 1858.

Jurisdiction.]—Sect. 10 of the 1858 Act (substituted for sect. 54 of the 1857 Act), gives the judge of the county court (having jurisdiction in the place in which the deceased had at the time of death a fixed abode) the contentious jurisdiction and authority of the Court of Probate in respect of questions as to the grant and revocation of probate, provided the deceased had at the time of his death his fixed place of abode in one of the districts specified in Schedule A to the 1857 Act, and that the deceased's personal estate (without deducting debts) was at the time of death under the value of 200*l.*, and that the deceased was not entitled beneficially to real estate of the value of 300*l.* or upwards. To give rise to this jurisdiction, the above conditions as to the place of abode, and the amount of the property, must be proved to the satisfaction of a registrar of the principal registry, the application to him being on affidavit ; the affidavit is primâ facie conclusive, but if in the course of the proceedings it be shown to the judge that the conditions are not correctly stated in the affidavit, and if correctly stated, would not have given him jurisdiction, he must stay the proceedings, make such order as to costs as he may think just, and leave any party to apply to the Court of Probate (see sect. 57 of the 1857 Act).

Transfer from Probate Division to County Court.]—Where the application for the grant or revocation of a grant of probate or letters of administration is made through the principal registry, the judge of the Probate Division, if any contentious matters arise, and the amount of the property and the place of abode of the deceased be such as to give contentious jurisdiction to a judge of a county court, may send the cause to the county court, and the judge of the said court may then proceed as if the application had been made to his court in the first instance (sect. 59 of the 1857 Act) ; but that both the place of the abode and the value of the property should be as above are essential conditions necessary to enable the Probate Division to make the order. Where either the personalty is not under 200*l.*, or the realty not under 300*l.*, there is no power to transfer (see Davies v. Brecknell, (1870) L. R. 2 P. & D. 177; 40 L. J. P. 15, where the estate of the deceased consisted of personalty under 20*l.* in value, and of realty valued at 370*l.* subject to a mortgage ; and Thomas v. Nurse, (1870) 39 L. J. P. 80, where all conditions to give the county court jurisdiction existed, except that the realty exceeded 300*l.*, though not affected by the action).

Practice is governed by Order XLIX. (see p. 2201) framed under the authority of sect. 60 of the Act of 1857. The proceedings are commenced by plaint and summons in the ordinary way, but before the entry of any plaint the proposed plaintiff must lodge with the registrar an office copy of the minute of the High Court, authorising the commencement of the proceedings (Rule 4). The plaint and all subsequent proceedings are to be intituled " The Court of Probate Acts, 1857 and 1858 " (Rule 1).

Parties.]—Where a caveat has been lodged against the grant of probate or administration, the person who applies for probate or administration will be plaintiff in the proceedings, and the person lodging the caveat defendant (Rule 2). In proceedings for revocation of a grant, the party applying will be plaintiff, and the person against whom the application is made defendant (Rule 3).

Particulars.]—Particulars of demand must be filed in all cases, stating concisely the nature of the proceedings and the relief or order which the plaintiff claims (Rule 5).

Service.]—Service of a summons or notice of a summons out of England and Wales may be allowed by leave of the court (Order VII. r. 43).

Interveners.]—Any person not named in the summons may intervene and appear in the action, on filing an affidavit showing how he is interested in the estate of the deceased (Rule 6).

Notice for Production of Will, etc.]—The registrar, on issuing a plaint for revocation of probate or administration, must send notice (Form 443) by post to the district probate registrar by whom the probate or letters of administration has or have been granted, to produce the original will and other necessary documents at the hearing (Rule 7).

Transmission of Action from High Court.]—Where application for the grant or revocation of probate or letters of administration has been made at the principal registry of the Probate Division, and a judge of the said division shall send any action or contentious matter arising out of such application to the county court, the provisions of Order XLIX. post, p. 2201, and Order XXXIII. p. 606, relating to actions or matters remitted from the Chancery Division to the county court shall apply to the proceedings in the county court (Rule 10). Where no provision has otherwise been made, the rules and practice of the Probate Division shall be followed so far as applicable (Rule 12).

After the transfer of an action, it becomes for all purposes a county court case, and the Probate Division cannot direct a new trial (Zeally v. Veryard, (1866) L. R. 1 P. & D. 195; 35 L. J. P. 127), or make an order as to costs either before or after removal (Macleur v Macleur, (1868) L. R. 1 P. & D. 604; 37 L. J. P. & M. 68).

Production of Documents.]—The judge, upon application, may order any instrument, purporting to be testamentary, to be produced before him by the person in whose possession or control it may be; or where there is reasonable ground for believing that any person has knowledge of such paper or writing, the judge may require his attendance for the purpose of his being examined in open court, or upon interrogatories; and such person is to be liable to process of contempt in case he does not answer such interrogatories, or, if ordered, produce the document. The costs of the application are to be in the discretion of the judge (sect. 26 of the 1857 Act).

Administration pendente Lite.]—Pending any suit touching the validity of the will of any deceased person, or for obtaining, recalling or revoking any probate or any grant of letters of administration, the judge of the county court before whom such suit may be pending, may appoint an administrator of the personal estate of the deceased. The administrator has all the rights and powers of a general administrator, other than the right of distributing the residue of the personal estate, and is subject to the immediate control of the judge and must act under his directions (sect. 70 of the 1857 Act).

If in any such suit the will, the validity of which is disputed, affects real estate, the judge may appoint such administrator or any other person to be the receiver of the real estate, with such powers to receive all rents and profits, and of letting and managing it, as the judge may direct (sect. 71 of the 1857 Act).

The administrators and receivers so appointed are to receive out of the personal and real estate of the deceased such reasonable remuneration as the judge thinks fit (sect. 72 of the 1857 Act).

Jury.]—The judge of the county court may cause any question of fact arising in any suit or proceeding to be tried by a jury, or may direct an issue to be sent for trial to the High Court, in the same manner as an issue could formerly be directed by the Court of Chancery (sect. 35 of the 1857 Act).

Where an heir-at-law, cited or otherwise made party to a suit or proceeding, makes application to the judge for the question to be tried by a jury, the question must be so tried (Ib.).

In any other case where all the parties concur in an application for the question to be tried by a jury, or where any party or parties, other than the heir-at-law, make such application, and the court refuses to cause such trial, the applicant may appeal (Ib.).

The order of the judge shall be in Form 445, and a copy shall be sent by post to the plaintiff and defendant, and to any party intervening (Rule 9); the judge can enforce his judgments and orders as in an ordinary action (sect. 56 of the 1857 Act). The judge may order the costs to be taxed under column B or C, in default of an order they will be taxed under B (see Order LIII. r. 8, as to allowance of special items).

Proving a Will in Solemn Form of Law.]—Where proceedings are taken for proving a will in solemn form, or for revoking the probate of a will on the ground of the invalidity thereof, or where in any other contentious cause or matter, the validity of a will may be disputed, unless the will affects only personal estate, the heir-at-law, devisees and other persons having or pretending interest in the real estate affected by the will may be cited to see proceedings or otherwise summoned, in like manner as the next-of-kin having or pretending interest in the personal estate affected by a will are to be cited or summoned, and the heir-at-law, devisees or other persons may become parties or intervene for their respective interests, subject to the rules and orders of the court and to its discretion (sect. 61 of the 1857 Act).

They, however, need not be cited, unless the judge is shown and satisfied that, at the time of his death, the deceased was seised of or entitled to, or had power to appoint by will, some real estate beneficially.

Unless, however, the heir or any other interested person has been cited, or derives title under or through a person cited or made party, the interest of the heir or person in real estate is not affected by the probate, decree or order (sect. 36 of the 1857 Act).

Appeal.]—If either party is dissatisfied with the determination of the judge of the county court in point of law, or upon the admission or rejection of any evidence, he may appeal to the Probate Division of the High Court (sect. 58 of the 1857 Act; Leigh v. Green, (1892) P. 17; 61 L. J. P. 66). The right of appeal extends to proceedings under the Act of 1857 as well as 1858 (Copeland v. Simister, (1893) P. 16; 62 L. J. P. 38). The appeal will, it is believed, lie by motion, and generally the ordinary practice seems to apply (sect. 120, County Courts Act, 1888, Part I., p. 123).

31. Subject to the regulations to be established by such rules and orders as aforesaid, the witnesses, and, where necessary, the parties in all contentious matters where their attendance can be had, shall be examined orally by or before the judge in open court: provided always, that, subject to any such regulations as aforesaid, the parties shall be at liberty to verify their respective cases, in whole or in part, by affidavit, but so that the deponent in every such affidavit shall, on the application of the opposite party, be subject to be cross-examined by or on behalf of such opposite party orally in open court as aforesaid, and after such cross-examination may be re-examined orally in open court as aforesaid by or on behalf of the party by whom such affidavit was filed.

Rules of evidence in common law courts to be observed.

33. The rules of evidence observed in the superior courts of common law at Westminster shall be applicable to and observed in the trial of all questions of fact in the Court of Probate.

Court may cause questions of fact to be tried by a jury before itself, or direct an issue to a court of law.

35. It shall be lawful for the Court of Probate to cause any question of fact arising in any suit or proceeding under this Act to be tried by a special or common jury before the court itself, or by means of an issue to be directed to any of the superior courts of common law, in the same manner as an issue may now be directed by the Court of Chancery, and such question shall be so tried by a jury in any case where an heir-at-law, cited or otherwise made party to the suit or proceeding, makes application to the Court of Probate for that purpose; and in any other case where all the parties to the suit or proceeding concur in such an application, and where any party or parties other than such heir-at-law make a like application (the other party or parties not concurring therein), and the court shall refuse to cause such question to be tried by a jury, such refusal of the court shall be subject to appeal as herein provided.

Question to be stated, and jury sworn to try it.

Court, on trial, to have the same authority as a judge at nisi prius.

37. When any such question shall be so ordered to be tried by a jury before the court itself, such question shall be reduced into writing in such form as the court shall direct, and at the trial the jury shall be sworn to try the said question, and a true verdict to give thereon according to the evidence; and upon every such trial the Court of Probate shall have the same powers, jurisdiction, and authority as belong to any judge of any of the said superior courts sitting at nisi prius.

District registrar in case of doubt as to grant to transmit

50. In every case where it appears to a district registrar that it is doubtful whether the probate or letters of administration which may be applied for should or should not be granted, or where any question arises in relation to the grant, or application for the grant, of any probate or administration, the district registrar shall transmit a statement of the matter in question to the registrars of the Court of Probate, who shall obtain the directions of the judge in relation thereto, and the judge may direct the district registrar to proceed in the matter of the application according to such instructions as to the judge may seem necessary, or may forbid any further proceeding by the district registrar in relation to the matter of such application, leaving the party applying for the grant in question to make application to the Court of Probate through its principal registry, or, if the case be within its jurisdiction, to a county court. Section 50. — the matter for the directions of the judge.

55. On a decree being made by a judge of a county court for the grant or revocation of a probate or administration in any such cause, the registrar of the county court shall transmit to the district registrar of the district in which it shall have been sworn that the deceased had at the time of his decease his fixed place of abode, a certificate under the seal of the county court of such decree having been made; and thereupon on the application of the party or parties in favour of whom such decree shall have been made, a probate or administration in compliance with such decree shall be issued from such district registry; or, as the case may require, the probate or letters of administration theretofore granted shall be recalled or varied by the district registrar according to the effect of such decree. Registrar of county court to transmit certificate of decree for grant or revocation of probate.

NOTE.—Where the next of kin were alien enemies, the Public Trustee, as custodian under the Trading with the Enemy (Amendment) Act, 1914 (5 Geo. 5, c. 12), was appointed administrator in preference to a person named as executor in an informal testamentary document (Schiff, In re, (1915) P. 86; 84 L. J. P. 79).

56. The judge of any county court before whom any disputed question shall be raised relating to matters and causes testamentary under this Act shall, subject to the rules and orders under this Act, have all the jurisdiction, power, and authority to decide the same and enforce judgment therein, and to enforce orders in relation thereto, as if the same had been an ordinary action in the county court. The judge of the county court to decide causes and enforce judgments as in other cases.

57. The affidavit as to the place of abode and state of the property of a testator or intestate which is to give contentious jurisdiction to the judge of a county court under the previous provisions shall, except as hereinafter provided, be conclusive for the purpose of authorising the exercise of such jurisdiction, and the grant or revocation of probate or administration in compliance with the decree of such judge; and no such grant of probate or administration shall be liable to be recalled, revoked or otherwise impeached by reason that the testator or intestate had no fixed place of abode within the jurisdiction of such judge or within any of the said districts at the time of his death, or by reason that the personal estate sworn to be under the value of two hundred pounds did in fact amount to or exceed that value, or that the value of the real estate of or to which the deceased was seised or entitled beneficially at the time of his death amounted to or exceeded three hundred pounds: provided, that where it shall be shown to the judge of a county court before whom any matter is pending under this Act that the place of abode or state of the property of the testator or intestate in respect of whose will or estate he may have been applied to for grant or revocation of probate or administration has not been correctly stated in the affidavit, and if correctly Affidavit of the facts giving the county court jurisdiction to be conclusive, unless disproved while the matter is pending.

Section 57. stated would not have authorised him to exercise such contentious jurisdiction, he shall stay all further proceedings in his court in the matter, leaving any party to apply to the Court of Probate for such grant or revocation, and making such order as to the costs of the proceedings before him as he may think just.

Appeals from county court.

58. Any party who shall be dissatisfied with the determination of the judge of the county court in point of law, or upon the admission or rejection of any evidence in any matter or cause under this Act, may appeal from the same to the Court of Probate, in such manner and subject to such regulations as may be provided by the rules and orders made under this Act, and the decision of the Court of Probate on such appeal shall be final.

Application for probate, etc., need not be made to district registry or county court, but may in every case be made to principal registry. See 21 & 22 Vict. c. 95, s. 12, Ed.

59. It shall not be obligatory on any person to apply for probate or administration to any district registry, or through any county court, but in every case such application may be made through the principal registry of the Court of Probate, wherever the testator or intestate may at the time of his death have had his fixed place of abode: provided that where in any contentious matter arising out of any such application it is shown to the Court of Probate that the state of the property and place of abode of the deceased were such as to give contentious jurisdiction to the judge of a county court, the Court of Probate may send the cause to such county court, and the judge thereof shall proceed therein as if such application and cause had been made to and arisen in his court in the first instance.

Rules and orders for regulating the procedure of county courts under the Act to be made by the judges now having authority for the like purpose.

60. For regulating the procedure and practice of the county courts, and the judges, registrars and officers thereof, in relation to their jurisdiction and proceedings under this Act, rules and orders may be from time to time framed, amended and certified by the county court judges appointed for the time being to frame rules and orders for regulating the practice of the county courts under the Act of the session holden in the nineteenth and twentieth years of Her Majesty, chapter one hundred and eight, and shall be subject to be allowed or disallowed or altered and shall be in force from the day named for that purpose by the Lord Chancellor, as in the said Act is provided in relation to other rules and orders regulating the practice of the same courts.

61. Where proceedings are taken under this Act for proving a will in solemn form, or for revoking the probate of a will, on the ground of the invalidity thereof, or where in any other contentious cause or matter under this Act the validity of a will is disputed, unless in the several cases aforesaid the will affects only personal estate, the heir-at-law, devisees and other persons having or pretending interest in the real estate affected by the will shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, and to the rules and orders under this Act, be cited to see proceedings, or otherwise summoned in like manner as the next of kin or others having or pretending interest in the personal estate affected by a will should be cited or summoned, and may be permitted to become parties, or intervene for their respective interests in such real estate, subject to such rules and orders, and to the discretion of the court.

Section 63. Heir in certain cases not to be cited, and where not cited not to be affected by probate.

63. Nothing herein contained shall make it necessary to cite the heir-at-law or other persons having or pretending interest in the real estate of a deceased person, unless it is shown to the court, and the court is satisfied that the deceased was at the time of his decease seised of or entitled to or had power to appoint by will some real estate beneficially, or in any case where the will propounded or of which the validity is in question would not in the opinion of the court, though established as to personalty, affect real estate, but in every such case, and in any other case in which the court may, with reference to the circumstances of the property of the deceased or otherwise, think fit, the court may proceed without citing the heir or other persons interested in real estate; provided that the probate, decree or order of the court shall not in any case affect the heir or any person in respect of his interest in real estate, unless such heir or person has been cited or made party to the proceedings, or derives title under or through a person so cited or made party.

Probate or office copy to be evidence of the will in suits concerning real estate, save where the validity of the will is put in issue.

Costs of production, etc., of original will in such suits.

65. In every case in which, in any such action or suit, the original will shall be produced and proved, it shall be lawful for the court or judge before whom such evidence shall be given to direct by which of the parties the costs thereof shall be paid.

Administration pendente lite.

70. Pending any suit touching the validity of the will of any deceased person, or for obtaining, recalling or revoking any probate or any grant of administration, the Court of Probate may appoint an administrator of the personal estate of such deceased person; and the administrator so appointed shall have all the rights and powers of a general administrator, other than the right of distributing the residue of such personal estate; and every such administrator shall be subject to the immediate control of the court, and act under its direction.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH ACT, 1875.

Jurisdiction.]—For the purposes of the Act, sect. 91 declares certain things to be nuisances liable to be dealt with summarily as provided by the Act, and by sect. 35 of the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907 (7 Edw. VII. c. 53), this definition of nuisance has been extended. By sects. 104 and 106, costs and expenses of the local authority, or of the officer of police authorised by the Local Government Board, incurred in making a complaint, or giving notice, or obtaining an order of the court of summary jurisdiction, or in carrying the same into effect, are declared to be money paid for the use and at the request of the person on whom the order is made, or of the person by whose act or default the nuisance was caused, and such costs and expenses to be recoverable in a summary manner, or in any county or superior court. It is submitted that this gives under these two sections, county courts jurisdiction to the extent of 100*l.*

Further, by sect. 261, proceedings for the recovery of demands below 50*l.* which local authorities are empowered to recover in a summary manner may at the option of the authority be taken in the county court. There are many sections which empower local authorities to recover money summarily, but sect. 150 is the one on which proceedings are taken most frequently in the county court by virtue of the jurisdiction given by sect. 261.

Practice.]—The proceedings should be by action commenced in usual way, by plaint and summons, and are regulated by Order L. rr. 35 and 36, see pp. 631—632. No special rules.

Time within which proceedings should be taken is discussed in notes to the respective sections.

(8) Any chimney (not being the chimney of a private dwelling-house) sending forth black smoke in such quantity as to be a nuisance, shall be deemed to be nuisances liable to be dealt with summarily in manner provided by this Act: Provided—

First. That a penalty shall not be imposed on any person in respect of any accumulation or deposit necessary for the effectual carrying on any business or manufacture if it be proved to the satisfaction of the court that the accumulation or deposit has not been kept longer than is necessary for the purposes of the business or manufacture, and that the best available means have been taken for preventing injury thereby to the public health:

Secondly. That where a person is summoned before any court in respect of a nuisance arising from a fireplace or furnace which does not consume the smoke arising from the combustible used in such fireplace or furnace, the court shall hold that no nuisance is created within the meaning of this Act, and dismiss the complaint, if it is satisfied that such fireplace or furnace is constructed in such manner as to consume as far as practicable, having regard to the nature of the manufacture or trade, all smoke arising therefrom, and that such fireplace or furnace has been carefully attended to by the person having the charge thereof.

35. For the purpose of the Public Health Act, 1875,

(1) Any cistern used for the supply of water for domestic purposes so placed, constructed, or kept as to render the water therein liable to contamination, causing or likely to cause risk to health.

(2) Any gutter, drain, shoot, stack-pipe, or down-spout of a building which, by reason of its insufficiency or its defective condition, shall cause damp in such building, or in an adjoining building; and

(3) Any deposit of material in or on any building or land which shall cause damp in such building, or in an adjoining building, so as to be dangerous or injurious to health, shall be deemed to be a nuisance within the meaning of the said Act.

Duty of local authority to inspect district for detection of nuisances.

92. It shall be the duty of every local authority to cause to be made from time to time inspection of their district, with a view to ascertain what nuisances exist calling for abatement under the powers of this Act, and to enforce the provisions of this Act in order to abate the same; also to enforce the provisions of any Act in force within their district requiring fireplaces and furnaces to consume their own smoke.

Section 93. Information of nuisances to local authority.

93. Information of any nuisance under this Act in the district of any local authority may be given to such local authority by any person aggrieved thereby, or by any two inhabitant householders of such district, or by any officer of such authority, or by the relieving officer, or by any constable or officer of the police force of such district.

Local authority to serve notice requiring abatement of nuisance.

94. On the receipt of any information respecting the existence of a nuisance the local authority shall, if satisfied of the existence of a nuisance, serve a notice (a) on the person by whose act default or sufferance the nuisance arises or continues, or, if such person cannot be found (b), on the owner or occupier of the premises on which the nuisance arises, requiring him to abate the same within a time to be specified in the notice, and to execute such works and do such things as may be necessary for that purpose :

NOTE.—(a) The notice must not be ambiguous (Whatling v. Rees, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 1122).

Provided—

First. That where the nuisance arises from the want or defective construction of any structural convenience, or where there is no occupier of the premises, notice under this section shall be served on the owner :

Secondly. That where the person causing the nuisance cannot be found and it is clear that the nuisance does not arise or continue by the act default or sufferance of the owner or occupier of the premises, the local authority may themselves abate the same without further order.

On non-compliance with notice complaint to be made to justice.

95. If the person on whom a notice to abate a nuisance has been served makes default in complying with any of the requisitions thereof within the time specified, or if the nuisance, although abated since the service of the notice is, in the opinion of the local authority, likely to recur on the same premises, the local authority shall cause a complaint relating to such nuisance to be made before a justice, and such justice shall thereupon issue a summons requiring the person on whom the notice was served to appear before a court of summary jurisdiction.

Power of court of summary jurisdiction to make order dealing with nuisance.

96. If the court is satisfied that the alleged nuisance exists, or that although abated it is likely to recur on the same premises, the court shall make an order on such person requiring him to comply with all or any of the requisitions of the notice, or otherwise to abate the nuisance within a time specified in the order, and to do any works necessary for that purpose ; or an order prohibiting the recurrence of the nuisance and directing the execution of any works necessary to prevent the recurrence ; or an order both requiring abatement and prohibiting the recurrence of the nuisance.

The Court may by their order impose a penalty not exceeding five pounds on the person on whom the order is made, and shall also give directions as to the payment of all costs incurred up to the time of hearing or making the order for abatement or prohibition of the nuisance.

Order of prohibition

97. Where the nuisance proved to exist is such as to render a house or building in the judgment of the court unfit for human habitation the court may prohibit the using thereof for that purpose until in its judgment the house or building is rendered fit for that purpose; and on the court being satisfied that it has been rendered fit for that purpose the court may determine its previous order by another declaring the house or building habitable and from the date thereof such house or building may be let or inhabited. Section 97. In case of house unfit for human habitation.

98. Any person not obeying an order to comply with the requisitions of the local authority or otherwise to abate the nuisance shall if he fails to satisfy the court that he has used all due diligence to carry out such order be liable to a penalty not exceeding ten shillings per day during his default: and any person knowingly and wilfully acting contrary to an order of prohibition shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding twenty shillings per day during such contrary action; moreover the local authority may enter the premises to which any order relates and abate the nuisance. and do whatever may be necessary in execution of such order and recover in a summary manner the expenses incurred by them from the person on whom the order is made. Penalty for contravention of order of court.

Mandamus to compel a local authority to abate a nuisance will not be granted (In re Ham Local Board, (1857) 26 L. J. M. C. 64).

104. All reasonable costs and expenses incurred in making a complaint, or giving notice, or in obtaining any order of the court or any justice in relation to a nuisance under this Act, or in carrying the same into effect, shall be deemed to be money paid for the use and at the request of the person on whom the order is made; or if the order is made on the local authority, or if no order is made, but the nuisance is proved to have existed when the complaint was made or the notice given, then of the person by whose act or default the nuisance was caused; and in case of nuisances caused by the act or default of the owner of premises, such costs and expenses may be recovered from any person who is for the time being owner of such premises: Provided that such costs and expenses shall not exceed in the whole one year's rack-rent of the premises. Costs and expenses of execution of provisions relating to nuisances.

Such costs and expenses, and any penalties incurred in relation to any such nuisance, may be recovered in a summary manner or in any county or superior court; and the court shall have power to divide costs expenses and penalties between persons by whose acts or defaults a nuisance is caused as to it may seem just.

Any costs and expenses recoverable under this section by a local authority from an owner of premises may be recovered from the occupier for the time being of such premises; and the owner shall allow such occupier to deduct any moneys which he pays under this enactment out of the rent from time to time becoming due in respect of the said premises, as if the same had been actually paid to such owner as part of such rent:

Provided, that no such occupier shall be required to pay any further sum than the amount of rent for the time being due from him, or which, after demand of such costs or expenses from such occupier, and after notice not to pay his landlord any rent without first deducting the amount of such costs or expenses, becomes payable by such occupier, unless he refuses, on application to him by the local authority, truly to disclose the amount of his rent and the name and address of the person to whom such rent is payable; but the burden of proof that the sum demanded from any such occupier is greater than the rent due by him at the time of such notice, or which has since accrued, shall lie on such occupier:

Provided also, that nothing herein contained shall affect any contract between any owner or occupier of any house building or other property whereby it is or may be agreed that the occupier shall pay or discharge all rates dues and sums of money payable in respect of such house building or other property, or to affect any contract whatsoever between landlord and tenant.

The time within which an action may be brought for the recovery of costs and expenses and penalties has been discussed under divers sections of this Act and of local Acts, and the decisions have turned upon slight verbal differences in the different sections. The result of the decisions seems to be that if the statute allows proceedings to be taken either by complaint before justices, or by action in a court of competent jurisdiction, the six months' limit only applies to the summary proceedings, and not to the alternative proceedings (Mayor of Blackburn v. Sanderson, (1902) 1 K. B. 794; 71 L. J. K. B. 590), followed in Metropolitan Water Board v. Bunn (C. A.) (1913) 3 K. B. 181; 82 L. J. K. B. 1024; doubts being thrown upon Vestry of Hammersmith v. Lowenfeld, (1896) 2 Q. B. 278; 65 L. J. Q. B. 662; but if, as in sect. 261, demands made recoverable by summary proceedings are by another section made recoverable in the county court, the six months' limit of time wherein proceedings must be brought in the court of summary jurisdiction applies also to any action brought in the county court (Tottenham Local Board v. Rowell (C. A.), (1876) 1 Ex. D. 514; 46 L. J. Ex. 432); the time therefore under this section and sect. 106 is the usual period of limitation and not six months.

Power of officer of police to proceed in certain cases against nuisances.

106. Where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government Board that a local authority have made default in doing their duty in relation to nuisances under this Act, the Local Government Board may authorise any officer of police acting within the district of the defaulting authority to institute any proceeding which the defaulting authority might institute with respect to such nuisances, and such officer may recover in a summary manner or in any county or superior court any expenses incurred by him, and not paid by the person proceeded against, from the defaulting authority:

But such officer of police shall not be at liberty to enter any house used as the dwelling of any person without such person's consent, or without the warrant of a justice, for the purpose of carrying into effect this enactment.

As to the time within which an action must be brought in county court, see note to sect. 104.

Regulation of Streets and Buildings.

Vesting of streets, etc., in urban authority.

149. All streets, being or which at any time become highways repairable by the inhabitants at large within any urban district, and the pavements stones and other materials thereof, and all buildings implements and other things provided for the purposes thereof, shall vest in and be under the control of the urban authority.

Section 149.

The urban authority shall from time to time cause all such streets to be levelled paved metalled flagged channelled altered and repaired as occasion may require; they may from time to time cause the soil of any such street to be raised lowered or altered as they may think fit, and may place and keep in repair fences and posts for the safety of foot passengers.

Any person who without the consent of the urban authority wilfully displaces or takes up or who injures the pavement stones materials fences or posts of or the trees in any such street shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds, and to a further penalty not exceeding five shillings for every square foot of pavement stones or other materials so displaced taken up or injured; he shall also be liable in the case of any injury to trees to pay to the local authority such amount of compensation as the court may award.

Power to compel paving, etc., of private streets.

150. Where any street within any urban district (not being a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large) or the carriageway footway or any other part of such street is not sewered levelled paved metalled flagged channelled and made good or is not lighted to the satisfaction of the urban authority, such authority may, by notice addressed to the respective owners or occupiers of the premises fronting adjoining or abutting on such parts thereof as may require to be sewered levelled paved metalled flagged or channelled, or to be lighted, require them to sewer level pave metal flag channel or make good or to provide proper means for lighting the same within a time to be specified in such notice.

Before giving such notice the urban authority shall cause plans and sections of any structural works intended to be executed under this section, and an estimate of the probable cost thereof, to be made under the direction of their surveyor, such plans and sections to be on a scale of not less than one inch for eighty-eight feet for a horizontal plan, and on a scale of not less than one inch for ten feet for a vertical section, and, in the case of a sewer, showing the depth of such sewer below the surface of the ground: such plans sections and estimate shall be deposited in the office of the urban authority, and shall be open at all reasonable hours for the inspection of all persons interested therein during the time specified in such notice; and a reference to such plans and sections in such notice shall be sufficient without requiring any copy of such plans and sections to be annexed to such notice.

If such notice is not complied with, the urban authority may, if they think fit, execute the works mentioned or referred to therein; and may recover in a summary manner the expenses incurred by them in so doing from the owners in default, according to the frontage of their respective premises, and in such proportion as is settled by the surveyor of the urban authority, or (in case of dispute) by arbitration in manner provided by this Act; or the urban authority may by order declare the expenses so incurred to be private improvement expenses.

The same proceedings may be taken, and the same powers may be exercised, in respect of any street or road of which a part is or may be a public footpath or repairable by the inhabitants at large as fully as if the whole of such street or road was a highway not repairable by the inhabitants at large.

Though the practice in the county court to recover claims by sect. 261 under this section is very simple, viz., by plaint and summons, to satisfy the burden of proof thrown on the plaintiff is far from a simple matter, each step indicated by the section must be proved step by step; thus it must be proved (a) that the condition of the street is unsatisfactory in the opinion of the urban authority; this may be proved by a resolution to that effect; (b) that plans and sections as provided by the section have been made under the direction of their surveyor; (c) that an estimate of the probable cost has been drawn up under the same direction; (d) that the said plans, etc., and estimates had been deposited in the office of the urban authority; (e) that notice had been addressed to the owners or occupiers of the premises fronting, adjoining, or abutting on such part of the street as may require to be made good, requiring them to make good or provide the work specified in such notice within a named time; (f) such notice must contain a statement of the place where the said plans, etc., and estimate have been deposited, and that the same are open daily during business hours during the time specified in the notice for inspection by all persons interested; (g) that such notice was not complied with, and that the works mentioned were executed by the urban authority; (h) the expenses incurred in doing the works; (i) the proportion payable by the respective owners in default as settled by the surveyor of the urban authority, or (in case of dispute) by arbitration in manner provided by the Act; (k) a demand for payment.

Time.]—The action must be brought within six months (Tottenham Local Board v. Rowell (C. A.), (1876) 1 Ex. D. 514; 46 L. J. Ex. 432).

"Street," for the meaning of, see sect. 4, ante, as explained in Fenwick v. Rural Sanitary Authority of Croydon, (1891) 2 Q. B. 212; 60 L. J. M. C. 161, following the dictum of Lord Selborne in Robinson v. Barton and Eccles Local Board, (1883) 8 App. Cas. 798; 53 L. J. Ch. 226, that "street" in this Act means the roadway as distinguished from the road with houses.

Notice must be specific; a notice which refers in general terms to the provisions of the section is bad (Stourbridge Urban District Council v. Butler and Grove, (1909) 1 Ch. 87; 78 L. J. Ch. 59), and must be served on the owner or occupier or expenses cannot be recovered (Jarrow Local Board v. Kennedy, (1870) L. R. 6 Q. B. 128).

Dispute as to the apportionment must be referred to arbitration (Sandgate Local Board v. Keene, (1892) 1 Q. B. 831; 61 L. J. Q. B. 775); as to what is a dispute, see Mayor of Folkestone v. Brooks, (1893) 3 Ch. 22; 62 L. J. Ch. 863; Stoker v. Mayor, &c., of Morpeth, (1915) 2 K. B. 511.

Abutting.]—A house may abut upon a street though it has no access thereto (Newport Urban Sanitary Authority v. Graham, (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 183).

Street or Road of which Part is a Public Footpath.]—Frontagers liable to expense of improving the whole street, and not merely such part as had been added to ancient highway (Evans v. Newport Urban Sanitary Authority, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 264; 59 L. J. M. C. 8).

Private Improvement Expenses.]—The urban authority may declare the expenses under this section to be private improvement expenses; such expenses may be recovered under sects. 213 and 257.

There is a vast field of learning, and many decisions on this section which cannot satisfactorily be dealt with in a book merely dealing with the practice of a particular court, but can be found on reference to Lumley's Public Health (7th edit.), pp. 287—318.

PRIVATE IMPROVEMENT RATE.

Section 213.

Power to make private improvement rates.

213. Whenever an urban authority have incurred or become liable to any expenses which by this Act are or by such authority may be declared to be private improvement expenses, such authority may, if they think fit, make and levy on the occupier of the premises in respect of which the expenses have been incurred, in addition to all other rates, a rate or rates to be called private improvement rates, of such amount as will be sufficient to discharge such expenses, together with interest thereon at a rate not exceeding five pounds per centum per annum, in such period not exceeding thirty years as the urban authority may in each case determine.

Provided that whenever any premises in respect of which any private improvement rate is made become unoccupied before the expiration of the period for which the rate was made, or before the same is fully paid off, such rate shall become a charge on and be paid by the owner for the time being of the premises so long as the same continue to be unoccupied.

LEGAL PROCEEDINGS.

Prosecution of Offences and Recovery of Penalties, etc.

Summary proceedings for offences, penalties, etc.

251. All offences under this Act, and all penalties forfeitures costs and expenses under this Act directed to be recovered in a summary manner, or the recovery of which is not otherwise provided for, may be prosecuted and recovered in manner directed by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts before a court of summary jurisdiction. The court of summary jurisdiction, when hearing and determining an information or complaint under this Act, shall be constituted of two or more justices of the peace in petty sessions, sitting at a place appointed for holding petty sessions, or of some magistrate or officer for the time being empowered by law to do alone any act authorised to be done by more than one justice of the peace sitting at some court or other place appointed for the administration of justice.

General provisions as to summary proceedings.

252. Any complaint or information made or laid in pursuance of this Act shall be made or laid within six months from the time when the matter of such complaint or information respectively arose.

The description of any offence under this Act in the words of this Act shall be sufficient in law.

Any exception exemption proviso excuse or qualification, whether it does or does not accompany the description of the offence in this Act, may be proved by the defendant, but need not be specified or negatived in the information; and, if so specified or negatived, no proof in relation to the matters so

Section 252. specified or negatived shall be required on the part of the informant.

This limitation of six months does not apply to proceedings in the county court under sects. 104 or 106, nor to proceedings to enforce a charge under sect. 257 (see note to those sections).

Recovery of expenses by local authority from owners.

257. Where any local authority have incurred expenses for the repayment whereof the owner of the premises for or in respect of which the same are incurred is made liable under this Act or by any agreement with the local authority, such expenses may be recovered, together with interest at a rate not exceeding five pounds per centum per annum, from the date of service of a demand for the same till payment thereof, from any person who is the owner of such premises when the works are completed for which such expenses have been incurred, and until recovery of such expenses and interest the same shall be a charge on the premises in respect of which they were incurred. In all summary proceedings by a local authority for the recovery of expenses incurred by them in works of private improvement, the time within which such proceedings may be taken shall be reckoned from the date of the service of notice of demand.

Where such expenses have been settled and apportioned by the surveyor of the local authority as payable by such owner, such apportionment shall be binding and conclusive on such owner, unless within three months from service of notice on him by the local authority or their surveyor of the amount settled by the surveyor to be due from such owner, he shall by written notice dispute the same.

The local authority may, by order, declare any such expenses to be payable by annual instalments within a period not exceeding thirty years, with interest at a rate not exceeding five pounds per centum per annum, until the whole amount is paid; and any such instalments and interest, or any part thereof, may be recovered in a summary manner from the owner or occupier for the time being of such premises, and may be deducted from the rent of such premises, in the same proportions as are allowed in the case of private improvement rates under this Act.

Time within which proceedings may be taken to enforce a charge on the land is the usual period of limitation (Tottenham Local Board v. Rowell (No. 2), (1880) 15 Ch. D. 378; 50 L. J. Ch. 99 (C. A.)), and the time begins to run from the demand for payment.

The proceedings to enforce such a charge in the county court should be taken under sect. 67 of the County Courts Act, 1888, as to which, see Part I. p. 51.

How the charge ought to be apportioned. Where a local authority have made up a road fronting several premises, held that the charge must be for an apportioned sum in respect of each one of the premises fronting on the road (Croydon Rural District Council v. Betts, (1914) 1 Ch. 870; 82 L. J. Ch. 709).

* * * * *

Appearance of local authorities in legal proceedings.

259. Any local authority may appear before any court, or in any legal proceeding by their clerk, or by any officer or member authorised generally or in respect of any special proceeding by resolution of such authority, and their clerk, or any officer or member so authorised shall be at liberty to institute and carry on any proceeding which the local authority is authorised to institute and carry on under this Act. Section 259.

260. In any proceeding instituted by or against a local authority under this Act it shall not be necessary for the plaintiff to prove the corporate name of the local authority or the constitution or limits of their district: Provided that this section shall not abridge or prejudice the right of any defendant to take or avail himself of any objection which he might have taken or availed himself of if this Act had not been passed. Name of local authority need not be proved.

261. Proceedings for the recovery of demands below fifty pounds, which local authorities are empowered to recover in a summary manner, may, at the option of the local authority, be taken in the county court as if such demands were debts within the cognizance of such courts. Demands below 50*l.* may be recovered in county courts.

Time for taking proceedings in the county court under this section, as well as before a court of summary jurisdiction, is six months, as provided by sect. 252 (Tottenham Local Board v. Rowell (C. A.), (1876) 1 Ex. D. 514; 46 L. J. Ex. 432; see note to sect. 104).

262. No rate order conviction or thing made or done or relating to the execution of this Act shall be vacated quashed or set aside for want of form, or (unless otherwise expressly provided by this Act) be removed or removable by certiorari or any other writ or process whatsoever into any of the superior courts: Provided that nothing in this section shall prevent the removal of any case stated for the opinion of a superior court, or of any rate order conviction or thing to which such special case relates. Proceedings not to be quashed for want of form.

267. Notices orders and any other documents required or authorised to be served under this Act may be served by delivering the same to or at the residence of the person to whom they are respectively addressed, or where addressed to the owner or occupier of premises by delivering the same or a true copy thereof to some person on the premises, or if there is no person on the premises who can be so served by fixing the same on some conspicuous part of the premises; they may also be served by post by a prepaid letter, and if served by post shall be deemed to have been served at the time when the letter containing the same would be delivered in the ordinary course of post, and in proving such service it shall be sufficient to prove that the notice order or other document was properly addressed and put into the post. Service of notices.

Any notice by this Act required to be given to the owner or occupier of any premises may be addressed by the description of the "owner" or "occupier" of the premises (naming them) in respect of which the notice is given, without further name or description.

Appeal.

268. Where any person deems himself aggrieved by the decision of the local authority in any case in which the local authority are empowered to recover in a summary manner any expenses incurred by them, or to declare such expenses to be private improvement expenses, he may, within twenty-one days after notice of such decision, address a memorial to the Local Government Board stating the grounds of his complaint, and Appeal in certain cases to Local Government Board.

Section 268.

shall deliver a copy thereof to the local authority; the Local Government Board may make such order in the matter as to the said board may seem equitable, and the order so made shall be binding and conclusive on all parties.

Any proceedings that may have been commenced for the recovery of such expenses by the local authority shall, on the delivery to them of such copy as aforesaid, be stayed; and the Local Government Board may, if it thinks fit, by its order, direct the local authority to pay to the person so proceeded against such sum as the said board may consider to be a just compensation for the loss damage or grievance thereby sustained by him.

PUBLIC HEALTH (LONDON) ACT, 1891.

By this Act certain things are declared to be nuisances by sect. 2, and under sects. 4 and 5 certain steps may be taken to abate such nuisances.

Jurisdiction.]—By sect. 11, sub-s. 1, all reasonable costs and expenses incurred in abating such nuisances shall be deemed to be money paid for the use and at the request of the person on whom the order is made; by sect. 11, sub-s. 2, such costs and expenses and fines may be recovered in a summary manner, or in the county court or High Court. The court has further power to divide costs, expenses and fines between the persons responsible for the nuisance.

By sect. 117, sub-s. 2, a demand not exceeding 50*l.*, which a sanitary authority can recover in a summary manner, may be recovered in the county court as if such demand were a debt.

Practice.]—Proceedings are to be by action commenced by plaint and summons in the ordinary way (Order L. rr. 35, 36 apply; see p. 631).

No special rules.

Time within which the action should be commenced is a matter of some doubt, but the better opinion seems to be that the action must be commenced within six calendar months' time (see note to sect. 11).

Nuisances (General).

What nuisances may be abated summarily.

2.—(1) For the purposes of this Act,—

(a) Any premises in such a state as to be a nuisance or injurious or dangerous to health;

(b) Any pool, ditch, gutter, watercourse, cistern, watercloset, earth closet, privy, urinal, cesspool, drain, dung-pit, or ashpit so foul or in such a state as to be a nuisance or injurious or dangerous to health;

(c) Any animal kept in such place or manner as to be a nuisance or injurious or dangerous to health;

(d) Any accumulation or deposit which is a nuisance or injurious or dangerous to health;

(e) Any house or part of a house so overcrowded as to be injurious or dangerous to the health of the inmates, whether or not members of the same family;

(f) Any such absence from premises of water fittings as is a nuisance by virtue of section thirty-three of the Metropolis Water Act, 1871, set out in the first schedule to this Act; and

34 & 35 Vict. c. 113.

(g) Any factory, workshop, or workplace which is not a factory subject to the provisions of the Factory and Workshop Act, 1878, relating to cleanliness, ventilation, and overcrowding, and 41 & 42 Vict. c. 16.

(i.) is not kept in a cleanly state and free from effluvia arising from any drain, privy, earth closet, watercloset, urinal, or other nuisance, or

(ii.) is not ventilated in such a manner as to render harmless as far as practicable any gases, vapours, dust, or other impurities generated in the course of the work carried on therein that are a nuisance or injurious or dangerous to health, or,

(iii.) is so overcrowded while work is carried on as to be injurious or dangerous to the health of those employed therein, shall be nuisances liable to be dealt with summarily under this Act.

(2) Provided that—

(i.) Any accumulation or deposit necessary for the effectual carrying on of any business or manufacture shall not be punishable as a nuisance under this section, if it is proved to the satisfaction of the court that the accumulation or deposit has not been kept longer than is necessary for the purposes of the business or manufacture, and that the best available means have been taken for preventing injury thereby to the public health; and

(ii.) In considering whether any dwelling-house or part of a dwelling-house which is used also as a factory, workshop, or workplace, or whether any factory, workshop, or workplace used also as a dwelling-house, is a nuisance by reason of overcrowding, the court shall have regard to the circumstance of such other user.

Notice requiring abatement of nuisance.

4.—(1) On the receipt of any information respecting the existence of a nuisance liable to be dealt with summarily under this Act the sanitary authority shall, if satisfied of the existence of a nuisance, serve a notice on the person by whose act, default, or sufferance the nuisance arises or continues, or, if such person cannot be found, on the occupier or owner of the premises on which the nuisance arises, requiring him to abate the same within the time specified in the notice, and to execute such works and do such things as may be necessary for that purpose, and, if the sanitary authority think it desirable (but not otherwise) specifying any works to be executed.

(2) The sanitary authority may also by the same or another notice served on such occupier, owner, or person require him to do what is necessary for preventing the recurrence of the nuisance, and, if they think it desirable, specify any works to be executed for that purpose, and may serve that notice notwithstanding that the nuisance may for the time have been abated, if the sanitary authority consider that it is likely to recur on the same premises.

Section 4.

(3) Provided that—

(a) where the nuisance arises from any want or defect of a structural character, or where the premises are unoccupied, the notice shall be served on the owner:

(b) where the person causing the nuisance cannot be found, and it is clear that the nuisance does not arise or continue by the act, default, or sufferance of the occupier or owner of the premises, the sanitary authority may themselves abate the same and may do what is necessary to prevent the recurrence thereof:

(c) where the medical officer of health certifies to the sanitary authority that any house or part of a house in their district is so overcrowded as to be injurious or dangerous to the health of the inmates, whether or not members of the same family, the sanitary authority shall take proceedings under this section for the abatement of such nuisance:

(d) where the nuisance is such absence of water-fittings as is declared a nuisance by section thirty-three of the Metropolis Water Act, 1871 (set out in the first schedule to this Act), such absence shall be deemed to render the premises unfit for human habitation unless and until the contrary is shown to the satisfaction of the court.

34 & 35 Vict. c. 113.

(4) Where a notice has been served on a person under this section, and either—

(a) the nuisance arose from the wilful act or default of the said person; or

(b) such person makes default in complying with any of the requisitions of the notice within the time specified, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding ten pounds for each offence, whether any such nuisance order as in this Act mentioned is or is not made upon him.

On non-compliance with notice, order to be made.

5.—(1) If either—

(a) the person on whom a notice to abate a nuisance has been served as aforesaid makes default in complying with any of the requisitions thereof within the time specified; or

(b) the nuisance, although abated since the service of the notice, is, in the opinion of the sanitary authority, likely to recur on the same premises, the sanitary authority shall make a complaint, and the petty sessional court hearing the complaint may make on such person a summary order (in this Act referred to as a nuisance order).

(2) A nuisance order may be an abatement order, a prohibition order, or a closing order, or a combination of such orders.

(3) An abatement order may require a person to comply with all or any of the requisitions of the notice, or otherwise to abate the nuisance within a time specified in the order.

(4) A prohibition order may prohibit the recurrence of a nuisance.

(5) An abatement order or prohibition order shall, if the person on whom the order is made so requires, or the court considers it desirable, specify the works to be executed by such person for the purpose of abating or preventing the recurrence of the nuisance.

(6) A closing order may prohibit a dwelling-house from being used for human habitation.

(7) A closing order shall only be made where it is proved to the satisfaction of the court that by reason of a nuisance a dwelling-house is unfit for human habitation, and if such proof is given the court shall make a closing order, and may impose a fine not exceeding twenty pounds.

(8) A petty sessional court, when satisfied that the dwelling-house has been rendered fit for human habitation, may declare that it is so satisfied and cancel the closing order.

(9) If a person fails to comply with the provisions of a nuisance order with respect to the abatement of a nuisance, he shall, unless he satisfies the court that he has used all due diligence to carry out such order, be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty shillings a day during his default; and if a person knowingly and wilfully acts contrary to a prohibition or closing order he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding forty shillings a day during such contrary action; moreover the sanitary authority may enter the premises to which a nuisance order relates, and abate or remove the nuisance, and do whatever may be necessary in execution of such order.

Provision as to appeal against order.

6.—(1) Where a person appeals to the court of quarter sessions against a nuisance order, no liability to a fine shall arise, nor, save as in this section mentioned, shall any proceedings be taken or work done under such order until after the determination or abandonment of such appeal.

(2) There shall be no appeal to quarter sessions against a nuisance order, unless it is or includes a prohibition or closing order, or requires the execution of structural works.

(3) Where a nuisance order is made and a person does not comply with it and appeals against it to the court of quarter sessions, and such appeal is dismissed or is abandoned, the appellant shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty shillings a day during the non-compliance with the order, unless he satisfies the court before whom proceedings are taken for imposing a fine that there was substantial ground for the appeal, and that the appeal was not brought merely for the purpose of delay, and where the appeal is heard by the court of quarter sessions, that court may, on dismissing the appeal, impose the fine as if the court were a petty sessional court.

(4) Where a nuisance order is made on any person and appealed against, and the court which made the order is of opinion that the continuance of the nuisance will be injurious or dangerous to health, and that the immediate abatement thereof will not cause any injury which cannot be compensated by damages, the court may authorize the sanitary authority immediately to abate the nuisance; but the sanitary authority, if they do so, and the appeal is successful, shall pay the cost of such abatement and the damages (if any) sustained by the said person by reason of such abatement; but, if the appeal is dismissed or abandoned, the sanitary authority may recover the cost of the abatement in a summary manner from the said person.

Costs of execution of provisions relating to nuisances.

11.—(1) All reasonable costs and expenses incurred in serving notice, making a complaint, or obtaining a nuisance order, or in carrying the order into effect, shall be deemed to be money paid for the use and at the request of the person on whom the order is made; or if the order is made on the sanitary authority, or, if no order is made, but the nuisance is proved to have existed when the notice was served or the complaint made, then of the person by whose act, default, or sufferance, the nuisance was caused; and in case of nuisances caused by the act or default of the owner of premises, such costs and expenses may be recovered from any person who is for the time being owner of such premises.

(2) Such costs and expenses, and any fines incurred in relation to any such nuisance, may be recovered in a summary manner or in the county court or High Court, and the court shall have power to divide costs, expenses and fines between persons by whose acts, defaults, or sufferance a nuisance is caused, as to it may seem just.

In the case of Vestry of Hammersmith v. Lowenfeld, (1896) 2 Q. B. 278; 65 L. J. Q. B. 662, it was held that any such action in a county court must be brought within six months from the time when the costs and expenses were incurred; some doubts were thrown upon this decision in the Mayor of Blackburn v. Sanderson, (1902) 1 K. B. 794; 71 L. J. K. B. 590. See also Metropolitan Water Board v. Bunn, C. A., (1913) 3 K. B. 181; 82 L. J. K. B. 1024, but the better opinion seems to be that the first-named case is correct, especially as fines are expressly named in the section, and would have to be recovered within six months if recovered in a summary manner.

Recovery of costs of maintenance of non-infectious patient in hospital.

76. Any expenses incurred by a sanitary authority in maintaining in a hospital (whether or not belonging to that authority) a patient who is not a pauper, and is not suffering from an infectious disease, shall be a simple contract debt due to the sanitary authority from that patient, or from any person liable by law to maintain him, but proceedings for its recovery shall not be commenced after the expiration of six months from the discharge of the patient, or if he dies in such hospital from the date of his death.

* * * * *

Summary proceedings for offences, expenses, etc.

117.—(1) All offences, fines, penalties, forfeitures, costs, and expenses under this Act or any bye-law made under this Act directed to be prosecuted or recovered in a summary manner, or the prosecution or recovery of which is not otherwise provided for, may be prosecuted and recovered in manner directed by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts.

(2) Proceedings for the recovery of a demand not exceeding fifty pounds, which a sanitary authority or any person are or is empowered to recover in a summary manner, may, at the option of the authority or person, be taken in the county court as if such demand were a debt.

(3) A proceeding under this Act shall not be taken by the county council against a sanitary authority save with the sanction of the Local Government Board, unless such proceeding is for the recovery of expenses or of money due from the sanitary authority to the council.

Proceedings under this section should be taken within six months (see note to sect. 261 of the Public Health Act, 1875, and note to sect. 11 of this Act).

PUBLIC TRUSTEE ACT, 1906.

[6 EDW. VII. c. 55.]

This Act provided for the appointment of a public trustee in England (a), a corporation sole which may sue or be sued under that name. The public trustee may, if he think fit (a) act in the administration of estates of small value, (b) as custodian trustee, (c) as an ordinary trustee, (d) as a judicial trustee, (e) as the administrator of the property of a convict under the Forfeiture Act, 1870.

NOTE (a).—Not Scotland. See Hewitt's Settlements, In re, (1915) 1 Ch. 228; 84 L. J. Ch. 358.

Jurisdiction of the county court is limited to estates which do not exceed 500*l.* in value. By sect. 10 of this Act any person aggrieved by any act or omission or decision of the public trustee in relation to any trust, may apply to the "court," and the "court" may make such order in the matter as it thinks fit. Under sect. 13, sub-s. 6, the "court" may make such order as it thinks just if the auditor, mentioned in that section, is refused access to any document, or is obstructed in his investigations. The word "court" by sect. 15 means the High Court, and as respects trusts within its jurisdiction, the county court; the County Courts Act, 1888, s. 67, limits the powers of the county court as to trust estates to 500*l.* A corporate body may be appointed custodian trustees (In re Cherry's Trusts, Robinson v. Trustees for Wesleyan Methodists, (1914) 1 Ch. 83; 83 L. J. Ch. 142).

Practice.]—The proceedings are commenced by petition, and carried on as provided by Order XXXVIII. (see p. 620).

Appeal from the county court will be as in cases under sect. 67 of the County Courts Act, 1888.

The Public Trustee Rules, 1912, have been made by the Lord Chancellor for carrying into effect the objects of this Act; none of these rules touch the practice of the county court, and they are, therefore, not set out.

SUPPLEMENTAL PROVISIONS AS TO PUBLIC TRUSTEE.

Appeal to the court.

10.—(1) A person aggrieved by any act or omission or decision of the Public Trustee in relation to any trust may apply to the court, and the court may make such order in the matter as the court thinks just.

(2) Subject to rules of court, an application under this section to the High Court shall be made to a judge of the Chancery Division of the High Court in chambers.

INVESTIGATION AND AUDIT OF TRUST ACCOUNTS.

Investigation and audit of trust accounts.

13.—(1) Subject to rules under this Act and unless the court otherwise orders, the condition and accounts of any trust shall, on an application being made and notice thereof given in the prescribed manner by any trustee or beneficiary, be investigated and audited by such solicitor or public accountant as may be agreed on by the applicant and the trustees or, in default of agreement, by the Public Trustee or some person appointed by him:

Provided that (except with the leave of the court) such an investigation or audit shall not be required within twelve months after any such previous investigation or audit, and that a trustee or beneficiary shall not be appointed under this section to make an investigation or audit.

(2) The person making the investigation or audit (herein-after called the auditor) shall have a right of access to the books, accounts, and vouchers of the trustees, and to any securities and documents of title held by them on account of the trust, and may require from them such information and explanation as may be necessary for the performance of his duties, and upon the completion of the investigation and audit shall forward to the applicant and to every trustee a copy of the accounts, together with a report thereon, and a certificate signed by him to the effect that the accounts exhibit a true view of the state of the affairs of the trust and that he has had the securities of the trust fund investments produced to and verified by him or (as the case may be) that such accounts are deficient in such respects as may be specified in such certificate.

(3) Every beneficiary under the trust shall, subject to rules under this Act, be entitled at all reasonable times to inspect and take copies of the accounts, report, and certificate, and, at his own expense, to be furnished with copies thereof or extracts therefrom.

(4) The auditor may be removed by order of the court, and, if any auditor is removed, or resigns, or dies, or becomes bankrupt or incapable of acting before the investigation and audit is completed, a new auditor may be appointed in his place in like manner as the original auditor.

(5) The remuneration of the auditor and the other expenses of the investigation and audit shall be such as may be prescribed by rules under this Act, and shall, unless the Public Trustee otherwise directs, be borne by the estate; and, in the event of the Public Trustee so directing, he may order that such expenses be borne by the applicant or by the trustees personally or partly by them and partly by the applicant.

(6) If any person having the custody of any documents to which the auditor has a right of access under this section fails or refuses to allow him to have access thereto or in anywise obstructs the investigation or audit, the auditor may apply to the court, and thereupon the court shall make such order as it thinks just.

15. In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires—the expression "court" means the High Court and, as respects trusts within its jurisdiction, the county court:

RAILWAY REGULATION AMENDMENT ACT, 1871.

[34 & 35 Vict. c. 78.]

Jurisdiction.]—The county court as a court has no jurisdiction under this Act but by sect. 7 the Board of Trade is empowered, when it considers that a formal investigation as to the causes and circumstances of any railway accident ought to be made to direct that such investigation shall be held (amongst other persons) by a county court judge, with the assistance of an inspector or an assessor or assessors. The said persons constitute a court, and by sect. 7, sub-s. 3, are given divers powers therein set forth. The court has to report to the Board of Trade as to the causes and circumstances attending the accident.

ACCIDENTS.

Section 6.

Companies to make returns of accidents to Board of Trade.

6. Where in or about any railway or any of the works or buildings connected with such railway, or any building or place, whether open or enclosed, occupied by the company working such railway, any of the following accidents takes place in the course of working any railway; (that is to say),

(1) Any accident attended with loss of life or personal injury to any person whomsoever;

(2) Any collision where one of the trains is a passenger train;

(3) Any passenger train or any part of a passenger train accidentally leaving the rails;

(4) Any accident of a kind not comprised in the foregoing descriptions, but which is of such a kind as to have caused or be likely to cause loss of life or personal injury, and which may be specified in that behalf by any order to be made from time to time by the Board of Trade, the company working such railway, and also, if the accident happen to a train belonging to any other company, such last-mentioned company, shall send notice of such accident and of the loss of life or personal injury (if any) occasioned thereby to the Board of Trade.

Such notice shall be in such form and shall contain such particulars as the Board of Trade may from time to time direct, and shall be sent by the earliest practicable post after the accident takes place.

The Board of Trade may from time to time by order direct that notice of any class of accidents shall be sent to them by telegraph, and may revoke any such order. Notice of every such order shall be sent to every railway company, and while it is in force notice of every accident of the class to which the order relates shall be sent to the Board of Trade by telegraph immediately after the accident takes place.

Every company who fail to comply with the provisions of this section shall be liable for each offence to a penalty not exceeding twenty pounds.

Inquiry into accidents and formal investigation in serious cases.

7. The Board of Trade may direct an inquiry to be made by an inspector into the cause of any accident, of which notice is for the time being required by or in pursuance of this Act to be sent to the Board of Trade; and where it appears to the Board of Trade, either before or after the commencement of any such inquiry, that a more formal investigation of the accident, and of the causes thereof, and of the circumstances attending the same, is expedient, the Board of Trade may, by order, direct such investigation to be held, and with respect to such investigation the following provisions shall have effect:

(1) The Board of Trade may, by the same or any subsequent order, appoint any person or persons possessing legal or special knowledge to assist an inspector in holding the same, or may direct the county court judge, stipendiary magistrate, metropolitan police magistrate, or other person or persons named in the same or any subsequent order, to hold the same with the assistance of an inspector or any other assessor or assessors named in the order:

Section 7.

(2) The persons holding any such formal investigation (hereinafter referred to as the court) shall hold the same in open court in such manner and under such conditions as they may think most effectual for ascertaining the causes and circumstances of the accident, and enabling them to make the report in this section mentioned :

(3) The court shall have for the purpose of such investigation all the powers of a court of summary jurisdiction when acting as a court in the exercise of its ordinary jurisdiction, and all the powers of an inspector under this Act, and in addition the following powers ; namely,

(a) They may enter and inspect any place or building the entry or inspection whereof appears to them requisite for the said purpose :

(b) They may by summons under their hands require the attendance of all such persons as they think fit to call before them and examine for the said purpose, and may for such purpose require answers or returns to such inquiries as they think fit to make :

(c) They may require and enforce the production of all books, papers, and documents which they consider important for the said purpose :

(d) They may administer an oath, and require any person examined to make and sign a declaration of the truth of the statements made by him in his examination :

(e) Every person so summoned not being a person engaged in the management, service, or employment of a company, or otherwise connected with a company, shall be allowed such expenses as would be allowed to a witness attending on subpœna before a court of record ; and in case of dispute as to the amount to be allowed, the same shall be referred by the court to a master of one of the superior courts, who, on request under the hands of the members of the court, shall ascertain and certify the proper amount of such expenses :

(4) The inspector making an inquiry into any accident and the court holding an investigation of any accident shall make a report to the Board of Trade stating the causes of the accident and all the circumstances attending the same, and any observations thereon or on the evidence or on any matters arising out of the investigation which they think right to make to the Board of Trade, and the Board of Trade shall cause every such report to be made public in such manner as they think expedient.

THE RIOT (DAMAGES) ACT, 1886.

By this Act, sect. 2, compensation out of the police rate is given for damage by riot to any house or building in a police district, or for property therein injured or stolen by persons riotously and tumultuously assembled together, but in fixing the amount regard shall be had to the conduct of the person applying for compensation; sub-s. 2 of sect. 2 allows an insurer to stand in the shoes of his assured. By sect. 3 claim for compensation is to be made to the police authority of the district in accordance with regulations published in the London Gazette (see post). By sect. 4, where a claim has been made in accordance with the said regulations, and the claimant is aggrieved by the refusal or failure of the police authority to fix compensation or by the amount of the compensation fixed he may bring an action against the police authority in respect of the matters mentioned in such claim.

Jurisdiction of the county court is by sect. 4, sub-s. 2, exclusive as to all claims not exceeding 100*l.*, and the action shall be brought in the county court for the district in which any part of the police district is situate.

Costs.]—Should the claimant fail to recover any compensation from the police authority, or only recover an amount not exceeding that fixed by the police authority, he shall pay the costs of the police authority as between solicitor and client (sect. 4, sub-s. 1).

Appeal from the county court will be under sect. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888, p. 123.

As to liability of the police authority for damage done to vessels by persons riotously assembled, see sect. 515, Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. c. 60). The Public Authorities Protection Act does not apply to a claim under the Act (Kaufmann Bros. v. Liverpool Corporation, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1127).

For the elements necessary to constitute a riot, see Field v. Receiver, Metropolitan Police, (1907) 2 K. B. 853; 76 L. J. K. B. 1015.

1. This Act may be cited as the Riot (Damages) Act, 1886.

Compensation to persons for damage by riot.

2.—(1) Where a house, shop or building in any police district has been injured or destroyed, or the property therein has been injured, stolen or destroyed, by any persons riotously and tumultuously assembled together, such compensation as hereinafter mentioned shall be paid out of the police rate of such district to any person who has sustained loss by such injury, stealing, or destruction; but in fixing the amount of such compensation regard shall be had to the conduct of the said person, whether as respects the precautions taken by him or as respects his being a party or accessory to such riotous or tumultuous assembly, or as regards any provocation offered to the persons assembled or otherwise.

(2) Where any person having sustained such loss as aforesaid has received, by way of insurance or otherwise, any sum to recoup him, in whole or in part, for such loss, the compensation otherwise payable to him under this Act shall, if exceeding such sum, be reduced by the amount thereof, and in any other case shall not be paid to him, and the payer of such sum shall be entitled to compensation under this Act in respect of the sum so paid in like manner as if he had sustained the said loss, and any policy of insurance given by such payer shall continue in force as if he had made no such payment, and where such person was recouped as aforesaid otherwise than by payment of a sum, this enactment shall apply as if the value of such recoupment were a sum paid.

Mode of awarding compensation.

3.—(1) Claims for compensation under this Act shall be made to the police authority of the district in which the injury, stealing, or destruction took place, and such police authority shall inquire into the truth thereof, and shall, if satisfied, fix such compensation as appears to them just. (a)

(2) A secretary of state may from time to time make, and when made, revoke and vary regulations respecting the time, manner, and conditions within, in, and under which claims for compensation under this Act are to be made, and all claims not made in accordance with such regulations may be excluded. . . .

(3) The said regulations shall be published in the London Gazette, and every police authority shall cause the same to be published in their police district, and copies thereof to be at all times sold to any applicant at a price not exceeding 6*d.* for each copy.

NOTE.—(a) By virtue of the Local Government Act, 1888, ss. 3 (1), (14) and 9, ss. (1), if damage by riot occurs within a police district being part of a county maintaining a separate police force the authority liable to pay the damages is the county council (Glamorgan Coal Company, Ltd. v. Standing Joint Committee of the Quarter Sessions and County Council of Glamorgan, (1915) 1 K. B. 384; 84 L. J. K. B. 362).

Right of action to person aggrieved.

4.—(1) Where a claim to compensation has been made in accordance with the regulations, and the claimant is aggrieved by the refusal or failure of the police authority to fix compensation upon such claim, or by the amount of compensation fixed, he may bring an action against the police authority to recover compensation in respect of all or any of the matters mentioned in such claim and to an amount not exceeding that mentioned therein, but if in such action he fails to recover any compensation or an amount exceeding that fixed by the police authority, he shall pay the costs of the police authority as between solicitor and client.

(2) If the amount of compensation for which such action is brought does not exceed 100*l.*, the action shall be brought in the county court for any district in which any part of the police district is situate.

6. This Act shall apply—

(a) (Repealed).

Some part of this section repealed by sect. 745 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. c. 60).

Section 7.

7. For the purposes of this Act—

As to claimants in the case of churches, public institutions, etc.

(a) where a church or chapel has been injured or destroyed, or any property therein has been injured, stolen or destroyed, the churchwardens or chapelwardens, if any, or if there are none, the persons having the management of such church or chapel, or the persons in whom the legal estate in the same is vested; and shall be deemed to be the persons who have sustained loss from such injury, stealing, or destruction, and claims may be made by any one or more of such persons in relation both to the building and to the property therein, and payment to any such claimant shall discharge the liability of the police authority to pay compensation, but shall be without prejudice to the right of any person to recover the compensation from such payee.

(b) where a school, hospital, public institution, or public building, has been injured or destroyed, or any property therein has been injured, stolen, or destroyed, the persons having the control of such school, hospital, institution, or building, or the persons in whom the legal estate in the same is vested;

articles of the same nature and of small value, and except where the cost of repairs only is claimed), specify each article separately, and the sum claimed for it or for the injury thereto; and, when practicable, the claimant shall send with his claim vouchers or copies of vouchers for the sums paid by him for the property.

8. In all cases the claim shall state generally the evidence which the claimant is prepared to offer in support of it, and the place where such documents as he proposes to put in evidence may be inspected; and whether the claimant has received or may receive, or is entitled to, any compensation from any (and if so what) source for any loss included in his claim, and the amount of such compensation.

9. The claimant, if so required by the police authority, shall verify the claim by himself making such a statutory declaration, and by procuring and furnishing to the police authority such statutory declarations of other persons as the police authority may require; and he shall produce to the police authority and to any person nominated by that authority all such documents under his control as are needed to support his claim, and shall deliver to the police authority copies thereof or extracts therefrom as may be required, and shall give to the police authority or any person nominated by that authority access to the premises and produce the property for injury to which the claim is made.

10. The police authority may make separate awards as regards property of the claimant and property not belonging to him.

When an award includes compensation for property in the care of, but not belonging to the claimant, it may provide that prior to payment either the claimant shall produce receipts from the owners for the sums payable to them, or their authority to him to receive the same, or that the claimant or some other person to be approved by the police authority shall enter into a bond or personal undertaking with the police authority in such sum as the award shall name for securing payment to the owners of such property of the sums due to them. When an award includes compensation for stolen property, it may provide for a similar bond or undertaking for securing either repayment to the police authority of the whole or such part as the police authority may determine of the compensation paid for such stolen property as may be subsequently recovered, or the delivery of the property so recovered to the police authority to be realised by them for the benefit of the police rate.

11. No costs will be allowed to any claimant.

12. The above regulations shall, with the necessary variations, apply:

(a) In the case of the plundering, damage, or destruction of any ship or boat stranded or in distress, on or near the shore of any sea or tidal water, or of any part of the cargo or apparel of such ship or boat, by persons riotously and tumultuously assembled together; and

(b) In the case of the injury or destruction, by persons riotously and tumultuously assembled together, of any machinery (whether fixed or movable) prepared for or employed in any manufacture or agriculture, or any branch thereof, or of any erection or fixture about or belonging to such machinery, or of any steam engine or other engine for sinking, draining, or working any mine or quarry, or of any staith or erection used in conducting the business of any mine or quarry, or of any bridge, waggon-way or trunk for conveying minerals or other product from any mine or quarry. Rule 12.

13. The regulations made under the above-mentioned Act on the 28th July 1886 are hereby revoked.

[39 & 40 VICT. c. 75; 56 & 57 VICT. c. 31; 61 & 62 VICT. c. 34.]

Jurisdiction to Restrain Offences.]—The county court having jurisdiction in the place where any offence (see sects. 2 to 5 of the Act of 1876, and sect. 1 of 1893 Act) against these Acts is committed may, by summary order, require any person to abstain from the commission of such offence; and where such offence consists in default to perform a duty under the Act, may require him to perform such duty in manner in the order specified. The court may insert in any order such conditions as to time or mode of action as it may think just, and may suspend or rescind any order on such undertaking being given or condition being performed as it may think just; and generally may give such directions for carrying into effect any order as to the court seems fit. Previously to granting the order the court may, if it thinks fit, remit to skilled persons to report "on the best practicable and available means," and the nature and costs of the works and apparatus required, who must in all cases take into consideration the reasonableness of the expenses involved (sect. 10). The jurisdiction under these Acts is exclusive.

Practice is by plaint and summons, and follows the ordinary practice of the court, but must not be commenced until two months after written notice of the intention to take proceedings (sect. 13 of Act of 1876), which Notice of intention to proceed.

notice cannot be given until the requisite consent of the Local Government Board to the taking of proceedings has been obtained (West Riding Rivers Board v. Robinson, (1907) 1 K. B. 431; 76 L. J. K. B. 426).

Discovery.]—The proceedings are not of a criminal or penal nature, so complainants are entitled to discovery (In re Derbyshire County Council v. Mayor, etc., of Derby, (1896) 2 Q. B. 53; (C. A.), ib., 297; 65 L. J. Q. B. 488, 557; affirmed, (1897) A. C. 550; 66 L. J. Q. B. 701).

In county court no special procedure is ordered, hence Order L. rr. 35, 36, apply; see p. 631.

Effect of Order.]—The order is equivalent to a judgment, and estops the defendant from disputing the commission of the alleged offence or the jurisdiction of the court (River Ribble Committee v. Croston Urban District Council, (1897) 1 Q. B. 251; 66 L. J. Q. B. 384).

Appeal.]—Either party aggrieved by the decision of the court in point of law or on the merits, or in respect of the admission or rejection of any evidence, may appeal to the High Court. The appeal must be by motion in accordance with the ordinary practice (Kirkheaton Loc. Bd. v. Ainley (C. A.), (1892) 2 Q. B. 274; 61 L. J. Q. B. 812), but the appeal court may draw inferences from the facts (39 & 40 Vict. c. 75, s. 11; see sect. 9 for provisions as to Lee Conservancy Board).

Costs.]—The judge may certify that the proceedings involve novel or difficult points of law, or that the question was to some class or body of persons of general or public interest (sect. 119, County Courts Act, 1888). See as to costs generally Order LIII., p. 636, and Part II., Chapter III.; as to an order for particular costs or for the allowance of special items see Order LIII. rr. 7, 8, 9, Part II., Chapter III.

Removal of Plaint into High Court.]—Any plaint entered in a county court under the Act may be removed into the High Court by leave of the judge of the High Court, if it appears to such judge desirable in the interests of justice that such case should be tried in the first instance in the High Court, and not in a county court, and on such terms as to security for and payment of costs, and such other terms (if any), as such judge may think fit (sect. 11), post, p. 2239.

39 & 40 VICT. C. 75. AUG. 15, 1876.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make further provision for the prevention of the pollution of rivers, and in particular to prevent the establishment of new sources of pollution:

Short title of Act.

1. This Act may be cited for all purposes as the Rivers Pollution Prevention Act, 1876.

PART I.

LAW AS TO SOLID MATTERS.

Prohibition as to putting solid matters into streams.

2. Every person who puts or causes to be put or to fall or knowingly permits to be put or to fall or to be carried into any stream, so as either singly or in combination with other similar acts of the same or any other person to interfere with its due flow, or to pollute its waters, the solid refuse of any manufactory, manufacturing process or quarry, or any rubbish or cinders, or any other waste or any putrid solid matter, shall be deemed to have committed an offence against this Act.

In proving interference with the due flow of any stream, or in proving the pollution of any stream, evidence may be given of repeated acts which together cause such interference or pollution, although each act taken by itself may not be sufficient for that purpose. Section 2.

"Solid matter" has received judicial interpretation (River Ribble v. Halliwell, (1899) 2 Q. B. 385; 68 L. J. Q. B. 984).

Law as to Sewage Pollutions.

3. Every person who causes to fall or flow or knowingly permits to fall or flow or to be carried into any stream any solid or liquid sewage matter, shall (subject in this Act mentioned) be deemed to have committed an offence against this Act. Prohibition as to drainage into streams of sewage.

Where any sewage matter falls or flows or is carried into any stream along a channel used, constructed, or in process of construction at the date of the passing of this Act for the purpose of conveying such sewage matter, the person causing or knowingly permitting the sewage matter so to fall or flow or to be carried shall not be deemed to have committed an offence against this Act if he shows to the satisfaction of the court having cognisance of the case that he is using the best practicable and available means to render harmless the sewage matter so falling or flowing or carried into the stream.

Where the Local Government Board are satisfied after local inquiry that further time ought to be granted to any sanitary authority, which at the date of the passing of this Act is discharging sewage matter into any stream, or permitting it to be so discharged, by any such channel as aforesaid, for the purpose of enabling such authority to adopt the best practicable and available means for rendering harmless such sewage matter, the Local Government Board may by order declare that this section shall not, so far as regards the discharge of sewage matter by such channel, be in operation until the expiration of a period to be limited in the order.

Any order made under this section may be from time to time renewed by the Local Government Board, subject to such conditions, if any, as they may see fit.

A person other than a sanitary authority shall not be guilty of an offence under this section in respect of the passing of sewage matter into a stream along a drain communicating with any sewer belonging to or under the control of any sanitary authority, provided he has the sanction of the sanitary authority for so doing.

See Rivers Pollution Act, 1893, p. 2241, infra, where this section is explained.

Knowingly permits.]—For interpretation of, see Yorkshire West Riding v. Holmfirth Urban Sanitary Authority, (1894) 2 Q. B. 842; 63 L. J. Q. B. 485.

PART III.

Law as to Manufacturing and Mining Pollutions.

4. Every person who causes to fall or flow or knowingly permits to fall or flow or to be carried into any stream any poisonous, noxious, or polluting liquid proceeding from any factory or manufacturing process shall (subject as in this Act mentioned) be deemed to have committed an offence against this Act. Prohibition as to drainage into streams from many factories.

Where any such poisonous, noxious, or polluting liquid as aforesaid falls or flows or is carried into any stream along a channel used, constructed, or in process of construction at the date of the passing of this Act, or any new channel constructed in substitution thereof, and having its outfall at the same spot, for the purpose of conveying such liquid, the person causing or knowingly permitting the poisonous, noxious, or polluting liquid so to fall or flow or to be carried shall not be deemed to have committed an offence against this Act if he shows to the satisfaction of the court having cognisance of the case that he is using the best practicable and reasonably available means to render harmless the poisonous, noxious, or polluting liquid so falling or flowing or carried into the stream.

As to "causing," see Southall Norwood District Council v. Middlesex C. C., (1901) 49 W. R. 376; Butterworth v. West Riding Rivers Board, (1909) A. C. 45; 78 L. J. K. B. 203; also Moses v. Midland Railway, (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 2181. As to responsibility, see Yorkshire (W. R.) Rivers Board v. Linthwaite Urban Council (No. 2), (1915) 84 L. J. K. B. 1610.

Local Sanitary Authority.]—Proceedings can be taken against . . under s. 4: West Riding of Yorkshire Rivers Board v. Linthwaite Urban District Council, (1915) 2 K. B. 436; 84 L. J. K. B. 793 (C. A. reversing Divisional Court).

Prohibition as to drainage into stream from mines.

5. Every person who causes to fall or flow or knowingly permits to fall or flow or to be carried into any stream any solid matter from any mine in such quantities as to prejudicially interfere with its due flow, or any poisonous, noxious, or polluting solid or liquid matter proceeding from any mine, other than water in the same condition as that in which it has been drained or raised from such mine, shall be deemed to have committed an offence against this Act, unless in the case of poisonous, noxious, or polluting matter he shows to the satisfaction of the court having cognisance of the case that he is using the best practicable and reasonably available means to render harmless the poisonous, noxious, or polluting matter so falling or flowing or carried into the stream.

Restriction on proceedings under this part of the Act.

6. Unless and until Parliament otherwise provides the following enactments shall take effect, proceedings shall not be taken against any person under this part of this Act save by a sanitary authority, (a) nor shall any such proceedings be taken without the consent of the Local Government Board: Provided always, that if the sanitary authority, on the application of any person interested alleging an offence to have been committed, shall refuse to take proceedings or apply for the consent by this section provided, the person so interested may apply to the Local Government Board, and if that board on inquiry is of opinion that the sanitary authority should take proceedings, they may direct the sanitary authority accordingly, who shall thereupon commence proceedings.

NOTE.—(a) See, where river is situated partly in England and partly in Scotland, 61 & 62 Vict. c. 34.

The said board in giving or withholding their consent shall have regard to the industrial interests involved in the case and to the circumstances and requirements of the locality.

The said board shall not give their consent to proceedings by the sanitary authority of any district which is the seat of any manufacturing industry, unless they are satisfied, after due inquiry, that means for rendering harmless the poisonous, noxious, or polluting liquids proceeding from the processes of such manufactures are reasonably practicable and available under all the circumstances of the case, and that no material injury will be inflicted by such proceedings on the interests of such industry. Section 6.

Any person within such district as aforesaid, against whom proceedings are proposed to be taken under this part of this Act, shall, notwithstanding any consent of the Local Government Board, be at liberty to object before the sanitary authority to such proceedings being taken, and such authority shall, if required in writing by such person, afford him an opportunity of being heard against such proceedings being taken, so far as the same relate to his works or manufacturing processes. The sanitary authority shall thereupon allow such person to be heard by himself, agents, and witnesses, and after inquiry such authority shall determine, having regard to all the considerations to which the Local Government Board are by this section directed to have regard, whether such proceedings as aforesaid shall or shall not be taken; and where any such sanitary authority has taken proceedings under this Act, it shall not be competent to other sanitary authorities to take proceedings under this Act till the party against whom such proceedings are intended shall have failed in reasonable time to carry out the order of any competent court under this Act.

PART IV.

Administration of Law.

Sanitary authority to afford facilities for factories draining into sewers.

7. Every sanitary or other local authority having sewers under their control shall give facilities for enabling manufacturers within their district to carry the liquids proceeding from their factories or manufacturing processes into such sewers:

Provided that this section shall not extend to compel any sanitary or other local authority to admit into their sewers any liquid which would prejudicially affect such sewers or the disposal by sale, application to land, or otherwise, of the sewage matter conveyed along such sewers, or which would from its temperature or otherwise be injurious in a sanitary point of view:

Provided also, that no sanitary authority shall be required to give such facilities as aforesaid where the sewers of such authority are only sufficient for the requirements of their district, nor where such facilities would interfere with any order of any court of competent jurisdiction respecting the sewage of such authority.

Where these Acts provide an appropriate remedy, the High Court will not interfere by a mandamus (Peebles v. Oswaldtwistle Urban District Council, (1897) 1 Q. B. 384; 66 L. J. Q. B. 106). As to acquired rights, see Eastwood v. Honley District Council, (1900) 1 Ch. 781; 69 L. J. Ch. 470.

Power of sanitary authority to enforce Act.

8. Every sanitary authority shall, subject to the restrictions in this Act contained, have power to enforce the provisions of this Act in relation to any stream being within or passing through or by any part of their district, and for that purpose to institute proceedings in respect of any offence against this Act which causes interference with the due flow within their district of any such stream, or the pollution within their district, of any such stream, against any other sanitary authority or person, whether such offence is committed within or without the district of the first-named sanitary authority.

Any expenses incurred by a sanitary authority in the execution of this Act shall be payable as if they were expenses properly incurred by that authority in the execution of the Public Health Act, 1875.

Proceedings may also, subject to the restrictions in this Act contained, be instituted in respect of any offence against this Act by any person aggrieved by the commission of such offence.

Power of Lee Conservancy Board to enforce Act.

9. The conservancy board constituted under the Lee Conservancy Act, 1868, shall, within the area of their jurisdiction, have, to the exclusion of any other authority, the powers for enforcing the provisions of this Act which sanitary authorities have under this Act.

The said conservancy board may also enforce the provisions of the Lee Conservancy Act, 1868, under the head or division "Protection of Water," by application to the county court having jurisdiction in the place in which any offence is committed against those provisions, and such court may by summary order require any person to abstain from the commission of any such offence, and the provisions of this Act with respect to summary orders of county courts and appeal therefrom shall apply accordingly.

Legal Proceedings. Saving Clauses. Definitions.

(1) Legal Proceedings.

Offences to be restrained by summary order of county court.

10. The county court having jurisdiction in the place where any offence against this Act is committed may by summary order require any person to abstain from the commission of such offence, and where such offence consists in default to perform a duty under this Act may require him to perform such duty in manner in the said order specified; the court may insert in any order such conditions as to time or mode of action as it may think just, and may suspend or rescind any order on such undertaking being given or condition being performed as it may think just, and generally may give such directions for carrying into effect any order as to the court seems meet. Previous to granting such order the court may, if it think fit, remit to skilled parties to report on the "best practicable and available means" and the nature and cost of the works and apparatus required, who shall in all cases take into consideration the reasonableness of the expense involved in their report.

Any person making default in complying with any requirement of an order of a county court made in pursuance of this section shall pay to the person complaining, or such other person as the court may direct, such sum, not exceeding fifty pounds a day for every day during which he is in default, as the court may order; and such penalty shall be enforced in the same manner as any debt adjudged to be due by the court; moreover, if any person so in default persists in disobeying any requirement of any such order for a period of not less than a month or such other period less than a month as may be prescribed by such order, the court may in addition to any penalty it may impose appoint any person or persons to carry into effect such order, and all expenses incurred by any such person or persons to such amount as may be allowed by the county court shall be deemed to be a debt due from the person in default to the person or persons executing such order, and may be recovered accordingly in the county court. Section 10.

See Staffordshire County Council v. Seisdon Rural District Council, (1907) 96 L. T. 328, as to test to be applied by county court judge when exercising his discretion.

11. If either party in any proceedings before the county court under this Act feels aggrieved by the decision of the court in point of law or on the merits, or in respect of the admission or rejection of any evidence, he may appeal from that decision to the High Court of Justice. Appeal from county court, and removal of case into High Court of Justice.

[The appeal shall be in the form of a special case to be agreed upon by both parties or their attorneys, and, if they cannot agree, to be settled by the judge of the county court upon the application of the parties or their attorneys.]

Now obsolete. The appeal must be by motion (Kirkheaton Local Board v. Ainley (C. A.), (1892) 2 Q. B. 274; 61 L. J. Q. B. 812).

The Court of Appeal may draw any inferences from the facts stated in the case that a jury might draw from facts stated by witnesses.

Subject to the provisions of this section, all the enactments, rules, and orders relating to proceedings in actions in county courts, and to enforcing judgments in county courts and appeals from decisions of the county court judges, and to the conditions of such appeals, and to the power of the superior courts on such appeals, shall apply to all proceedings under this Act, and to an appeal from such action, in the same manner as if such action and appeal related to a matter within the ordinary jurisdiction of the court.

Any plaint entered in a county court under this Act may be removed into the High Court of Justice by leave of any judge of the said High Court, if it appears to such judge desirable in the interests of justice that such case should be tried in the first instance in the High Court of Justice and not in a county court, and on such terms as to security for and payment of costs, and such other terms (if any) as such judge may think fit.

12. A certificate granted by an inspector of proper qualifications appointed for the purposes of this Act by the Local Government Board to the effect that the means used for rendering harmless any sewage matter or poisonous, noxious, or polluting solid or liquid matter falling or flowing or carried into any stream, are the best or only practicable and available means under the circumstances of the particular case, shall in all courts and in all proceedings under this Act be conclusive evidence of the fact; such certificate shall continue in force for a period to be named therein, not exceeding two years, and at the expiration of that period may be renewed for the like or any less period. Certificate of inspector of Local Government Board as to best practicable means.

All expenses incurred in or about obtaining a certificate under this section shall be paid by the applicant for the same.

Any person aggrieved by the grant or withholding of a certificate under this section may appeal to the Local Government Board against the decision of the inspector; and the board may either confirm, reverse, or modify his decision, and may make such order as to the party or parties by whom the costs of the appeal are to be borne as to the said board may appear just.

Restriction on proceedings for offences.

13. . . . . Nor shall proceedings in any case be taken under this Act for any offence against this Act until the expiration of two months after written notice of the intention to take such proceedings has been given to the offender, nor shall proceedings under this Act be taken for any offence against this Act while other proceedings in relation to such offence are pending.

The first part of this section was repealed by the S.L.R. Act, 1883.

This section does not apply to an order to enforce penalties for non-compliance with an existing order which had been made against defendants (Yorkshire (West Riding) Rivers Board v. Heckmondwike Urban District Council, (1914) W. N. 147).

Sects. 14 and 15 have no relation to county courts.

(2) Saving Clauses.

Powers of Act cumulative.

16. The powers given by this Act shall not be deemed to prejudice or affect any other rights or powers now existing or vested in any person or persons by Act of Parliament, law, or custom, and such other rights or powers may be exercised in the same manner as if this Act had not passed; and nothing in this Act shall legalise any act or default which would but for this Act be deemed to be a nuisance or otherwise contrary to law: Provided nevertheless, that in any proceedings for enforcing against any person such rights or powers the court before which such proceedings are pending shall take into consideration any certificate granted to such person under this Act.

Saving of rights of impounding and diverting water.

17. This Act shall not apply to affect the lawful exercise of any rights of impounding or diverting water.

See River Ribble Joint Committee v. Halliwell, (1899) 1 Q. B. 27; 68 L. J. Q. B. 20.

Saving of certain conservancy Acts.

18. Nothing in or done under this Act shall extend to interfere with, take away, abridge, or prejudicially affect any right, power, authority, jurisdiction, or privilege given by The Thames Conservancy Acts, 1857 and 1864, or by The Thames Navigation Act, 1866, or by the Lee Conservancy Act, 1868, or by any Act or Acts extending or amending the said Acts or either of them, or affect any outfall or other works of the Metropolitan Board of Works (although beyond the metropolis) executed under the Metropolis Management Act, 1855, and the Acts amending or extending the same, or take away, abridge, or prejudicially affect any right, power, authority, jurisdiction, or privilege of the Metropolitan Board of Works.

Saving of works of certain local authorities.

19. Where any local authority or any urban or rural sanitary authority has been empowered or required by any Act of Parliament to carry any sewage into the sea or any tidal waters, nothing done by such authority in pursuance of such enactment shall be deemed to be an offence against this Act.

THE SALE OF EXHAUSTED PARISH LANDS ACT, 1876.

Provision is by this Act made for the sale and disposal by order of the Local Government Board of parish lands such as exhausted gravel pits. Before issuing their order for sale the Local Government Board shall hear and decide upon every objection and claim made in writing by anyone claiming an interest in the land.

Jurisdiction is given under sect. 3, where there is any disputed claim, or where the person entitled to any interest therein is under legal disability, if the amount of the value in question does not exceed 50*l.*, for the county court to settle such dispute or make an order as to the proper disposal of such amount where there is no dispute; for matters in excess of 50*l.* parties must go to the High Court.

Practice is governed by Order L. r. 10 (post). The proceedings are to be, in case of a dispute, by action commenced by plaint and summons in the ordinary way against the person or authority in whom the land is vested, or in whose hands the purchase-money may be. No provision is made as to what county court has jurisdiction, hence sect. 74 of the County Courts Act of 1888, which regulates the court by the residence of the defendant, or the place where the land is situate, should be followed. In the case of a person under legal disability, by petition, asking for directions of the court as to disposal of purchase-money. The petition should be served on the person or authority holding the money.

Appeal from the county court will be as provided by sect. 120 of the County Courts Act, 1888, p. 123.

Sale of exhausted gravel pits wherein there are private or other interests.

1. Where land has been allotted to or otherwise acquired by a parish, whether in the name of the surveyor of highways or other trustees, or generally for the purpose of the supply of materials for the repair of the public roads and highways in such parish, and also for the repair of private roads therein, or for some other purpose, public or private, and the materials in such land shall be exhausted, or shall not be suitable or required, and the land shall not be available for such other purpose, if any, the same shall be dealt with as land which falls within the operation of the third section of the Union and Parish Property Act, 1835, and the Parish Property and Parish Debts Act, 1842, subject to the provisions hereinafter contained. Section 1.

2. Before issuing their order for the sale of the land, the Local Government Board shall hear and decide upon every objection and claim made in writing by any person claiming an interest therein, within three months from the passing of the resolution for the sale of the land, and shall either refuse to sanction the sale, or allow it to proceed, providing, if necessary, for the interest of every person establishing the same out of the purchase money. Local Government Board to hear and decide on objections and claims.

3. If there be disputed claims to any interest in the said land, or if the person entitled to such interest be under legal disability the board shall direct that proceedings may be taken in the High Court of Justice, or, where the amount of the value in question shall not exceed fifty pounds, in the county court, for the settlement of such dispute, or for the proper disposal of such amount where there is no such dispute. Disputed claims and interests of disabled persons

4. When the board shall see fit they may order that the land shall be offered to the owner or owners, as the case may be, of the adjoining land, at a price to be settled in such manner as the board shall deem most expedient, and if such owner or owners shall be willing to purchase the same at such price the same shall be sold to such owner or owners, and not otherwise; and the declaration of such owner or owners as to their willingness to purchase shall be given within a time to be appointed by the said board. Right of pre-emption by adjoining owner.

COUNTY COURT RULE. ORDER L. RULE 10.

10. Where the Local Government Board directs that proceedings may be taken under sect. 3 of the Sale of Exhausted Parish Lands Act, 1876, such proceedings may be taken as follows:— Proceedings under 39 & 40 Vict. c. 62, s. 3.

(a) If there are disputed claims to any interest in any land or the purchase money of any land, any person claiming any such interest may take proceedings by action commenced by plaint and summons in the ordinary way against the other persons claiming any interest, and the person or authority in whom such land is vested, or in whose hands such purchase money may be. Particulars of demand shall be filed in such action, stating concisely the relief or order which the plaintiff claims. The person or authority in whose hands such purchase money may be may at any time after service of the summons pay such purchase money into court, and thereupon further proceedings against such person or authority shall be stayed. The judge at the trial of the action shall decide upon the rights of the several persons claiming any interest in the land or purchase money, and shall make such order for the purpose of giving effect to such rights, and as to costs, as may be just.

Rule 10.

(b) If any person entitled to any interest in the purchase money of any land, where there is no dispute, is under legal disability, then

51 & 52 Vict. c. 43, s. 70.

(i.) the person or authority in whose hands such purchase money may be may pay the same into court under sect. 70 of the Act, in accordance with Rule 9 of Order XXXVIII., and that rule and the subsequent rules of that Order shall apply to the payment into court and subsequent disposal of such purchase money (a); or (ii.) a petition may be filed on behalf of the person under disability, asking for the directions of the court as to disposal of such purchase money. If such petition is filed, it shall be served on the person or authority in whose hands such purchase money may be, and the same procedure shall be followed and costs allowed as on any other petition to the court. The person or authority served with such petition may, at any time after service, pay the purchase money into court, and thereupon further proceedings against such person or authority will be stayed.

(a) For Rule 9 of Order XXXVIII., see p. 621.

THE SETTLED LAND ACTS, 1882, 1884, 1890.

[45 & 46 Vict. c. 38; 47 & 48 Vict. c. 18; 53 & 54 Vict. c. 69.]

For the most part, the powers conferred by these Acts are such as it was usual previously to insert in settlements of land. The powers of leasing had been usually conferred on the tenants for life in possession, but those of sale, exchange, and enfranchisement on trustees, at the request or with the consent of the tenant for life in possession.

Jurisdiction of the county court is by sect. 46, sub-s. 10, as regards land not exceeding in value 500*l.*, or in annual rateable value 30*l.*; as regards capital money and securities in which the same is invested, not exceeding 500*l.*; and as regards personal chattels settled or to be settled, 500*l.* It is suggested that although the wording of sect. 46, sub-s. 10, is not very clear, the jurisdiction of the county court is limited to cases where the value of the whole of the settled estate does not exceed 500*l.* (see sect. 68 of the County Courts Act, 1888, and Form 331).

Practice.]—The proceedings should be commenced by petition (see Order XXXVIII., p. 620, by which the practice is regulated). If during the course of the trial, the excess of jurisdiction appears on the evidence given, the judge ought not to strike the action or matter out, but he should do so if the want of jurisdiction appears on the petition itself (Birks v. Silverwood (1871) L. R. 14 Eq. 101; 41 L. J. Ch. 638; Thomson v. Flinn, (1881) L. R. 17 Eq. 415; 43 L. J. Ch. 256; sed quære if the other party consents (see sect. 114 of the County Courts Act, 1888)); the action or matter may be transferred to the High Court (see Rule 5 of the said Order, and Form 331).

Costs.]—Even where the subject-matter of proceedings does not exceed 20*l.* the judge may order costs to be taxed under column B (Order LIII. r. 12).

Section 2. Definitions.

2.—(8) The persons, if any, who are for the time being, under a settlement, trustees with power of sale of settled land, or with power of consent to or approval of the exercise of such a power of sale, or if under a settlement there are no such trustees, then the persons, if any, for the time being, who are by the settlement declared to be trustees thereof for purposes of this Act, are for purposes of this Act trustees of the settlement.

(v.) May enter into a contract for or relating to the execution of any improvement authorised by this Act, and may vary or rescind the same; and (vi.) May, in any other case, enter into a contract to do any act for carrying into effect any of the purposes of this Act, and may vary or rescind the same.

(2) Every contract shall be binding on and shall enure for the benefit of the settled land, and shall be enforceable against and by every successor in title for the time being of the tenant for life, and may be carried into effect by any such successor; but so that it may be varied or rescinded by any such successor, in the like case and manner, if any, as if it had been made by himself.

Cutting and sale of timber and part of proceeds to be set aside.

35.—(1) Where a tenant for life is impeachable for waste in respect of timber, and there is on the settled land timber ripe and fit for cutting, the tenant for life, on obtaining the consent of the trustees of the settlement or an order of the court, may cut and sell that timber, or any part thereof.

(2) The money arising by the sale shall be capital money arising under this Act, and shall be paid, invested, or applied and otherwise dealt with in like manner in all respects as by this Act directed with respect to other capital money arising under this Act, or may be invested in the purchase of other chattels, of the same or any other nature, which, when purchased, shall be settled and held on the same trusts, and shall devolve in the same manner as the chattels sold.

(2) But, in case of conflict between the provisions of a settlement and the provisions of this Act, relative to any matter in respect whereof the tenant for life exercises, or contracts or intends to exercise any power under this Act, the provisions of this Act shall prevail; and, accordingly, notwithstanding anything in the settlement, the consent of the tenant for life shall, by virtue of this Act, be necessary to the exercise by the trustees of the settlement or other person of any power conferred by the settlement exerciseable for any purpose provided for in this Act.

(3) If a question arises, or a doubt is entertained, respecting any matter within this section, the court may, on the application of the trustees of the settlement or of the tenant for life, or of any other person interested, give its decision, opinion, advice, or direction thereon.

Any reference in this Act to the predecessors or successors in title of the tenant for life, or to the remaindermen, or reversioners or other persons interested in the settled land, shall be deemed to refer to the persons interested in succession or otherwise in the money to arise from sale of the land, or the income of that money, or the income of the land, until sale (as the case may require).

Section 63.

(iii.) (iv.) (v.) An order under this section may be registered and re-registered, as a lis pendens, against the trustees of the settlement named in the order, describing them on the register as "Trustees for the purposes of the Settled Land Act, 1882."

The provisions of sect. 11 of the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1885, and of any enactment which may be substituted therefor, shall have effect as if the expression "working classes" included all classes of persons who earn their livelihood by wages or salaries: Provided that this sect. shall apply only to buildings of a rateable value not exceeding 100*l*. per annum.

NOTE.—By the Act immediately following the powers to sell, exchange and lease land for the purpose of the erection on such land of dwellings for the working classes were amended and extended.

THE HOUSING OF THE WORKING CLASSES ACT, 1890.

[53 & 54 VICT. C. 70.]

Amendment of 45 & 46 Vict. c. 38, as regards erection of buildings for working classes. [See 53 & 54 Vict. c. 69, s. 18.]

74.—(1) The Settled Land Act, 1882, shall be amended as follows:—

(a) Any sale, exchange, or lease of land in pursuance of the said Act, when made for the purpose of the erection on such land of dwellings for the working classes, may be made at such price, or for such consideration, or for such rent, as having regard to the said purpose, and to all the circumstances of the case, is the best that can be reasonably obtained, notwithstanding that a higher price, consideration, or rent might have been obtained if the land were sold, exchanged, or leased for another purpose.

(b) The improvements on which capital money may be expended enumerated in section twenty-five of the said Act, and referred to in section thirty of the said Act, shall, in addition to cottages for labourers, farm servants, and artizans, whether employed on the settled land or not, include any dwellings available for the working classes, the building of which in the opinion of the court is not injurious to the estate. Section 74.

(2) Any body corporate holding land may sell, exchange, or lease the land for the purpose of the erection of dwellings for the working classes at such price, or for such consideration, or for such rent as having regard to the said purpose and to all the circumstances of the case is the best that can reasonably be obtained, notwithstanding that a higher price, consideration, or rent might have been obtained if the land were sold, exchanged, or leased for another purpose.

NOTE.—As to sect. 75 of this Act and as to The Housing of the Working Classes Acts, 1903, see ante, p. 2063.

SMALL DWELLINGS ACQUISITION ACT, 1899.

This Act empowers the local authority for any area to advance money as specified in the Act to a resident in any house within the area to acquire the same (sect. 1, sub-s. 1). The local authority has power in certain events to take possession or without taking possession to order a sale of the house (sect. 3). Where the local authority takes possession, they are to pay either an agreed sum or a sum equal to the value of the owner's interest in the house after deducting the amount of the advance unpaid and interest (sect. 5).

Jurisdiction.]—The above-mentioned value, in the absence of a sale or in default of agreement, is to be settled by a county court judge as arbitrator, or if the Lord Chancellor so authorises, by a single arbitrator appointed by the county court judge (sect. 5 (2) (b)). Where the local authority may take possession of a house, possession may be recovered (whatever the value of the house) under sects. 138—145 of the County Courts Act, 1888, or under the Small Tenements Recovery Act, 1838 (sect. 5 (5)).

Practice.]—To any arbitration before the county court judge, or before an arbitrator appointed by him, the Arbitration Act, 1889, is to apply. In cases where possession is claimed, the local authority may recover as if it were the landlord and the proprietor of the house the tenant (see Part I. pp. 162—169, as to sects. 138—145, and recovery of tenements).

Conditions affecting house purchased by means of advance.

3.—(1) Where the ownership of a house has been acquired by means of an advance under this Act, the house shall, until such advance with interest has been fully paid, or the local authority have taken possession or ordered a sale under this Act, be held subject to the following conditions (in this Act referred to as the statutory conditions), that is to say:—

(a) Every sum for the time being due in respect of principal or of interest of the advance shall be punctually paid:

(b) The proprietor of the house shall reside in the house:

(c) The house shall be kept insured against fire to the satisfaction of the local authority, and the receipts for the premiums produced when required by them:

Section 3.

(d) The house shall be kept in good sanitary condition and good repair:

(e) The house shall not be used for the sale of intoxicating liquors, or in such a manner as to be a nuisance to adjacent houses:

(f) The local authority shall have power to enter the house by any person, authorised by them in writing for the purpose, at all reasonable times for the purpose of ascertaining whether the statutory conditions are complied with.

(2) The proprietor of the house may with the permission of the local authority (which shall not be unreasonably withheld) at any time transfer his interest in the house, but any such transfer shall be made subject to the statutory conditions.

(3) Where default is made in complying with the statutory condition as to residence, the local authority may take possession of the house, and where default is made in complying with any of the other statutory conditions, whether the statutory condition as to residence has or has not been complied with, the local authority may either take possession of the house, or order the sale of the house without taking possession.

(4) In the case of the breach of any condition other than that of punctual payment of the principal and interest of the advance, the authority shall, previously to taking possession or ordering a sale, by notice in writing delivered at the house and addressed to the proprietor, call on the proprietor to comply with the condition, and if the proprietor—

(a) within fourteen days after the delivery of the notice gives an undertaking in writing to the authority to comply with the notice; and shall not take possession or order a sale, as the case may be.

(5) In the case of the bankruptcy of the proprietor of the house, or in the case of a deceased proprietor's estate being administered in bankruptcy under section one hundred and twenty-five of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, the local authority may either take possession of the house or order the sale of the house without taking possession and shall do so except in pursuance of some arrangement to the contrary with the trustee in bankruptcy.

46 & 47 Vict. c. 52.

Recovery of possession and disposal of house.

5.—(1) Where a local authority take possession of a house, all the estate, right, interest, and claim of the proprietor in or to the house shall, subject as in this section mentioned, vest in and become the property of the local authority, and that authority may either retain the house under their own management or sell or otherwise dispose of it as they think expedient.

(2) Where a local authority take possession of a house, they shall, save as hereinafter mentioned, pay to the proprietor either—

(a) such sum as may be agreed upon; or

(b) a sum equal to the value of the interest in the house at the disposal of the local authority, after deducting therefrom the amount of the advance then remaining unpaid and any sum due for interest; and the said value, in the absence of a sale and in default of agreement, shall be settled by a county court judge as arbitrator, or if the Lord Chancellor so authorises, by a single arbitrator appointed by the county court judge, and the Arbitration Act, 1889, shall apply to any such arbitration. Section 5. 52 & 53 Vict. c. 49.

(3) The sum so payable to the proprietor if not paid within three months after the date of taking possession shall carry interest at the rate of three per cent. per annum from the date of taking possession.

(4) All costs of or incidental to the taking possession, sale, or other disposal of the house (including the costs of the arbitration, if any) incurred by the local authority, before the amount payable to the proprietor has been settled either by agreement or arbitration, shall be deducted from the amount otherwise payable to the proprietor.

(5) Where the local authority are entitled under this Act to take possession of a house, possession may be recovered (whatever may be the value of the house) by or on behalf of the local authority either under sections one hundred and thirty-eight to one hundred and forty-five of the County Courts Act, 1888, or under the Small Tenements Recovery Act, 1838, as in the cases therein provided for, and in either case may be recovered as if the local authority were the landlord and the proprietor of the house were the tenant. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43; 1 & 2 Vict. c. 74.

6.—(1) Where a local authority order the sale of a house without taking possession, they shall cause it to be put up for sale by auction, and out of the proceeds of sale retain any sum due to them on account of the interest or principal of the advance, and all costs, charges, and expenses properly incurred by them in or about the sale of the house, and pay over the balance (if any) to the proprietor. Procedure as to ordering sale.

(2) If the local authority are unable at the auction to sell the house for such a sum as will allow of the payment out of the proceeds of sale of the interest and principal of the advance then due to the authority, and the costs, charges, and expenses aforesaid, they may take possession of the house in manner provided by this Act, but shall not be liable to pay any sum to the proprietor.

7.—(1) An advance may be made to an applicant who intends to reside in a house, as if he were resident, if he undertakes to begin his residence therein within such period not exceeding six months from the date of the advance, as the local authority may fix, and in that case the statutory condition requiring residence shall be suspended during that period. Suspension of condition as to residence.

(2) The local authority may allow a proprietor to permit, by letting or otherwise, a house to be occupied as a furnished house by some other person during a period not exceeding four months in the whole in any twelve months, or during absence from the house in the performance of any duty arising from or incidental to any office, service, or employment held or undertaken by him, and the condition requiring residence shall be suspended while the permission continues.

(3) Where the proprietor of a house subject to statutory conditions dies, the condition requiring residence shall be suspended until the expiration of twelve months from the death, or any earlier date at which the personal representatives transfer the ownership or interest of the proprietor in the course of administration; and where the proprietor of any such house becomes bankrupt, or his estate is administered in bankruptcy under section one hundred and twenty-five of the Bankruptcy Act, 1883, and in either case an arrangement under this Act is made with the trustee in bankruptcy, the condition as to residence shall, if the local authority think fit, be suspended during the continuance of the arrangement.

SMALL HOLDINGS AND ALLOTMENTS ACT, 1908.

[8 Edw. VII. c. 36; and see 10 Edw. VII. & I Geo. V. c. 34.]

Under this Act (sect. 30 (1)) rent, and possession of allotment land may be recovered by the district council as landlords, in the like manner as in any other case of landlord and tenant. By sect. 30, sub-sect. 3, upon the recovery of an allotment from any tenant, the court directing the recovery may stay delivery of possession until payment of the compensation (if any) due to the outgoing tenant has been made, or secured to the satisfaction of the court.

See County Courts Act, 1888, sect. 138, and notes.

SOLICITORS ACT, 1860.

By this Act (sect. 26) the penalty of 50*l.* incurred by any person who acts as an attorney or solicitor without being legally qualified can be recovered in a county court.

The county court has also jurisdiction to enforce a solicitor's lien upon property recovered or preserved by proceedings taken in such court.

Practice.]—No special procedure.

Penalty for wrongfully acting as attorney or solicitor, 50*l.*

26. Every person who acts as an attorney or solicitor contrary to the enactment in section 2 of 6 & 7 Vict. c. 73, or who in his own name or in the name of any other person, in anywise acts as a proctor in or with respect to any proceeding in the court of probate or the court for divorce and matrimonial causes, without being duly qualified so to act, shall be deemed guilty of a contempt of the court in which the action, suit, cause, matter, or proceeding in relation to which he so acts is brought, had, or taken, and may be punished accordingly (a), and shall be incapable of maintaining any action or suit for any fee or reward for or in respect of anything done or any disbursement made by him in the course of so acting, and shall, in addition to any other penalty or forfeiture and to any disability to which he may be subject, forfeit and pay for every such offence the sum of 50*l.*, to be recovered, with full costs of suit, by action brought with the sanction of Her Majesty's Attorney-General, in the name of the incorporated law society, in any of the superior courts of law at Westminster, or in any county court, and such penalty shall be applied in like manner as fines imposed for practising without a stamped certificate are now by law applicable. Section 26.

28. In every case in which an attorney or solicitor shall be employed to prosecute or defend any suit, matter, or proceeding in any court of justice, it shall be lawful for the court or judge before whom any such suit, matter or proceeding has been heard, or shall be depending, to declare such attorney or solicitor entitled to a charge upon the property recovered or preserved, and upon such declaration being made such attorney or solicitor shall have a charge upon and against and a right to payment out of the property, of whatsoever nature, tenure, or kind the same may be, which shall have been recovered or preserved through the instrumentality of any such attorney or solicitor, for the taxed costs, charges, and expenses of or in reference to such suit, matter, or proceeding; and it shall be lawful for such court or judge to make such order or orders for taxation of and for raising and payment of such costs, charges, and expenses out of the said property as to such court or judge shall appear just and proper; and all conveyances and acts done to defeat, or which shall operate to defeat, such charge or right, shall, unless made to a bonâ fide purchaser for value without notice, be absolutely void and of no effect as against such charge or right: Provided always, that no such order shall be made by any such court or judge in any case in which the right to recover payment of such costs, charges, and expenses is barred by the Statute of Limitations. Power to Court of Justice to charge property recovered with payment of costs.

No solicitor's lien exists on property or things recovered by mere negotiation and without litigation (Meguerditchan v. Lightbound and Others, (1917) 1 K. B. 297; 86 L. J. K. B. 94. On appeal, (1917) 2 K. B. 298; 86 L. J. K. B. 889.

SOLICITORS ACT, 1870.

By this Act solicitors are enabled to make binding agreements in writing with their clients for remuneration for their services, either by payment of a gross sum or by commission or percentage, or by salary, or otherwise; but if the agreement is made in respect of litigious business, the amount is not recoverable until the agreement has been examined and allowed by the taxing-officer of a court having power to enforce the agreement.

Jurisdiction as to work done in a county court to whatever amount, is exclusive; and as to work done otherwise than in a county court is exclusive up to 50*l.* (sect. 8).

Disputes as to Agreements for Remuneration.]—No action may be brought upon any such agreement; but every question respecting its validity or effect may be examined and determined, and the agreement enforced or set aside without action, on motion or petition of any person, or the representative of any person, or party to such agreement, being or alleged to be liable to pay, or claiming to be entitled to be paid, the costs, fees, charges, or disbursements in respect of which the agreement is made, by the court in which the business, or any part thereof, was done, or a judge thereof, or if the business was not done in any court, then where the amount payable under the agreement exceeds 50*l.*, by the High Court, and where such amount does not exceed 50*l.*, by the county court which would have jurisdiction in an action upon the agreement (sect. 8).

Practice.]—An application under either sect. 8 or 10 must be by petition intituled in the matter of the Act and of the agreement; the same procedure shall be followed and costs allowed as in any other petition (see Order L. r. 4, post, p. 2261). As to procedure on petition, see Order XXXVIII. p. 620.

Interpretation of terms.

3. In the construction of this Act, unless where the context otherwise requires, the words following have the significations hereinafter respectively assigned to them; that is to say,

The words "attorney or solicitor" mean an attorney, solicitor, or proctor, qualified according to the provisions of the Acts for the time being in force, relating to the admission and qualification of attorneys, solicitors, or proctors:

"Person" includes a corporation:

"Client" includes any person who, as a principal or on behalf of another person, retains or employs, or is about to retain or employ, an attorney or solicitor, and any person who is or may be liable to pay the bill of an attorney or solicitor for any services, fees, costs, charges, or disbursements.

The Act does not apply to accounts between country solicitors and their London agents (Ward v. Eyre, (1880) 15 Ch. D. 130; 49 L. J. Ch. 657).

PART I.

Agreements between Attorneys or Solicitors and their Clients.

The remuneration of attorneys and solicitors may be fixed by agreement.

4. An attorney or solicitor may make an agreement in writing with his client respecting the amount and manner of payment for the whole or any part of any past or future services, fees, charges, or disbursements in respect of business done or to be done by such attorney or solicitor, whether as an attorney or solicitor or as an advocate or conveyancer, either by a gross sum, or by commission or percentage, or by salary or otherwise, and either at the same or at a greater or at a less rate as or than the rate at which he would otherwise be entitled to be remunerated, subject to the provisions and conditions in this part of this Act contained: Provided always, that when any such agreement shall be made in respect of business done or to be done in any action at law or suit in equity, the amount payable under the agreement shall not be received by the attorney or solicitor until the agreement has been examined and allowed by a taxing officer of a court having power to enforce the agreement; and if it shall appear to such taxing officer that the agreement is not fair and reasonable he may require the opinion of a court or a judge to be taken thereon by motion or petition, and such court or judge shall have power either to reduce the amount payable under the agreement or to order the agreement to be cancelled and the costs, fees, charges, and disbursements in respect of the business done to be taxed in the same manner as if no such agreement had been made.

Amount payable under agreement not to be paid until allowed by taxing officer.

An agreement as to a solicitor's costs in a police court or at quarter sessions may be examined and set aside (In re Jones, (C. A.) (1896) 1 Ch. 222; 65 L. J. Ch. 191); an agreement is binding though signed only by the client (In re Thompson, Ex parte Baylis, (1894) 1 Q. B. 462; 63 L. J. Q. B. 187). An agreement not to charge anything for costs is not within the Act and may be made by parol (Jennings v. Johnson, (1873) L. R. 8 C. P. 425); but an agreement not in writing by a client to pay a lump sum in discharge of past costs is not binding (In re Russell, (1885) 30 Ch. D. 114; 54 L. J. Ch. 948). A formal agreement is not necessary, but the document relied on must be an agreement, not a mere casual letter (Pontifex v. Farnham, (1892) 62 L. J. Q. B. 344). An agreement by which the solicitor is to receive what is equivalent to a tenth part of the property recovered is clearly void (In re Attorney and Solicitors Act, 1870, (1875) 1 Ch. D. 573; 45 L. J. Ch. 45; see also In re A Solicitor, (1912) 1 K. B. 302; 81 L. J. K. B. 245).

6. Such an agreement shall be deemed to exclude any further claim of the attorney or solicitor beyond the terms of the agreement in respect of any services, fees, charges or disbursements in relation to the conduct and completion of the business in reference to which the agreement is made, except such services, fees, charges, or disbursements, if any, as are expressly excepted by the agreement.

Reservation of responsibility for negligence.

7. A provision in any such agreement that the attorney or solicitor shall not be liable for negligence, or that he shall be relieved from any responsibility to which he would otherwise be subject as such attorney or solicitor, shall be wholly void.

Examination and enforcement of agreements.

8. No action or suit shall be brought or instituted upon any such agreement; but every question respecting the validity or effect of any such agreement may be examined and determined, and the agreement may be enforced or set aside, without suit or action, on motion or petition of any person, or the representative of any person, a party to such agreement, or being or alleged to be liable to pay, or being or claiming to be entitled to be paid, the costs, fees, charges, or disbursements in respect of which the agreement is made, by the court in which the business, or any part thereof, was done, or a judge thereof, or if the business was not done in any court, then where the amount payable under the agreement exceeds fifty pounds, by any superior court of law or equity or a judge thereof, and where such amount does not exceed fifty pounds, by the judge of a county court which would have jurisdiction in an action upon the agreement.

Sect. 8 does not apply to an action for damages for refusing to allow the solicitor to do the work, and earn the remuneration (Rees v. Williams, (1875) L. R. 10 Ex. 200; 44 L. J. Ex. 116). An appeal lies to a Divisional Court from the decision of a judge at chambers and not direct to the Court of Appeal, the matter not being one of "practice and procedure" within the meaning of the Supreme Court of Judicature (Procedure) Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. c. 16, s. 1, sub-s. 4) (In re Jackson, (1915) 1 K. B. 371; 84 L. J. K. B. 548).

Improper agreements may be set aside.

9. Upon any such motion or petition as aforesaid, if it shall appear to the court or judge that such agreement is in all respects fair and reasonable between the parties, the same may be enforced by such court or judge by rule or order in such manner and subject to such conditions, if any, as to the costs of such motion or petition as such court or judge may think fit; but if the terms of such agreement shall not be deemed by the court or judge to be fair and reasonable, the same may be declared void, and the court or judge shall thereupon have power to order such agreement to be given up to be cancelled, and may direct the costs, fees, charges, and disbursements incurred or chargeable in respect of the matters included therein to be taxed in the same manner and according to the same rules as if such agreement had not been made; and the court or judge may also make such order as to the costs of and relating to such motion or petition, and the proceedings thereon, as to the said court or judge may seem fit.

The agreement must be not only fair in the sense that it was understood by the client, but must also be reasonable in amount, having regard to the work done (In re Stuart, Ex parte Cathcart, (1893) 2 Q. B. 201; 63 L. J. Q. B. 623).

Agreements may be re-opened after payment in special cases.

10. When the amount agreed for under any such agreement has been paid by or on behalf of the client, or by any person chargeable with or entitled to pay the same, any court or judge having jurisdiction to examine and enforce such an agreement may, upon application by the person who has paid such amount, within twelve months after the payment thereof, if it appears to such court or judge that the special circumstances of the case require the agreement to be re-opened, re-open the same, and order the costs, fees, charges, and disbursements to be taxed, and the whole or any portion of the amount received by the attorney or solicitor to be repaid by him on such terms and conditions as to the court or judge may seem just.

Where any such agreement is made by the client in the capacity of guardian, or of trustee under a deed or will, or of committee of any person or persons whose estate or property will be chargeable with the amount payable under such agreement, or with any part of such amount, the agreement shall before payment be laid before the taxing officer of a court having jurisdiction to enforce the agreement, and such officer shall examine the same, and may disallow any part thereof, or may require the direction of the court or a judge to be taken thereon by motion or petition; and if in any such case the client pay the whole or any part of the amount payable under the agreement, without the previous allowance of such officer or court or judge as aforesaid, he shall be liable at any time to account to the person whose estate or property is charged with the amount paid, or with any part thereof for the amount so charged; and if in any such case the attorney or solicitor accept payment without such allowance, any court which would have had jurisdiction to enforce the agreement may, if it think fit, order him to refund the amount so received by him under the agreement.

Prohibition of certain stipulations.

11. Nothing in this Act contained shall be construed to give validity to any purchase by an attorney or solicitor of the interest, or any part of the interest, of his client in any suit, action, or other contentious proceeding to be brought or maintained, or to give validity to any agreement by which an attorney or solicitor retained or employed to prosecute any suit or action, stipulates for payment only in the event of success in such suit, action, or proceeding.

Not to give validity to contracts, &c., which may be void in bankruptcy.

12. Nothing in this Act contained shall give validity to any disposition, contract, settlement, conveyance, delivery, dealing, or transfer which may be void or invalid against a trustee or creditor in bankruptcy, arrangement, or composition, under the provisions of the laws relating to bankruptcy.

Section 13

Provision in case of death or incapacity of the attorney.

13. Where an attorney or solicitor has made an agreement with his client in pursuance of the provisions of this Act, and anything has been done by such attorney or solicitor under the agreement, and before the agreement has been completely performed by him, such attorney or solicitor dies or becomes incapable to act, an application may be made to any court which would have jurisdiction to examine and enforce the agreement by any party thereto, or by the representatives of any such party, and such court shall thereupon have the same power to enforce or set aside such agreement, so far as the same may have been acted upon, as if such death or incapacity had not happened; and such court, if it shall deem the agreement to be in all respects fair and reasonable, may order the amount due in respect of the past performance of the agreement to be ascertained by taxation, and the taxing officer in ascertaining such amount shall have regard so far as may be to the terms of the agreement, and payment of the amount found to be due may be enforced in the same manner as if the agreement had been completely performed by the attorney or solicitor.

As to change of attorney after agreement.

14. If, after any such agreement as aforesaid shall have been made, the client shall change his attorney or solicitor before the conclusion of the business to which such agreement shall relate (which he shall be at liberty to do notwithstanding such agreement), the attorney or solicitor, party to such agreement, shall be deemed to have become incapable to act under the same within the meaning of section thirteen of this Act; and upon any order being made for taxation of the amount due to such attorney or solicitor in respect of the past performance of such agreement, the court shall direct the taxing master to have regard to the circumstance under which such change of attorney or solicitor has taken place; and, upon such taxation, the attorney or solicitor shall not be deemed entitled to the full amount of the remuneration agreed to be paid to him unless it shall appear that there has been no default, negligence, improper delay, or other conduct on his part affording reasonable ground to the client for such change of attorney or solicitor.

Agreements shall be exempt from taxation.

15. Except as in this part of this Act provided, the bill of an attorney or solicitor for the amount due under an agreement made in pursuance of the provisions of this Act shall not be subject to any taxation, nor to the provisions of the Act of the sixth and seventh Victoria, chapter seventy-three, and the Acts amending the same respecting the signing and delivery of the bill of an attorney or solicitor.

COUNTY COURT RULES. ORDER L. RULE 4.

THE SOLICITORS ACT, 1870.

Applications under 33 & 34 Vict. c. 28, ss. 8, 10.

An application to the court under the Solicitors Act, 1870, shall be made by petition intituled in the matter of the Act and of the agreement, and the same procedure shall be followed and costs allowed as on any other petition to the court, regard being had to the amount of the subject-matter of the petition.

STANNARIES COURT (ABOLITION) ACT, 1896.

Transfer of Jurisdiction of Stannaries Court.]—By sect. 1 of this Act it is provided that the stannaries court is to cease to exist, except for the purpose of continuing and concluding pending proceedings, and that all the jurisdiction and powers of the court are (except as aforesaid) to be transferred to and vested in such of the county courts as the Lord Chancellor may by order direct, and are to be exercised subject to and in accordance with rules of court regulating the procedure in county courts (sub-s. 1).

County Court having Jurisdiction.]—By order of the Lord Chancellor the jurisdiction and powers have been transferred to the county courts of Cornwall; subject to special appointment the place of sitting of the judge is to be at Truro, of the registrar, at the court where proceedings may be commenced; pending proceedings were transferred to Truro (see Order, December 16th, 1896). References in any unrepealed statute to mines subject to the jurisdiction of the court of the vice-warden of the stannaries or within his cognizance are to be construed as applying to mines which would have been subject to the jurisdiction of that court if it had not been abolished (sect. 3).

Reference of Disputes to Arbitration.]—In the event of any dispute arising between (a) any two or more mining companies, or (b) any mining company and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales and Duke of Cornwall or any person having any estate or interest in the mine worked by or leased to that company, a judge of a county court exercising the jurisdiction of the stannaries court may, on the application of any party to the dispute, order the matter to be tried before himself, or before an arbitrator agreed upon by the parties, or an officer of the court; the Arbitration Act, 1889, is to apply to any such reference (sect. 4). The repeal effected by the schedule does not affect any proceedings pending in the court or any appeal from it pending at the commencement of the Act (sect. 5).

Nature of Jurisdiction.]—With respect to the jurisdiction so transferred, it is sufficient to say that the stannaries court exercised jurisdiction both in equity and at common law. Until comparatively recent years, its equity jurisdiction was confined to questions relating to tin mines, and its common law jurisdiction to suits between tin-miners, but by divers statutory enactments this jurisdiction was extended over all mines or setts of metallic minerals and also over mines or setts in which non-metallic, as well as metallic, minerals are worked for in the same mine (see Acts 1836 and 1855).

Equity Jurisdiction.]—The original equity jurisdiction of the court, though not strictly coterminous with the powers of the High Court, is believed to be an exclusive jurisdiction, and has been generally exercised for the purpose of enforcing the custom of cost-book; this jurisdiction has been at various times enlarged by statute. Hitherto, the county courts held within the district of the stannaries court have had no concurrent jurisdiction in equity cases within the jurisdiction of the latter court.

Common Law Jurisdiction.]—The common law jurisdiction of the court in personal actions is substantially concurrent with that of the ordinary courts of law, except that under various royal charters confirming its common law jurisdiction the court appears to have had exclusive jurisdiction over tinners actually working in the mines; otherwise the stannaries court and the county court have hitherto exercised concurrent jurisdiction in common law matters.

For information as to the stannaries court and its jurisdiction, see Batten on the Stannaries Act, 1869.

Practice is governed by Order LI. (post, p. 2268), which deals separately with matters within the limits of county court jurisdiction and actions and matters beyond such limits.

Winding-up.]—The stannaries court in the matter of a company for working mines within the stannaries, and not shown to be actually working mines, or to be engaged in any other undertaking beyond those limits, has no limit to its jurisdiction in winding-up matters (see Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908, ss. 130 (4), 280). In Dunbar v. Harvey, C. A., (1913) 2 Ch. 530; 82 L. J. Ch. 452; 109 L. T. 285, a partnership of two formed to work metalliferous mines in Cornwall held a company, and that the county courts of Cornwall now have exclusive jurisdiction to wind up such a company. So even though the memorandum did not limit the company to working in Cornwall (Radium Ore Mines, Ltd., C. A., (1913) 110 L. T. 57; 109 L. T. 707).

SUCCESSION DUTY ACT, 1853.

Jurisdiction.]—This statute gives the Crown certain duties on succession to property by death, and by sect. 44 declares what persons are accountable for the duty. Where any person accountable under this Act is dissatisfied with the assessment of the Commissioners, he may, by sect. 50, if the sum in dispute in respect of duty on such assessment does not exceed 50*l.*, appeal to a judge of the county court for the district in which the appellant is resident or the property is situate, and the judge has power to adjudicate upon it in the same manner as a High Court judge.

Notice of Appeal to County Court Judge.]—If any accountable person desires to appeal he must, within twenty-one days after the date of the assessment, give notice in writing to the Commissioners of his intention to appeal against the assessment; and within a further period of thirty days must furnish a statement of the grounds of such appeal (see sect. 50).

Practice.]—The appeal is by petition intituled in the matter of the Act and amending Acts, and in the matter of the particular succession; the service of and proceedings on the petition are regulated by Order XLII. r. 1, 5—9 and r. 11 (see ante, p. 2027). Poundage is estimated on the amount in dispute (see art. I.).

No appeal from County Court Judge is given by this statute. The appeal from the Commissioners is one to the judge, not to the county court.

50. It shall be lawful for any accountable party dissatisfied with the assessment of the Commissioners, upon giving, within twenty-one days after the date of such assessment, notice in writing to the Commissioners of his intention to appeal against such assessment, and a statement of the grounds of such appeal, such statement to be furnished within the further period of thirty days, to appeal by petition accordingly to Her Majesty's Court of Exchequer in England, Scotland, or Ireland, according to the place in which the appellant shall be resident; and every such court, or any judge thereof sitting in chambers, shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine the matter of such appeal and the costs thereof, with power to direct, for the purposes of such appeal, any inquiry, valuation, or report to be made by any officer of the court, or other person, as such court or judge may think fit: Provided, that where the sum in dispute in respect of duty on such assessment does not exceed fifty pounds, the accountable party may, having given notice of appeal and delivered a statement of the grounds thereof as hereinbefore directed, appeal to the judge of the county court in England, the sheriff court in Scotland, or the assistant barrister's court in Ireland, for the district, county or division in which the appellant shall be resident, or the property be situate; and every such judge shall have jurisdiction to hear and determine the matter of such last-mentioned appeal, with the like power and authority as are by this section given to a judge of Her Majesty's Court of Exchequer.

For Order XLII. rr. 5—9, 11, see pp. 2027—2028.

See also 55 & 56 Vict. c. 59, and 6 & 7 Geo. V. c. 40.

Jurisdiction.]—By sect. 4 of this Act, should any difference arise between the Postmaster-General and the authority having the control over streets and public roads, the difference must be referred to the police or stipendiary magistrate having jurisdiction within the district, and if there be no such magistrate, to the judge of the county court for the district.

Practice is governed by Order L. r. 11 (p. 2277), which points out how the application to the judge is to be initiated, and how it is to be prosecuted.

Appeal from the award of the judge lies to the Railway Commissioners; either party to the reference, if dissatisfied with the award, may, within twenty-one days, require that the difference be referred to the said Commissioners (sect. 4). Postmaster-General v. Hutchings, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1008.

In the National Telephone Co. v. Tunbridge Wells Corporation, (1901) 48 W. R. 686; 83 L. T. 525; (C. A.), 85 L. T. 368, it was held that a licensee from the Postmaster-General cannot exercise any powers under sect. 4 of the 1878 Act without the consent in London of the county council, and in any urban sanitary district outside London, of the urban sanitary authority and elsewhere of the county council, and that the licensee is subject to any terms and conditions which such authority may attach to its consent without appeal; and that prohibition will lie against a judge attempting to act as referee.

Differences relating to a street or public road to be determined by stipendiary magistrate, county court judge, or sheriff.

4. Where any difference (a) arises under this Act or the Telegraph Act, 1863, between the Postmaster-General and any body or person having any power, jurisdiction, or control over (b) or relating to a street or public road, or having power under the last-mentioned Act to give or withhold a consent to the placing of telegraphs and posts in, under, upon, along, or across a street or public road, such difference shall in England or Wales and Ireland be referred to the police or stipendiary magistrate having jurisdiction within the district in which the difference has arisen, or if there be no such magistrate, then to the judge of the county court having jurisdiction within such district, and in Scotland to the sheriff, and such magistrate, judge, and sheriff are respectively empowered and required to hear and determine such difference, and sections thirty to thirty-three, both inclusive, of the Regulation of Railways Act, 1868, shall apply to every difference so referred to such magistrate, judge, or sheriff (as the case may be) in like manner as if he were an arbitrator appointed pursuant to those sections, and as if the Postmaster-General, body, or person between whom the difference has arisen were companies within the meaning of those sections. 31 & 32 Vict. c. 119.

(b) An urban district council not being liable to repair the road, and which can require the frontagers to make it good under s. 150 of the Public Health Act, 1875, is not the body "having the control of" the road (Postmaster-General v. Hendon Urban District Council, (1914) 1 K. B. 564; 83 L. J. K. B. 618). See also Postmaster-General v. Hutchings, (1916) 85 L. J. K. B. 1008.

Provided always, that in case either the Postmaster-General or the body or person between whom the difference has arisen shall be dissatisfied with the award or decision of such magistrate, judge, or sheriff, the party so dissatisfied may within twenty-one days after such award or decision, require, by a notice in writing given to the other party, that the difference shall be referred to the Railway Commissioners.

COUNTY COURT RULES. ORDER L. RULE 11.

11.—(1) Any difference referred to the judge under sect. 4 of the Telegraph Act, 1878, may be so referred by either of the parties to the difference filing with the registrar an application to the judge to hear and determine such difference, which application shall be intituled in the matter of the Act and of the difference, and shall be entered and numbered and reckoned as a plaint. Applications under 41 & 42 Vict. c. 76, s. 4.

(2) Particulars shall be appended or annexed to the application, containing— Particulars and affidavit.

(a) a concise statement of the grounds on which the application is made, and of the relief or order which the applicant claims; and the application shall be supported by an affidavit setting forth the circumstances in which and the grounds on which the application is made.

(b) the full names and addresses of the respondents and of the applicant, and of his solicitor, if the proceedings are commenced through a solicitor;

(3) The applicant shall deliver to the registrar with the application, particulars, and affidavit, a copy thereof for the judge, and a copy for each respondent to be served. Copies for judge and respondents.

(4) On the filing of the application the registrar shall fix the hearing thereof before the judge for any court appointed to be held within twenty-eight days from the date of the application, but the date of hearing shall be so fixed as to allow the copies of the application, particulars, and affidavit to be served on the respondents ten clear days at least before the date so fixed. Fixing day of hearing by registrar.

(5) If there is no such court available, the registrar shall send notice of the application to the judge, who shall, as soon as conveniently may be, appoint a day for the hearing of the application. Such day shall be so fixed as to allow the copies of the application, particulars, and affidavit to be served on the respondents ten clear days at least before the date so fixed. Fixing day of hearing by judge.

(6) On the day for the hearing of the application being fixed, the registrar shall give or send by post notice in writing to the applicant, stating the place at which and the day and hour on and Notice to parties.

[Conf. Forms 419, 420.]

at which the application will be heard, and shall issue the copies of the application, particulars, and affidavit, under the seal of the court, for service on the respondents, together with notices signed by the registrar himself and under the seal of the court, stating the place at which and the day and hour on and at which the application will be heard, and that if the respondents do not attend in person or by their solicitors such order will be made and proceedings taken as the judge may think just and expedient.

Service on respondents.

(7) The copies and notices mentioned in the last preceding paragraph shall be served on each respondent ten clear days at least before the day fixed for the hearing, unless such respondent, or his solicitor on his behalf, agrees to accept shorter service.

By whom service may be effected.

(8) Such copies and notices may be served—

or, at the request of the applicant or his solicitor,

(b) by the applicant, or some clerk or servant in his permanent and exclusive employ; or

(c) by the applicant's solicitor, or a solicitor acting as agent for such solicitor, or some person in the employ of either of them.

Mode of service.

(9) Service may be effected either in accordance with the rules as to service of default summonses, or by registered post.

Where service effected otherwise than by bailiff.

(10) Where service is effected otherwise than by a bailiff, a copy of the document served, with the date and mode of service indorsed thereon, shall within three clear days next after the date of service, or such further time as may be allowed by the registrar of the court issuing such document, be delivered or transmitted to such registrar by the applicant or his solicitor. The applicant or his solicitor shall also deliver or transmit to the registrar an affidavit of the service of such document, according to the form in the Appendix, with such variations as the circumstances of the case may require.

Affidavits by respondents.

(11) Any affidavit intended to be used by any respondent on the hearing of the application shall be filed, and a copy thereof shall be served on the applicant four clear days at least before the hearing of the application, or, if short service of the notice of the application has been accepted, in such reasonable time before the hearing as the date of service will allow.

Attendance for cross-examination.

(12) A deponent to an affidavit shall on notice from the other side attend the hearing for cross-examination, and witnesses may be orally examined on hearing of the application in the same manner as on the hearing of an action.

Procedure on application.

(13) Subject to the provisions of sect. 4 of the Telegraph Act, 1878, and the enactments therein referred to, the procedure on an application shall be the same as the procedure in an action commenced in the court by plaint and summons in the ordinary way, and determined by the judge without a jury; and the statutory provisions and rules for the time being in force relating to such actions shall, with the necessary modifications, apply to such application accordingly; and in the application of such provisions and rules the application shall be deemed to be a summons with particulars annexed, the day fixed for proceeding with the application shall be deemed to be the return day, and the applicant and respondent shall be deemed to be plaintiff and defendant respectively.

(14) The award of the judge shall be prepared by the registrar and signed by the judge, and shall be sealed, filed, and served on all persons affected thereby, and shall be enforceable in the same manner as a judgment or order of the court. Rule 11. Award.

(15) The judge shall have power at any time to correct any clerical mistake or error in such award arising from any accidental slip or omission.

(16) Costs awarded by the judge shall be taxed on such scale as the judge shall direct, and in default of such direction shall be taxed under column B. Costs.

THE TENANTS' COMPENSATION ACT, 1890.

[53 & 54 Vict. c. 57.]

The only remaining operative section of this Act is sect. 2, which is repealed by the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1908, except so far as it relates to compensation under the Allotments and Cottage Gardens (Compensation for Crops) Act, 1887 (see p. 1764).

1. This Act shall be construed as one with the Allotments and Cottage Gardens Compensation for Crops Act, 1887 (in this Act referred to as the principal Act), and this Act may be cited as the Tenants' Compensation Act, 1890. Construction and short title.

2. Where a person occupies land under a contract of tenancy with the mortgagor, whether made before or after the passing of this Act, which is not binding on the mortgagee of such land, then— Compensation to tenants, when mortgagee in possession.

(1) The occupier shall, as against the mortgagee who takes possession, be entitled to any compensation which is, or would but for the mortgagee taking possession be due to the occupier from the mortgagor as respects crops, improvements, tillages, or other matters connected with the land, whether under the principal Act or the custom of the country, or agreements sanctioned by the principal Act;

Provided that any sum ascertained to be due to the occupier for such compensation or for any costs connected therewith, may be set off against any rent or other sum due from him in respect of the land, and recovered as compensation under the principal Act, but unless so set off shall, as against the mortgagee, be charged and recovered in accordance only with section thirty-one of the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1883, as if the mortgagee were the landlord within the meaning of that section.

(2) Before the mortgagee deprives the occupier of possession of the land otherwise than in accordance with the said contract, he shall give to the occupier six months' notice in writing of his intention so to deprive him, and if he so deprives him compensation shall be due to the occupier for his crops, and for any expenditure upon the land which he has made in the expectation of holding the land for the full term of his contract of tenancy, in so far as any improvement resulting therefrom is not exhausted at the time of his being so deprived, and such compensation shall be determined in like manner as compensation under the principal Act, and shall be set off, charged, and recovered in manner before provided in this section. This sub-section shall only apply where the said contract is for a tenancy from year to year or for a term of years not exceeding twenty-one, at a rack-rent.

[Sects. 3 and 4 are repealed by the Agricultural Holdings Act, 1908.]

THE TITHE ACT, 1891.

THE TITHE RENTCHARGE (RATES) ACT, 1899.

[62 & 63 VICT. C. 17.]

Jurisdiction Exclusive.]—Payment of tithe rentcharge can be enforced against the owner by proceedings in the county court, and in no other manner (sect. 2, sub-s. 1; R. v. Paterson, (1895) 1 Q. B. 31; 64 L. J. Q. B. 20). The court having jurisdiction is the court of the district in which the lands, or any part thereof, out of which the tithe rentcharge issues, are situate (Ib.).

To be paid by the Owner.]—By virtue of this Act tithe rentcharge is in all cases to be paid by the owner of the lands (sect. 1, sub-s. 1), if it becomes payable after the passing of the Act (sect. 10, sub-s. 1). Proceedings must be commenced within two years from the date on which it becomes payable, but not until it has been in arrear for not less than three months (sect. 2, sub-s. 1).

Contracts made after the Act for payment of tithe rentcharge by the occupier are void, as are contracts to reimburse the landlord money paid by him for tithe rentcharge (sect. 1, sub-s. 1; Ludlow v. Pike, (1904) 1 K. B. 531; 73 L. J. K. B. 274, followed in Tuff v. Guild of Drapers, (1913) 1 K. B. 40; 82 L. J. K. B. 174); subsisting contracts bind to this extent, that the occupier will be bound to repay to the owner the amount which he properly pays. The owner may in such case enforce the repayment by distress in accordance with the Tithe Act, 1836 (sect. 1, sub-s. 3).

Practice.]—To enforce payment the procedure is special, and is governed by the Act and rules. The tithe-owner must apply to the registrar, and file with him a notice of application with as many copies as there are persons to be served (Rule 2; Forms 1, 2, 3). The registrar must fix a day for the hearing, and cause one of the above copies and a prescribed notice to be served on the owner (Rule 4; Form 4). Service may apparently be made in one of the modes prescribed by Rules 44 to 50; and must be made at least ten clear days before the day appointed for the hearing (Rules 4, 54).

When Occupier liable to repay Owner.]—When the occupier is liable to repay the owner, in the cases before mentioned, the landowner is bound to give notice of such liability to the tithe-owner. If he fails to do so he cannot afterwards recover from the occupier without a special certificate from the court (sect. 2, sub-s. 6; Rules 36, 37, 38; Forms 28, 29, 30; see Hughes v. Rimmer, (1893) 2 Q. B. 314). If the occupier's liability notice has been served on the tithe-owner before he applies to the county court, he must file with his notice of application a copy of the occupier's liability notice (Rule 3).

The registrar must then cause the occupier to be served in the same manner as the landowner with a notice of application, and also with the prescribed notice.

If the tithe-owner is served with the occupier's liability notice after filing his application, he must file a copy with the registrar, who must then cause notices as aforesaid to be served on the occupier (Rule 6). If filed too late for ten days' notice to be given to the occupier, the registrar must appoint another day for the hearing, and give notice to the tithe-owner and the landowner (Rule 7; Form 7).

Limitation of Time.—Tithe rent charge is apparently "rent" within the meaning of the Rent Property Limitation Act, 1833 (3 & 4 Wm. IV. c. 27) and its recovery is barred if unpaid for sixty years (Asplen v. Pullin (1917) 86 L. J. K. B. 237.

When Owner of Lands Unknown.]—Where the tithe-owner states in his notice of application that he does not know the landowner, or if service cannot be effected by post on the person named as landowner, proceedings may be taken without naming him (sect 2, sub-s. 7; Rule 13).

Additional Service.]—If the tithe-owner states in his notice of application that additional service is required, it may be made as prescribed (Rules 14, 48).

Applications by Agents.]—The agent of the tithe-owner may apply on his behalf although not a solicitor. If required, he must prove his authority (sect. 5, sub-s. 1; Rule 12).

Notice of Opposition.—Order by Default.]—A respondent intending to oppose must, five clear days, at least, before the hearing, file a notice with the registrar, who must send notice to the applicant on the same day (Rules 5, 54; Forms 5, 6). If no notice is given, the court, after the expiration of the five days, unless the amount is paid into court, will make an order as hereinafter mentioned forthwith (Rules 8, 56); this order may, under the general or special directions of the judge, be made by the registrar (Rule 56).

Leave to Oppose.]—If the respondent files notice of opposition too late, but before an order has been made, the court may, on terms, give him leave to oppose, and fix a day for the hearing, notice of which must be given to all parties (Rule 9).

Hearing.—When no Appearance.]—If the respondent does not appear, the application may be granted without proof, but costs will be allowed as if he had appeared (Rule 10).

When Respondent Appears.]—If the respondent appears, the case will be heard in the ordinary way, and such evidence must be called and taken as is necessary (Rule 57). The proceeding not being commenced by plaint is a "matter," the evidence ought, it is believed, to be given vivâ voce.

Grounds of Opposition.]—Grounds of opposition not mentioned in the notice of opposition will not be entertained, except by consent, or by leave of the court, on such terms as it thinks fit (Rule 11).

Order.—Where Land not Occupied by Owner.]—If the lands are not occupied by the owner, the order must find the amount due, and appoint a receiver of the rents and profits (sect. 2, sub-ss. 1, 3; Form 8).

If it appears that the lands are held at one rent together with lands in another parish, the court must apportion it. Notice must be given by the registrar, and then objections to the apportionment may be made to and heard by the court (Rules 25, 26, 27, 28; Forms 18 to 21).

The person appointed receiver must, in the absence of special reason to the contrary, be the person, if any, named by the applicant in his notice of application. If none is named, or the court does not appoint him, the court must appoint a fit and proper person (Rule 17).

When Lands Occupied by Owner.]—If the lands, i.e., the whole of the lands (Ecclesiastical Commissioners v. Upjohn, (1913) 1 K. B. 501; 82 L. J. K. B. 435) are occupied by the owner, the court, instead of appointing a receiver, must appoint an officer to distrain in accordance with sect. 85 of the Tithe Act, 1836 (sect. 2, sub-s. 2; Form 9). If he finds that there is not sufficient distress, he must report to the applicant and to the court. The applicant's remedy will then be under sect. 82 of the Tithe Act, 1836 (sect. 2, sub-s. 2; Rule 24; Form 17).

When the fact that the owner is occupier is discovered by a receiver after appointment he must report the fact to the court (Form 12). The court may then appoint an officer to distrain as above. The receiver must be appointed, unless for special reason the court otherwise orders. The order must be suspended for at least ten days (Rule 23; Form 13).

Notice of the order must be given to the alleged owner, and he may, by notice filed with the registrar within the period of suspension, object to the order. The registrar must then fix a day for the hearing of the objection, and give notice to the owner. He must also suspend the order until the hearing (Rule 23; Forms 14, 15, 16).

When Lands let at Insufficient Rent.]—If the receiver discovers that the lands are let at such a rent as will not enable him to recover the requisite sum from the occupier, he must make a report to the court (Rule 29). The court, if satisfied that there is a primâ facie case, may give notices to owner and occupier to appear in not less than ten clear days (Rule 30).

On the return-day the court may appoint an officer to distrain. The receiver must be appointed in the absence of any special reasons (Rule 31).

Receivers.—Security.]—Any receiver, not a permanent officer of the court, must give such security, if any, as the court directs (Rule 17). Subject to the special rules, the court will have the same power over receivers as in ordinary cases, but the court may not order a sale of land (sect. 2, sub-s. 4).

Moneys received by the receiver must be paid into court after certain deductions (Rule 21), and the registrar must pay them out to the applicant until his claim is satisfied (Rule 22).

The receiver must give notice to the occupier of his appointment, and if the occupier refuses to attorn to him, may obtain an order from the court authorising him to distrain in the name of the owner (Rule 18; Forms 10, 11).

Remission of Tithe.]—Where the court is satisfied that if the sum claimed for tithe is paid, the total amount paid for twelve months will exceed two-thirds of the annual value of the lands, it must order the remission of the excess, and it will not then be recoverable. This provision applies only to lands used solely for agricultural or pastoral purposes, or for the growth of timber or underwood (sect. 8; Forms 26, 27).

Recovery of Rates on Tithes.]—If the ordinary methods of recovery of rates on tithes fail, the collector may apply to the court for an order for payment by the owner of the land out of the tithe payable by him. The order may be enforced by appointment of a receiver or of an officer to distrain, as the case may be (sect. 6; Rules 40, 41; Form 35).

Redemption Money.]—Sect. 10, sub-s. 4, of the Act applies to redemption money, and therefore the county court has, under sect. 2, jurisdiction to make an order for the recovery of the consideration money and expenses incident on the redemption of tithes (Reg. v. Paterson, (1895) 1 Q. B. 31; 64 L. J. Q. B. 20).

Appeal.]—An appeal lies to the High Court in the same manner as in other cases for error in point of law or equity, or in the admission or rejection of evidence. The right of appeal is not limited by any condition as to amount, and is conferred upon "any party in any action or matter under the Act," who is aggrieved (see sect. 120, County Courts Act, 1888, and sect. 7, post, p. 2286).

Costs and Fees.]—No costs of solicitor or witness will be allowed where the amount claimed is paid without further proceedings. As to costs, see sect. 5, sub-s. 2; Rules 42, 43, 52; fees may not exceed those named in the schedule to the Act; fees, charges, and expenses incidental to any distress under the Act are the same as are payable under the Law of Distress Amendment Act, 1888 (see ante, pp. 2017—2018).

All costs must be paid by or apportioned between the parties as the court thinks just (Rule 42); costs must be taxed by the registrar, and subject to the Act and rules, the ordinary scales as well as allowances to witnesses will have effect (Rule 43).

54 & 55 VICT. c. 8.

Liability of owner to pay tithe rentcharge, and modification of contracts with tenants

1.—(1) Tithe rentcharge as defined by this Act issuing out of any lands shall be payable by the owner of the lands, notwithstanding any contract between him and the occupier of such lands, and any contract made between an occupier and owner of lands, after the passing of this Act, for the payment of the tithe rentcharge by the occupier shall be void.

(2) Where the occupier is liable under any contract made before the passing of this Act to pay the tithe rentcharge, then he shall cease to be bound by that part of his contract, but he shall be liable to pay to the owner such sum as the owner has properly paid on account of the tithe rentcharge which such occupier is liable under his said contract to pay, exclusive of any costs incurred or paid by the owner in respect of such tithe rentcharge, and every receipt given for such sum shall state expressly that the sum paid is in respect of that tithe rentcharge: Provided that where the lands, out of which any tithe rentcharge issues, are occupied by several occupiers who have contracted to pay the tithe rentcharge, any of such occupiers shall be liable only to pay such proportion of the sum paid by the owner of the lands on account of that tithe rentcharge as the rateable value of the lands occupied by him bears to the rateable value of the whole of the lands occupied by such occupiers.

(3) Such sum shall be recoverable from the occupier by distress in like manner as is provided by sections eighty-one and eighty-five of the Act of the session of the sixth and seventh years of the reign of King William the Fourth, chapter seventy-one, and the enactments amending those sections, and not otherwise.

Recovery of tithe rentcharge through county court.

2.—(1) Where any sum due on account of tithe rentcharge issuing out of any lands is in arrear for not less than three months, the person entitled to such sum may, whatever is the amount, apply to the county court of the district in which the lands or any part thereof are situate, and the county court, after such service on the owner of the lands as may be prescribed, and after hearing such owner if he appears and desires to be heard, may order that the said sum, or such part thereof as appears to the court to be due, be, together with the costs, recovered in manner provided by this Act, and tithe rentcharge as defined by this Act shall not be recovered in any other manner.

(2) Where it is shown to the court that the lands are occupied by the owner thereof, the order shall be executed by the appointment by the court of an officer who, subject to the direction of the court, shall have the like powers of distraint for the recovery of the sum ordered to be paid as are conferred by the Tithe Acts on the owner of a tithe rentcharge for the recovery of arrears of tithe rentcharge, and no greater or other powers; and if there is no sufficient distress the person entitled to the sum ordered to be recovered may proceed to obtain possession of the lands under section eighty-two of the Tithe Act, 1836.

6 & 7 Will. IV. c. 71

This sub-section applies only when the owner is in occupation of the whole of the lands (Ecclesiastical Commissioners v. Upjohn, (1913) 1 K. B. 501; 82 L. J. K. B. 435).

(3) In any other case the order shall be executed by the appointment by the court of a receiver of the rents and profits of the lands, and of any other lands which would be liable to be distrained upon for the tithe rentcharge to which the order refers under the provisions of section eighty-five of the Tithe Act, 1836, and where any of such lands are held at one rent together with other lands in another parish, the court shall apportion the rent between the said lands and the lands in the other parish in proportion to their rateable value, in which case the payment of such apportioned rent by the occupier to the receiver shall in every respect, as between the occupier and the owner of the lands, be deemed to be a payment on account of the total rent payable to the owner of such lands.

(4) Subject to the prescribed regulations, the county court shall have the same powers over receivers as in any other case, and may confer on the person appointed receiver any powers which the court can confer upon persons appointed receivers, but the court shall not have power to order the sale of lands.

(5) Any sum ordered by the court under this section to be recovered shall be payable by a trustee in bankruptcy, sheriff, or officer of a court who is in possession of the lands, in like manner as if it were tithe rentcharge recoverable under the Tithe Acts.

(6) Where the occupier of the lands out of which the tithe rentcharge issues is liable under any contract made before the passing of this Act to pay the tithe rentcharge, and is consequently liable by virtue of this Act to pay the amount thereof to the owner of the lands, the owner of the lands shall serve notice of such liability on the owner of the tithe rentcharge, and thereupon, before an order under this section is made, there shall be such service on the occupier in addition to the owner as may be prescribed, and a hearing of such occupier if he appears and desires to be heard. Any owner of the lands who fails to serve such notice as aforesaid on the owner of the tithe rentcharge, shall not be entitled to recover from the occupier any sum which he has paid on account of tithe rentcharge as aforesaid, unless and until he has, after notice to the occupier of his application for the same, obtained from the county court a certificate that there was good and sufficient cause for the failure to give such notice, and that the occupier has not been prejudiced thereby.

(7) Rules under this Act may regulate the procedure, practice and costs under this Act in county courts, and may direct what service shall be good service for the purposes of this Act on the owner or occupier of any lands or the owner of any tithe rentcharge, and may provide that, if the owner of any lands is not known, any proceeding under this Act may be taken against the owner of the lands without naming the person who is the owner.

(8) The fees payable on the proceedings under this section shall not exceed those set forth in the schedule to this Act, and the fees, charges, and expenses in or incidental to any distress under this Act shall be the same as are for the time being payable under the Law of Distress Amendment Act, 1888. Section 2.

(9) Nothing in this Act shall impose or constitute any personal liability upon any occupier or owner of lands for the payment of any tithe rentcharge, or any other sum recoverable or payable under this Act, and the court shall not, by virtue of this Act, or of the County Courts Act, 1888, have any power to imprison any such occupier or owner by reason only of the non-payment of such tithe rentcharge or other sum, and shall in any other case have no other or greater powers of fine or imprisonment than are conferred by the County Courts Act, 1888. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 21. 51 & 52 Vict. c. 43.

3.—(1) The Lord Chancellor may, after consultation with the rule committee of county court judges, make rules for carrying this Act into effect, and for regulating, providing, and prescribing any matter authorised by this Act to be regulated, provided, or prescribed by rules under this Act. In framing such rules regard shall be had to making the procedure as simple and inexpensive as is practicable. Rules.

(2) Every rule under this Act shall be laid before each House of Parliament within forty days next after it is made, if Parliament is then sitting, or, if not, within forty days after the commencement of the then next ensuing session, and if an address is presented to Her Majesty by either House of Parliament within the next subsequent forty days on which the said House shall have sat, praying that any such rule may be annulled, Her Majesty may thereupon, by Order in Council, annul the same; and the rule so annulled shall thenceforth become void and of no effect, but without prejudice to the validity of any proceedings which may in the meantime have been taken under the same.

4. Where a receiver appointed under this Act of the rents and profits of any lands satisfies the county court that the lands are let on such terms as not to reserve a rent sufficient to enable the receiver to recover from the owner thereof the sum ordered to be recovered, the court, after such service on the owner and occupier of the lands as may be prescribed, and after hearing such owner and occupier if they appear and desire to be heard, may direct that the order for such recovery shall be executed as if the occupier were the owner of the lands: Provided that any such occupier shall be entitled in addition to any other remedy, unless he would have been liable to pay the tithe rentcharge under any contract made before the passing of this Act, to deduct from any sums at any time becoming due from him to the landlord under whom he holds, any amount which shall have been recovered from him under this section in respect of tithe rentcharge or costs, with interest thereon at the rate of four per centum per annum: Provided further, that such occupier shall be entitled, notwithstanding anything in this Act, to recover from such landlord by action at law any such amount which shall have been recovered from him under this section as aforesaid as money paid on the account of such landlord. Lands occupied rent free, etc.

5.—(1) An application to a county court for an order under this Act may be made on behalf of the tithe-owner by his agent, although not a solicitor. Restrictions as to costs.

Section 5.

(2) On any application to a county court for an order under this Act, no costs either of a solicitor or of a witness shall be allowed in any case where the amount claimed is paid without further proceedings, nor where notice of intention to apply for time to pay the tithe-owner's claim has been given (except in cases where costs could be allowed by the court on a judgment summons), and when notice of opposition has been given within the prescribed time, the costs of a solicitor shall only be allowed for work done subsequent to the notice.

Rating of owner of tithe rent-charge.

6.—(1) Any rate to which tithe rentcharge is subject shall be assessed on and may be recovered from the owner of the tithe rentcharge, in the like manner and by the like process as on and from any occupying ratepayer; and so much of any Act as authorises any rate on tithe rentcharge to be assessed on or recovered from the occupier of any lands out of which the tithe rentcharge issues is hereby repealed (a).

(2) If the collector of the rate satisfies the county court that he is unable to recover in manner aforesaid any rate assessed on the owner of any tithe rentcharge, the court may, after such service on the owners of the tithe rentcharge, and of the lands out of which the tithe rentcharge issues, as may be prescribed, and after hearing such owners, if they appear and desire to be heard, order the owner of the lands to pay such tithe rentcharge to the collector until the amount of the rate, and any costs allowed by the court, are fully paid; and the order may be executed as if it were an order under this Act for the payment of a sum due on account of the tithe rentcharge.

(3) The court may, if satisfied that the circumstances justify it, make such order as aforesaid in respect of any future rate, either generally or during the time limited by the order.

(4) The expression "rate" in this section means a poor rate, highway rate, general district rate, borough rate, and every other rate assessed on an owner of tithe rentcharge by a public authority for public purposes; and the expression "collector" means the overseer, surveyor of highways, rate-collector, or other person authorised, for the time being, to collect the rate.

Power of appeal.

7. If any party in any action or matter under this Act shall be dissatisfied with the determination or direction of the judge of the county court in point of law or equity, or upon the admission or rejection of any evidence, the party aggrieved by the judgment, direction, decision, or order of the judge may appeal from the same to the High Court, in such manner and subject to such conditions as may be for the time being provided by the rules of the Supreme Court regulating the procedure on appeals from inferior courts to the High Court.

Remission of tithe rent-charge when exceeding two-thirds

8.—(1) Where a sum is claimed on account of tithe rentcharge issuing out of any lands, and the county court is satisfied that, if the sum claimed is paid, the total amount paid on account of the tithe rentcharge for the period of twelve months next preceding

(a) By the Tithe Rentcharge (Rates) Act, 1899 (62 & 63 Vict. c. 17), s. 1, the owner of tithe rent-charge attached to a benefice is liable to pay only one half of any rate to which the Act applies, which is assessed on him as owner of that tithe rent-charge, the other half to be paid by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue.

Section 8.

the day on which the sum claimed became payable, will exceed two-thirds of the annual value of the lands as ascertained and entered in the assessment for the purpose of Schedule B. to the Income Tax Act, 1853, or as certified as herein-after mentioned, the court shall order the remission of so much, whether the whole or part of the sum claimed, as is equal to the excess, and the amount so ordered to be remitted shall not be recoverable; and if the court is satisfied that neither such remission, nor the liability thereto, has been taken into account in estimating the rateable value of the tithe rentcharge, the court may remit such amount of any then current rate assessed on the owner of the tithe rentcharge as appears to the court to be proportionate to the amount of the remission of tithe rentcharge.

16 & 17 Vict. c. 34.

(2) Where the lands out of which any tithe rentcharge issues are assessed for the purposes of the said Schedule B. together with other lands, the surveyor of taxes for the parish in which the lands are so assessed, on the application of the owner or occupier of the lands, shall divide the annual value in such assessment between the lands out of which any tithe rentcharge issues and the other lands, and give notice of the annual value of the lands as determined on such division to the applicant and to the owner of the tithe rentcharge; and if either of them is dissatisfied with the annual value so determined, he may appeal to the general commissioners of income tax for the division in which the lands are assessed, and those commissioners, after due notice to and hearing the parties or their agents if any of them wishes to be so heard, shall finally determine the proper division of the annual value; and the annual value of lands so determined as aforesaid shall, for the purposes of this section, be the annual value of the lands as ascertained for the purpose of the said Schedule B.

(3) For the purposes of this section the owner of tithe rentcharge shall have the same right of appeal as the owner of lands, whether under the enactments relating to the said assessment or under this section.

(4) If in any case the annual value of any lands is not ascertained and entered in the assessment for the purpose of the said Schedule B., the general commissioners of income tax for the division in which the lands are situate shall, on the application of the owner or occupier of the lands, ascertain the annual value of the lands for the purpose of the said Schedule B., and inform the applicant of the same.

(5) The commissioners of taxes shall on demand and payment of one shilling give a certificate of the amount of the annual value of any lands under this section.

(6) Where it appears from any award that a special apportionment has been made in pursuance of section fifty-eight of the Tithe Act, 1836, whereby tithe rentcharge has been charged specially upon certain closes of land in different proportions, and to the exclusion of certain of them, the court shall not grant a remission under this section unless satisfied that the applicant would have been entitled to such remission if no such special apportionment had been made.

6 & 7 Will. IV. c. 71.

(7) Where two or more tithe rentcharges issue out of the same lands, and a remission of tithe rentcharge has been made by a county court under this section, the amount paid by the owner of the lands on account of tithe rentcharge shall be divided between the owners of such tithe rentcharges in proportion to the amount thereof as fixed by the apportionment or any altered apportionment.

(8) This section shall not apply to any lands other than those used solely for agricultural or pastoral purposes or for the growth of timber or underwood.

(Power derived from Section 3 of this Act.)

Dated April, 1891.

1. The following rules may be cited as "The Tithe Rentcharge Recovery Rules, 1891," and shall apply so far as may be practicable to all proceedings under the Tithe Act, 1891 (in these rules referred to as the Act). Short title.

Procedure on Application for Recovery of Tithe Rentcharge.

2. A person claiming to be entitled to a sum due on account of tithe rentcharge, who desires to obtain an order of court for the recovery thereof, in these rules called the applicant, shall file with the registrar of the court a notice of application according to the form in the Appendix which is applicable to the case, and as many duplicates or copies thereof as there may be persons to be served therewith. Application for order for recovery. Forms 1, 2, 3.

Rule 2. No proceedings shall be invalid by reason only that the applicant has filed a notice of application according to one of the forms in the Appendix and that form proves not to be the form applicable to the case.

Filing by applicant of occupier's liability notice.

3. Where a notice under sub-section 6 of section 2 of the Act, that the occupier of the lands is liable to pay the amount of the tithe rentcharge to the owner of the lands (in these rules called an occupier's liability notice) has been served before the notice of application has been filed the applicant shall on filing his notice of application file at the same time a copy of the occupier's liability notice.

Service of notice of application. Form 4.

4. The registrar of the court shall appoint a day for the hearing of the application, and shall cause to be served on the owner of the lands out of which the tithe rentcharge issues, and, where an occupier's liability notice has been filed, on that occupier, one of the notices of application together with a notice according to the form in the Appendix. The service shall be made at least ten clear days before the day appointed for the hearing of the application.

Any owner and any occupier of lands on whom a notice of application is to be served is in these rules referred to as a respondent.

Notice of opposition. Form 5. Form 6.

5. A respondent desirous of opposing an application shall, at least five clear days before the day appointed for the hearing, file with the registrar of the court notice of his opposition according to the form in the Appendix, and the registrar shall on the same day send notice thereof to the applicant according to the form in the Appendix.

Filing of occupier's liability notice where served after notice of application.

6. Where an applicant is served with an occupier's liability notice, after he has filed a notice of the application and before an order has been made he shall file a copy of the notice with the registrar as soon as possible after the receipt thereof, and the registrar shall thereupon cause a notice of the application to be served on the occupier as hereinbefore provided.

Change of day fixed for hearing on service of occupier's liability notice after application. Form 7.

7. Where a copy of an occupier's liability notice has been filed with the registrar so short a time before the day originally appointed for the hearing that the ten clear days' notice required by these rules cannot be given to the occupier of the lands, then the registrar shall appoint another day for the hearing in lieu of that originally appointed, and shall name that day in his notice to the occupier, and give notice of the change of day to the applicant and the owner of the lands.

Order made without hearing where no notice of opposition. See Forms 8 and 9.

8. Where no notice of opposition is given, the court will, after the expiration of five clear days from the time limited for giving such notice, unless before that time the amount ordered to be recovered is paid into court, make an order without a hearing, either appointing a receiver, or, if the applicant has stated in his notice of application that the lands are occupied by the owner thereof, appointing an officer of the court to distrain.

Notice of opposition out of time.

9. Where a respondent files notice of opposition after the time limited by these rules for such notice, but before an order is made by the court, the court may allow that respondent an opportunity of being heard on such terms as to payment into court or otherwise as the court thinks fit; and in that case the court shall appoint a day for the hearing, and cause notice to be given to the applicant and the respondent of the day so appointed. Rule 9.

10. Where notice of opposition has been given but no respondent appears at the hearing of the application, the application may be forthwith granted without proof of the applicant's title to the tithe rentcharge claimed, but the same costs of solicitors and witnesses shall be allowed as if a respondent had appeared. Order where no appearance after giving notice of opposition.

11. A ground of opposition not mentioned in the notice of opposition shall not be entertained by the court except with the consent of the applicant, or by the leave of the court, and the court may grant that leave on such terms as to adjournment, payment of costs, or otherwise as the court thinks fit. Grounds of opposition not entertained unless mentioned in notice.

12. Where a notice of application is filed with the registrar by anyone as agent for a person claiming to be entitled to a sum due on account of the rentcharge, that agent shall, if required, produce a written authority from the person so claiming, or satisfy the registrar that he has general authority to collect tithe rentcharge on behalf of such person. Proof of authority by agent making application.

13. Where the applicant states in his notice of application that he does not know, or cannot ascertain, the owner of the lands, or where it is found that service on the person named in the application as owner of the lands cannot be effected by post as hereinafter provided, any proceeding under the Act may be taken against the owner of the lands without naming him, and notices and documents may be served accordingly. Proceedings against owner of lands without naming him.

14. Where an applicant in his notice of application states his desire that in addition to service on the person named in the notice of application as owner of the lands there shall also be service on the owner of the lands, through the occupier or through the person receiving the rents and profits of the lands for or on behalf of the owner, and states the name of the occupier or person, then such additional service shall be made as in these rules provided, and such service shall be deemed to be good service on the owner of the lands, though the person named in the application as owner of the lands is not such owner. Additional service when desired by applicant.

Provisions as to Receiver.

15. The appointment of a receiver shall extend to any other land, which would be liable to be distrained upon for the tithe rentcharge to which the order refers under section eighty-five of the Tithe Act, 1836. Appointment of receiver. See Form 8.

16. An applicant may in his notice of application specify, by their names and situation or other sufficient description, the lands which would be liable to be distrained on under the said section eighty-five other than those out of which the tithe rentcharge issues, and in that case the lands so specified shall be added to the schedule to the order appointing a receiver; but if the lands have not been so specified, or have been specified inaccurately, it shall be the duty of the receiver as soon as possible to specify such lands to the court, or to make any corrections which may be necessary in the specification of the lands given by the applicant. Identification of lands liable to be distrained on under s. 85 of the Tithe Act, 1836. See Form 8, and Forms 2, 3.

Rule 17.

Person to be appointed receiver.

17. Where an applicant in his notice of application states that he desires a certain person therein named to be receiver, the court shall appoint that person to be receiver unless for special reasons the court otherwise determines.

Where no such statement is made in the notice of application, or where the court does not appoint the person named in the notice of application to be receiver, the court shall appoint such person to be receiver as the court thinks fit.

The receiver, if not a permanent officer of the court, shall give such security (if any) as may be required by the court.

Notice by receiver to occupiers of land of his appointment.

18. The receiver shall, on his appointment, give notice as soon as possible of his appointment to the occupiers of the lands of which he is receiver, and shall require them to attorn as tenants to him, and to give him such particulars as he may require with respect to their tenancies.

Form 10.

Ascertainment of particulars of tenancy from occupier.

19. Where an occupier of lands refuses to give to the receiver such particulars as he may require with respect to his tenancy, the receiver shall apply to the court to issue a summons requiring the attendance of such occupier as a witness, and, if necessary, requiring the production of any books, deeds, papers, and writings in his possession or control.

Where tenant refuses to attorn, receiver to apply to court.

20. Where an occupier of lands refuses to attorn tenant to a receiver, and it becomes necessary to enforce the payment of rent in arrear, the receiver shall apply to the court to make an order authorising the receiver to distrain in the name of the owner of the lands, or such other order as the court thinks just under the circumstances of the case.

Payments by receiver.

21. The receiver shall pay into court without delay any sums received by him on account of the rents and profits of the lands, but may deduct therefrom the costs of any distress made by him, and also as remuneration for his services such amount as may have been allowed by the court not exceeding in any case five per cent. on the amount of the rents and profits received by him.

Application of money paid into court by receiver.

22. The registrar shall pay to the applicant any sums so paid into court by the receiver until the amount ordered by the court to be recovered is fully satisfied. When that amount has been so satisfied, the registrar shall discharge the order for a receiver, and pay the balance, if any, of any sums paid into court by the receiver to the person entitled to the rents and profits of the lands on the application of that person.

Procedure where receiver finds that lands are occupied by the owner.

Forms 12 and 13.

23. Where the receiver finds that any of the lands of which he is appointed receiver are occupied by the owner thereof, he shall, unless the owner pays the sum ordered to be recovered or attorns tenant to the receiver, make a report thereon to the court, and on any such report the court may make an order directing that the order for recovery be executed against the lands in question in manner provided by the Act where the lands are occupied by the owner thereof, but the operation of the order shall be suspended for ten clear days, or, if the owner gives notice of objection, for such further time as the court directs.

Forms 14 and 15.

Notice of the order shall be given to the person whom the receiver alleges to be the owner, stating that unless he files with the registrar notice of objection before that time, the order will take effect ten clear days after the day on which it was made. Rule 23.

If notice of objection is filed, the registrar shall cause a day to be fixed for the hearing of the objection and give notice thereof to the person who has filed notice of objection, and the registrar shall further suspend the operation of the order accordingly. Form 6.

Where an order is made under this rule the court shall appoint the person who has been appointed receiver to be the officer to distrain upon the lands, unless for special reasons the court otherwise determines.

REPORT THAT THERE IS NO SUFFICIENT DISTRESS.

24. Where the officer appointed by the court to distrain on lands occupied by an owner finds that there is no sufficient distress on the lands, and that it would be useless to attempt any further distress, he shall make a report in writing to that effect to the applicant and to the court. Report of result of distress by officer. Form 17.

APPORTIONMENT OF RENT WHERE A RECEIVER IS APPOINTED.

25. Where it appears to the court either from the notice of application, or at the hearing of an application, that any of the lands of the rents and profits of which a receiver is to be appointed are held at one rent together with other lands in another parish, the court shall, on the appointment of a receiver or as soon thereafter as possible, apportion the rent in proportion to the rateable value of the lands as appearing in the valuation list, or if none, in the then last poor rate, and the apportionment shall take effect immediately it is made. Apportionment of rent on making order for recovery. Form 8, and see Forms 2, 3.

26. Where no order of apportionment has been made and a receiver finds that any lands of the rent and profits of which he is appointed receiver are held at one rent together with other lands in another parish, he shall apply to the court to apportion that rent, and the court shall make an apportionment accordingly. Apportionment where rent not apportioned on making order.

27. Notice of an apportionment made under the last preceding rule shall be given by the registrar to the applicant and the respondent, and if neither applicant nor respondent before the expiration of five clear days of the service of the notice file a notice of objection, the apportionment shall take effect. Form 18. Notice to applicant and respondent of apportionment.

28. Where an applicant or respondent before the expiration of five clear days files a notice of objection to the apportionment so made, the registrar shall appoint a day not less than ten days after the filing of the notice of objection for the hearing thereof, and on the hearing the court shall make such order in relation thereto as the court thinks just. Notice shall be given to the respondent and applicant of the day appointed for hearing the objections at least six clear days before the time appointed. Form 18. Hearing of objection to apportionment. Forms 19—21.

PROCEDURE WHERE LANDS ARE LET AT A RENT NOT SUFFICIENT TO ENABLE THE RECEIVER TO RECOVER THE SUM ORDERED TO BE PAID.

29. Where a receiver appointed under the Act finds that the lands or any of them are let on such terms as not to reserve a rent sufficient to enable him to recover the sum ordered to be recovered, Report by receiver, that lands he shall make a report in writing to the court to that effect, together with a statement stating the terms on which the lands are let and showing the sum ordered to be recovered, the costs to be recovered, the sum, if any, already recovered, and the sum remaining due in respect of the sum ordered to be recovered and costs, and also showing whether under the order of recovery he is receiver of any lands besides those in respect of which he made such report.

Notice of report and opportunity for hearing. Forms 22 and 23.

30. The court, if satisfied on such report that a primâ facie case is made out for making an order under section four of the Act shall cause notice to be given—

(i.) to the occupier of the lands, naming a day for the hearing of the matter, and informing him that, unless the sum due is sooner paid, the order for recovery may be directed to be executed against him as if he was owner of the lands, and that if he has any objection to urge against such direction, he may appear and be heard on the day named, but that if he does not appear, the direction may be given in his absence;

(ii.) to the applicant and the owner of the lands, naming the day fixed for the hearing and informing them that they may appear and be heard on that day.

Order of court on hearing. Form 24.

31. The court, after hearing the occupier of the lands, the respondent, and the applicant, if they or any of them appear and wish to be heard, may make an order appointing an officer to distrain on the said lands for the amount mentioned in the order, and in any such order shall give such directions as to the continuance of the receiver or otherwise as the court thinks fit.

The order of distress shall include such sum on account of the costs incurred, either in respect of the duties of the receiver or otherwise, up to the date of the order as may be allowed by the court.

Where an order is made under this rule, the court shall appoint the person who has been appointed receiver to be the officer to distrain upon the lands, unless for special reasons the court otherwise determines.

Remission of Tithe Rentcharge under Section 8 of the Act.

TRADE UNION ACT, 1913.

[2 & 3 GEO. 5, C. 30.]

Sect. 3, sub-s. 1, places restrictions on any trade union (defined by sect. 2) from applying the funds of the union to certain political purposes; also provides for making rules, to be approved by the Registrar of Friendly Societies, with that object. Sect. 3, sub-s. 2, provides for any complaint of a breach of these rules being heard and remedied by an order of the Registrar of Friendly Societies, final as between the parties to the dispute, and which order on being recorded in the county court can be enforced as an order of that Court.

Registrar's duties are defined by rr. 3—6, infra.

Practice is governed by Order XLIB, post, p. 2318.

Section 3.

Restriction on application of funds for certain political purposes.

3.—(1) The funds of a trade union shall not be applied, either directly or in conjunction with any other trade union, association, or body, or otherwise indirectly, in the furtherance of the political objects to which this section applies (without prejudice to the furtherance of any other political objects), unless the furtherance of those objects has been approved as an object of the union by a resolution for the time being in force passed on a ballot of the members of the union taken in accordance with this Act for the purpose by a majority of the members voting; and where such a resolution is in force, unless rules, to be approved, whether the union is registered or not, by the Registrar of Friendly Societies, are in force providing—

(a) That any payments in the furtherance of those objects are to be made out of a separate fund (in this Act referred to as the political fund of the union), and for the exemption in accordance with this Act of any member of the union from any obligation to contribute to such a fund if he gives notice in accordance with this Act that he objects to contribute; and

(b) That a member who is exempt from the obligation to contribute to the political fund of the union shall not be excluded from any benefits of the union, or placed in any respect either directly or indirectly under any disability or at any disadvantage as compared with other members of the union (except in relation to the control or management of the political fund) by reason of his being so exempt, and that contribution to the political fund of the union shall not be made a condition for admission to the union.

(2) If any member of a trade union alleges that he is aggrieved by a breach of any rule made in pursuance of this section, he may complain to the Registrar of Friendly Societies, and the Registrar of Friendly Societies, after giving the complainant and any representative of the union an opportunity of being heard, may, if he considers that such a breach has been committed, make such order for remedying the breach as he thinks just under the circumstances; and any such order of the Registrar shall be binding and conclusive on all parties without appeal and shall not be removable into any court of law or restrainable by injunction, and on being recorded in the county court, may be enforced as if it had been an order of the county court. In the application of this provision to Scotland the sheriff court shall be substituted for the county court, and "interdict" shall be substituted for "injunction."

THE TRUSTEE ACT, 1893.

By sect. 67 of the County Courts Act, 1888, jurisdiction was conferred on county courts under the Trustee and Trustees Relief Acts then in force, in cases in which the trust estate or fund to which the action or matter relates did not exceed in amount or value 500*l.* The Trustee Act, 1893, practically repealed the whole of these Acts, and does not directly confer any jurisdiction on the county courts under the new Act. The only reference to a county court is to be found in sect. 46, which says that the provisions of the Act with respect to the High Court shall, in "their application to cases within the jurisdiction of a county court, include that court"; but it is confidently submitted that that section, assisted by sect. 38 of the Interpretation Act, 1889, which enacts that "where this Act or any Act passed after the commencement of this Act repeals and re-enacts, with or without modification, any provisions of a former Act, references in any other Act to the provisions so repealed, shall, unless the contrary intention appears, be construed as references to the provisions so re-enacted," gives the county courts jurisdiction in all those cases up to 500*l.* in which the provisions of the repealed Acts, which formerly applied, are substantially re-enacted.

Jurisdiction under sect. 67, County Courts Act, 1888, has been extended by sect. 25 of this Act to the appointment of a new trustee or trustees either in substitution for or in addition to any existing trustee; by sects. 26 to 31, to the making of vesting orders as to land in the cases set out in those sections; by sect. 35, to making of vesting orders as to stock and choses in action; and by sect. 42, as to the payment into court by trustees, provided in all these cases the value of the property does not exceed 500*l.* By sect. 70 of the County Courts Act, 1888, trustees may pay money into court, but that power is extended by sect. 42 of this 1893 Act to the majority of the trustees as if the same had been made on the authority of all the trustees.

Practice.]—The court in which to take proceedings is determined by sect. 75 to be that within the district of which the persons making the application or any of them reside; the proceedings are governed by Order XXXVIII., p. 620; all matters, except those under sect. 42 of the 1893 Act, shall be commenced by filing a petition (Rule 1); but in those under sect. 42 an affidavit containing particulars mentioned in Rule 9 shall be filed with the registrar.

Costs.]—In proceedings under sects. 67 and 70 of the County Courts Act, 1888, or under the equitable jurisdiction of the court, the judge may order the costs to be taxed under column B, where the subject-matter does not exceed 20*l.* See Ord. LIII., r. 12, p. 646.

Power of appointing new trustees.

10.—(1) Where a trustee, either original or substituted, and whether appointed by a court or otherwise, is dead, or remains out of the United Kingdom for more than twelve months, or desires to be discharged from all or any of the trusts or powers reposed in or conferred on him, or refuses or is unfit to act therein, or is incapable of acting therein, then the person or persons nominated for the purpose of appointing new trustees by the instrument, if any, creating the trust, or if there is no such person, or no such person able and willing to act, then the surviving or continuing trustees or trustee for the time being, or the personal representatives of the last surviving or continuing trustee, may by writing, appoint another person or other persons to be a trustee or trustees in the place of the trustee dead, remaining out of the United Kingdom, desiring to be discharged, refusing, or being unfit or being incapable, as aforesaid (a). Section 10.

NOTE (a).—As to appointment by surviving trustee of solicitor who had acted in a dispute between the trustees, see Cotter, In re; Jennings v. Nye, (1915) 1 Ch. 307; 84 L. J. Ch. 337. See Sichel's Trusts, In re, (1916) 85 L. J. Ch. 285.

(2) On the appointment of a new trustee for the whole or any part of trust property—

(b) a separate set of trustees may be appointed for any part of the trust property held on trusts distinct from those relating to any other part or parts of the trust property, notwithstanding that no new trustees or trustee are or is to be appointed for other parts of the trust property, and any existing trustee may be appointed or remain one of such separate set of trustees; or, if only one trustee was originally appointed, then one separate trustee may be so appointed for the first-mentioned part; and

(c) it shall not be obligatory to appoint more than one new trustee where only one trustee was originally appointed, or to fill up the original number of trustees where more than two trustees were originally appointed; but, except where only one trustee was originally appointed, a trustee shall not be discharged under this section from his trust unless there will be at least two trustees to perform the trust; and

(d) any assurance or thing requisite for vesting the trust property, or any part thereof, jointly in the persons who are the trustees, shall be executed or done.

For the practice of the court in discharging a trustee where there is a continuing trustee, see Re Gardiner, (1886) 33 Ch. D. 590; 55 L. J. Ch. 714; Re Batho, (1888) 39 Ch. D. 189; 58 L. J. Ch. 32; for definition of continuing trustee, see Re Coates to Parsons, (1887) 34 Ch. D. 370; 56 L. J. Ch. 242.

(3) Every new trustee so appointed, as well before as after all the trust property becomes by law, or by assurance, or otherwise, vested in him, shall have the same powers, authorities, and discretions, and may in all respects act as if he had been originally appointed a trustee by the instrument, if any, creating the trust.

(4) The provisions of this section relative to a trustee who is dead include the case of a person nominated trustee in a will but dying before the testator, and those relative to a continuing trustee include a refusing or retiring trustee, if willing to act in the execution of the provisions of this section.

(5) This section applies only if and as far as a contrary intention is not expressed in the instrument, if any, creating the trust, and shall have effect subject to the terms of that instrument and to any provisions therein contained.

(6) This section applies to trusts created either before or after the commencement of this Act.

Retirement of trustee.

trust, and if his co-trustees and such other person, if any, as is empowered to appoint trustees, by deed consent to the discharge of the trustee, and to the vesting in the co-trustees alone of the trust property, then the trustee desirous of being discharged shall be deemed to have retired from the trust, and shall, by the deed, be discharged therefrom under this Act, without any new trustee being appointed in his place.

(2) Any assurance or thing requisite for vesting the trust property in the continuing trustees alone shall be executed or done.

(3) This section applies only if and as far as a contrary intention is not expressed in the instrument, if any, creating the trust, and shall have effect subject to the terms of that instrument and to any provisions therein contained.

(4) This section applies to trusts created either before or after the commencement of this Act.

See sect. 5, Public Trustee Act, 1906.

Vesting of trust property in new or continuing trustees.

12.—(1) Where a deed by which a new trustee is appointed to perform any trust contains a declaration by the appointor to the effect that any estate or interest in any land subject to the trust, or in any chattel so subject, or the right to recover and receive any debt or other thing in action so subject, shall vest in the persons who by virtue of the deed become and are the trustees for performing the trust, that declaration shall, without any conveyance or assignment, operate to vest in those persons, as joint tenants, and for the purposes of the trust, that estate, interest, or right.

(2) Where a deed by which a retiring trustee is discharged under this Act contains such a declaration as is in this section mentioned by the retiring and continuing trustees, and by the other person, if any, empowered to appoint trustees, that declaration shall, without any conveyance or assignment, operate to vest in the continuing trustees alone, as joint tenants, and for the purposes of the trust, the estate, interest or right to which the declaration relates.

(3) This section does not extend to any legal estate or interest in copyhold or customary land, or to land conveyed by way of mortgage for securing money subject to the trust, or to any such share, stock, annuity, or property as is only transferable in books kept by a company or other body, or in manner directed by or under Act of Parliament.

(4) For purposes of registration of the deed in any registry, the person or persons making the declaration shall be deemed the conveying party or parties, and the conveyance shall be deemed to be made by him or them under a power conferred by this Act.

(5) This section applies only to deeds executed after the thirty-first of December one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

with power to vary any contract for sale, and to buy in at any auction, or to rescind any contract for sale and to re-sell, without being answerable for any loss. Section 13.

(2) This section applies only if and as far as a contrary intention is not expressed in the instrument creating the trust or power, and shall have effect subject to the terms of that instrument and to the provisions therein contained.

(3) This section applies only to a trust or power created by an instrument coming into operation after the thirty-first of December one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

Power to sell subject to depreciatory conditions.

14.—(1) No sale made by a trustee shall be impeached by any beneficiary upon the ground that any of the conditions subject to which the sale was made may have been unnecessarily depreciatory unless it also appears that the consideration for the sale was thereby rendered inadequate.

(2) No sale made by a trustee shall, after the execution of the conveyance, be impeached as against the purchaser upon the ground that any of the conditions subject to which the sale was made may have been unnecessarily depreciatory, unless it appears that the purchaser was acting in collusion with the trustee at the time when the contract for sale was made.

(3) No purchaser, upon any sale made by a trustee, shall be at liberty to make any objection against the title upon the ground aforesaid.

(4) This section applies only to sales made after the twenty-fourth day of December one thousand eight hundred and eighty-eight.

18.—(1) A trustee may insure against loss or damage by fire any building or other insurable property to any amount (including the amount of any insurance already on foot) not exceeding three equal fourth parts of the full value of such building or property, and pay the premiums for such insurance out of the income thereof or out of the income of any other property subject to the same trusts, without obtaining the consent of any person who may be entitled wholly or partly to such income.

(2) This section does not apply to any building or property which a trustee is bound forthwith to convey absolutely to any beneficiary upon being requested to do so.

(3) This section applies to trusts created either before or after the commencement of this Act, but nothing in this section shall authorise any trustee to do anything which he is in express terms forbidden to do, or to omit to do anything which he is in express terms directed to do, by the instrument creating the trust.

(2) If money is required to pay for the renewal, the trustee effecting the renewal may pay the same out of any money then in his hands in trust for the persons beneficially interested in the lands to be comprised in the renewed lease, and if he has not in his hands sufficient money for the purpose, he may raise the money required by mortgage of the hereditaments to be comprised in the renewed lease, or of any other hereditaments for the time being subject to the uses or trusts to which those hereditaments are subject, and no person advancing money upon a mortgage purporting to be under this power shall be bound to see that the money is wanted, or that no more is raised than is wanted for the purpose.

(3) This section applies to trusts created either before or after the commencement of this Act, but nothing in this section shall authorise any trustee to do anything which he is in express terms forbidden to do, or to omit to do anything which he is in express terms directed to do, by the instrument creating the trust.

Section is only to protect trustee, not to alter the law as between tenant for life and remainderman (Re Baring, (1893) 1 Ch. 61; 62 L. J. Ch. 50).

Power of trustee to give receipts.

20.—(1) The receipt in writing of any trustee for any money, securities, or other personal property or effects payable, transferable, or deliverable to him under any trust or power shall be a sufficient discharge for the same, and shall effectually exonerate the person paying, transferring, or delivering the same from seeing to the application or being answerable for any loss or misapplication thereof.

(2) This section applies to trusts created either before or after the commencement of this Act.

composition or arrangement, releases, and other things as to him or them seem expedient, without being responsible for any loss occasioned by any act or thing so done by him or them in good faith. Section 21.

(3) This section applies only if and as far as a contrary intention is not expressed in the instrument, if any, creating the trust, and shall have effect subject to the terms of that instrument, and to the provisions therein contained.

(4) This section applies to executorships, administratorships and trusts constituted or created either before or after the commencement of this Act.

22.—(1) Where a power or trust is given to or vested in two or more trustees jointly, then, unless the contrary is expressed in the instrument, if any, creating the power or trust, the same may be exercised or performed by the survivor or survivors of them for the time being. (2) This section applies only to trusts constituted after or created by instruments coming into operation after the thirty-first day of December one thousand eight hundred and eighty-one.

23. A trustee acting or paying money in good faith under or in pursuance of any power of attorney shall not be liable for any such act or payment by reason of the fact that at the time of the payment or act the person who gave the power of attorney was dead or had done some act to avoid the power, if this fact was not known to the trustee at the time of his so acting or paying. Exoneration of trustees in respect of certain powers of attorney.

Provided that nothing in this section shall affect the right of any person entitled to the money against the person to whom the payment is made, and that the person so entitled shall have the same remedy against the person to whom the payment is made as he would have had against the trustee.

24. A trustee shall, without prejudice to the provisions of the instrument, if any, creating the trust, be chargeable only for money and securities actually received by him notwithstanding his signing any receipt for the sake of conformity, and shall be answerable and accountable only for his own acts, receipts, neglects, or defaults, and not for those of any other trustee, nor for any banker, broker, or other person with whom any trust moneys or securities may be deposited, nor for the insufficiency or deficiency of any securities, nor for any other loss unless the same happens through his own wilful default; and may reimburse himself, or pay or discharge out of the trust premises, all expenses incurred in or about the execution of his trusts or powers. Implied indemnity of trustees

Powers of the Court.

Appointment of New Trustees and Vesting Orders.

25.—(1) The High Court, may whenever it is expedient to appoint a new trustee or new trustees, and it is found inexpedient, difficult, or impracticable so to do without the assistance of the court, make an order for the appointment of a new trustee or new trustees either in substitution for or in addition to any existing trustee or trustees, or although there is no existing trustee. In particular and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing Power of the court to appoint new trustees.

Section 25.

provision, the court may make an order for the appointment of a new trustee in substitution for a trustee who is convicted of felony, or is a bankrupt.

NOTE.—By 4 & 5 Geo. V. c. 47, s. 18, power is given to any bankruptcy court to appoint a new trustee of any deed of arrangement.

(2) An order under this section, and any consequential vesting order or conveyance, shall not operate further or otherwise as a discharge to any former or continuing trustee than an appointment of new trustees under any power for that purpose contained in any instrument would have operated.

(3) Nothing in this section shall give power to appoint an executor or administrator.

Vesting orders as to land.

26. In any of the following cases, namely :—

(i.) Where the High Court appoints or has appointed a new trustee ; and

(ii.) Where a trustee entitled to or possessed of any land, or entitled to a contingent right therein, either solely or jointly with any other person,—

(c) cannot be found ; and

(iii.) Where it is uncertain who was the survivor of two or more trustees jointly entitled to or possessed of any land ; and

(v.) Where there is no heir or personal representative to a trustee who was entitled to or possessed of land and has died intestate as to that land, or where it is uncertain who is the heir or personal representative or devisee of a trustee who was entitled to or possessed of land and is dead ; and

(vi.) Where a trustee jointly or solely entitled to or possessed of any land, or entitled to a contingent right therein, has been required, by or on behalf of a person entitled to require a conveyance of the land or a release of the right, to convey the land or to release the right, and has wilfully refused or neglected to convey the land or release the right for twenty-eight days after the date of the requirement ;

the High Court may make an order (in this Act called a vesting order), vesting the land in any such person in any such manner and for any such estate as the court may direct, or releasing or disposing of the contingent right to such person as the court may direct.

Provided that—

(a) Where the order is consequential on the appointment of a new trustee the land shall be vested for such estate as the court may direct in the persons who on the appointment are the trustees ; and

(b) Where the order relates to a trustee entitled jointly with another person, and such trustee is out of the jurisdiction of the High Court or cannot be found, the land or right shall be vested in such other person, either alone or with some other person.

Section 27.

Orders as to contingent rights of unborn persons.

27. Where any land is subject to a contingent right in an unborn person or class of unborn persons who, on coming into existence would, in respect thereof, become entitled to or possessed of the land on any trust, the High Court may make an order releasing the land from the contingent right, or may make an order vesting in any person the estate to or of which the unborn person or class of unborn persons would, on coming into existence, be entitled or possessed in the land.

Vesting order in place of conveyance by infant mortgagee.

28. Where any person entitled to or possessed of land, or entitled to a contingent right in land, by way of security for money, is an infant the High Court may make an order vesting or releasing or disposing of the land or right in like manner as in the case of an infant trustee.

Vesting order in place of conveyance by heir, or devisee of heir, &c., or personal representative of mortgagee.

29. Where a mortgagee of land has died without having entered into the possession or into the receipt of the rents and profits thereof, and the money due in respect of the mortgage has been paid to a person entitled to receive the same, or that last-mentioned person consents to any order for the reconveyance of the land, then the High Court may make an order vesting the land in such person or persons in such manner and for such estate as the court may direct in any of the following cases, namely,—

(a) Where an heir or personal representative or devisee of the mortgagee is out of the jurisdiction of the High Court or cannot be found; and

(b) Where an heir or personal representative or devisee of the mortgagee on demand made by or on behalf of a person entitled to require a conveyance of the land has stated in writing that he will not convey the same or does not convey the same for the space of twenty-eight days next after a proper deed for conveying the land has been tendered to him by or on behalf of the person so entitled; and

(c) Where it is uncertain which of several devisees of the mortgagee was the survivor; and

(d) Where it is uncertain as to the survivor of several devisees of the mortgagee or as to the heir or personal representative of the mortgagee whether he is living or dead; and

(e) Where there is no heir or personal representative to a mortgagee who has died intestate as to the land, or where the mortgagee has died and it is uncertain who is his heir or personal representative or devisee.

30. Where any court gives a judgment or makes an order directing the sale or mortgage of any land, every person who is entitled to or possessed of the land, or entitled to a contingent right therein (a), and is a party to the action or proceeding in which the judgment or order is given or made or is otherwise bound by the judgment or order, shall be deemed to be so entitled or possessed, as the case may be, as a trustee within the meaning of this Act; and the High Court may, if it thinks expedient, make an order vesting the land or any part thereof or such estate as that court thinks fit in the purchaser or mortgagee or in any other person.

NOTE.—(a) Words omitted repealed by 57 & 58 Vict. c. 10, s. 1.

Vesting order consequential on judgment for specific performance, &c.

31. Where a judgment is given for the specific performance of a contract concerning any land, or for the partition, or sale in lieu of partition, or exchange, of any land, or generally where any judgment is given for the conveyance of any land either in cases arising out of the doctrine of election or otherwise, the High Court may declare that any of the parties to the action are trustees of the land or any part thereof within the meaning of this Act, or may declare that the interests of unborn persons who might claim under any party to the action, or under the will or voluntary settlement of any person deceased who was during his lifetime a party to the contract or transactions concerning which the judgment is given, are the interests of persons who, on coming into existence, would be trustees within the meaning of this Act, and thereupon the High Court may make a vesting order relating to the rights of those persons, born and unborn, as if they had been trustees.

Effect of vesting order.

32. A vesting order under any of the foregoing provisions shall, in the case of a vesting order consequential on the appointment of a new trustee, have the same effect as if the persons who before the appointment were the trustees (if any) had duly executed all proper conveyances of the land for such estate as the High Court directs, or if there is no such person, or no such person of full capacity, then as if such person had existed and been of full capacity and had duly executed all proper conveyances of the land for such estate as the court directs, and shall in every other case have the same effect as if the trustee or other person or description or class of persons to whose rights or supposed rights the said provisions respectively relate had been an ascertained and existing person of full capacity, and had executed a conveyance or release to the effect intended by the order.

Power to appoint person to convey.

33. In all cases where a vesting order can be made under any of the foregoing provisions, the High Court may, if it is more convenient, appoint a person to convey the land or release the contingent right, and a conveyance or release by that person in conformity with the order shall have the same effect as an order under the appropriate provision.

Effect of vesting order as to copyhold.

34.—(1) Where an order vesting copyhold land in any person is made under this Act with the consent of the lord or lady of the manor, the land shall vest accordingly without surrender or admittance.

(2) Where an order is made under this Act appointing any person to convey any copyhold land, that person shall execute and do all assurances and things for completing the assurance of the land; and the lord and lady of the manor and every other person shall, subject to the customs of the manor and the usual payments, be bound to make admittance to the land and to do all other acts for completing the assurance thereof, as if the persons in whose place an appointment is made were free from disability and had executed and done those assurances and things.

Vesting orders as to stock and choses in action.

35.—(1) In any of the following cases, namely:—

(i.) Where the High Court appoints or has appointed a new trustee; and

(d) neglects or refuses to transfer stock or receive the dividends or income thereof, or to sue for or recover a chose in action, according to the direction of the person absolutely entitled thereto for twenty-eight days next after a request in writing has been made to him by the person so entitled, or
(e) neglects or refuses to transfer stock or receive the dividends or income thereof, or to sue for or recover a chose in action for twenty-eight days next after an order of the High Court for that purpose has been served on him ; or the High Court may make an order vesting the right to transfer or call for a transfer of stock, or to receive the dividends or income thereof, or to sue for or recover a chose in action, in any such person as the court may appoint :

(iii.) Where it is uncertain whether a trustee entitled alone or jointly with another person to stock or to a chose in action is alive or dead,

Provided that—

(a) Where the order is consequential on the appointment by the court of a new trustee, the right shall be vested in the persons who, on the appointment, are the trustees ; and
(b) Where the person whose right is dealt with by the order was entitled jointly with another person, the right shall be vested in that last-mentioned person either alone or jointly with any other person whom the court may appoint.

(2) In all cases where a vesting order can be made under this section, the court may, if it is more convenient, appoint some proper person to make or join in making the transfer.

(3) The person in whom the right to transfer or call for the transfer of any stock is vested by an order of the court under this Act, may transfer the stock to himself or any other person, according to the order, and the Banks of England and Ireland and all other companies shall obey every order under this section according to its tenor.

(4) After notice in writing of an order under this section it shall not be lawful for the Bank of England or of Ireland or any other company to transfer any stock to which the order relates or to pay any dividends thereon except in accordance with the order.

(5) The High Court may make declarations and give directions concerning the manner in which the right to any stock or chose in action vested under the provisions of this Act is to be exercised.

(6) The provisions of this Act as to vesting orders shall apply to shares in ships registered under the Acts relating to merchant shipping as if they were stock.

36.—(1) An order under this Act for the appointment of a new trustee or concerning any land, stock, or chose in action subject to a trust, may be made on the application of any person beneficially interested in the land, stock, or chose in action, whether under disability or not, or on the application of any person duly appointed trustee thereof.

(2) An order under this Act concerning any land, stock, or chose in action subject to a mortgage may be made on the application

Section 36. of any person beneficially interested in the equity of redemption, whether under disability or not, or of any person interested in the money secured by the mortgage.

A person with a contingent interest is beneficially interested (Re Shepperd, (1863) 32 L. J. Ch. 23).

Powers of new trustee appointed by court.

37. Every trustee appointed by a court of competent jurisdiction shall, as well before as after the trust property becomes by law, or by assurance, or otherwise, vested in him, have the same powers, authorities, and discretions, and may in all respects act as if he had been originally appointed a trustee by the instrument, if any, creating the trust.

Power to charge costs on trust estate.

38. The High Court may order the costs and expenses of and incident to any application for an order appointing a new trustee, or for a vesting order, or of and incident to any such order, or any conveyance or transfer in pursuance thereof, to be paid or raised out of the land or personal estate in respect whereof the same is made, or out of the income thereof, or to be borne and paid in such manner and by such persons as to the court may seem just.

Trustees of charities.

39. The powers conferred by this Act as to vesting orders may be exercised for vesting any land, stock, or chose in action in any trustee of a charity or society over which the High Court would have jurisdiction upon action duly instituted whether the appointment of the trustee was made by instrument under a power or by the High Court under its general or statutory jurisdiction.

Orders made upon certain allegations to be conclusive evidence.

53 & 54 Vict. c. 5.

40. Where a vesting order is made as to any land under this Act or under the Lunacy Act, 1890, or under any Act relating to lunacy in Ireland, founded on an allegation of the personal incapacity of a trustee or mortgagee, or on an allegation that a trustee or the heir or personal representative or devisee of a mortgagee is out of the jurisdiction of the High Court or cannot be found, or that it is uncertain which of several trustees or which of several devisees of a mortgagee was the survivor, or whether the last trustee or the heir or personal representative or last surviving devisee of a mortgagee is living or dead, or on an allegation that any trustee or mortgagee has died intestate without an heir or has died and it is not known who is his heir or personal representative or devisee, the fact that the order has been so made shall be conclusive evidence of the matter so alleged in any court upon any question as to the validity of the order; but this section shall not prevent the High Court from directing a reconveyance or the payment of costs occasioned by any such order if improperly obtained.

Application of vesting order to land out of England.

41. The powers of the High Court in England to make vesting orders under this Act shall extend to all land and personal estate in Her Majesty's dominions, except Scotland.

Miscellaneous.

43. Where in any action the High Court is satisfied that diligent search has been made for any person who, in the character of trustee, is made a defendant in any action, to serve him with a process of the court, and that he cannot be found, the court may hear and determine the action and give judgment therein against that person in his character of a trustee, as if he had been duly served, or had entered an appearance in the action, and had also appeared by his counsel and solicitor at the hearing, but without prejudice to any interest he may have in the matters in question in the action in any other character. Power to give judgment in absence of a trustee.

44.—(1) Where a trustee (a) is for the time being authorised to dispose of land by way of sale, exchange, partition, or enfranchisement, the High Court may sanction his so disposing of the land with an exception or reservation of any minerals, and with or without rights and powers of or incidental to the working, getting, or carrying away of the minerals, or so disposing of the minerals, with or without the said rights or powers, separately from the residue of the land. Power to sanction sale of land or minerals separately.

(2) Any such trustee (a), with the said sanction previously obtained, may, unless forbidden by the instrument creating the trust or direction, from time to time, without any further application to the court, so dispose of any such land or minerals.

45.—(1) Where a trustee commits a breach of trust at the instigation or request or with the consent in writing of a beneficiary the High Court may, if it thinks fit, and notwithstanding that the beneficiary may be a married woman entitled for her separate use and restrained from anticipation, make such order as to the court seems just, for impounding all or any part of the interest of the beneficiary in the trust estate by way of indemnity to the trustee or person claiming through him. Power to make beneficiary indemnity for breach of trust.

49. This Act, and every order purporting to be made under this Act shall be a complete indemnity to the banks of England and Ireland, and to all persons for any acts done pursuant thereto; and it shall not be necessary for the bank or for any person to inquire concerning the propriety of the order, or whether the court by which it was made had jurisdiction to make the same.

EVERY LAWYER would like to have a set of LAW REPORTS in his library, but many feel that they are not justified in going to the expense of one.

There is, however, a substitute for the Reports which can be obtained very cheaply, and is, perhaps, more generally useful in practice than the Reports themselves. It is

MEWS' DIGEST OF ENGLISH CASE LAW

Mews' Digest contains a condensed summary of the cases, embodying the point decided. The cases are not printed in chronological order, but are gathered together and methodically arranged in logical sequence, under the subjects to which they refer, so that the enquirer may find all the cases on a point of law collected under one section.

No one series of Reports contains all the cases, but Mews' Digest contains cases from all series of Reports. It contains some decided as far back as the reign of Queen Elizabeth. Mews' Digest contains in 17 volumes the cases to the end of 1915.

These 17 volumes can be obtained for 21 monthly payments of 10s.
